

Notes on the Contributors

Nicole G. Albert holds a doctorate ès Lettres (Paris IV-Sorbonne) and is the author of the book Saphisme et Décadence dans Paris fin-de-siècle (2005, Éditions La Martinière) as well as many articles on homosexuality. With Éditions GKC she is editing a collection devoted to republishing sapphic texts. Address: 10 rue St Sébastien, F-75011 Paris, France.
[email: albert.nicoleg@tele2.fr]

Eva Cantarella is professor of Roman law at Milan University, where she also teaches ancient Greek law. She is director of Milan University's Institute of Roman Law, and chief editor of Dike. Rivista di storia del diritto greco ed ellenistico, a journal published by the university. She has taught at several European and American universities and institutions, and was visiting professor in the classics department at the University of Texas, Austin, and the Global Law School Program of the New York School of Law. She is the author of more than 90 articles, editor of four books and author of twelve; many of them have been translated into English, German, French, Spanish and Greek. Among her books translated into French are: Selon la nature, L'usage et la loi, La bisexualité dans le monde ancien, 1991; Ithaque. De la vengeance d'Ulysse à la naissance du droit, 2002. Address: Corso Magenta 87, I-20123 Milan, Italy.
[email: eva.cantarella@unimi.it]

Malek Chebel an anthropologist and psychoanalyst, is a specialist in the Arab world and Islam. He was born in 1953, in Skikda (Algeria). In 1980 he gained a doctorate in clinical psychopathology and psychoanalysis from Paris VII, then a doctorate in anthropology and history of religions from Jussieu (1982), and a doctorate in political science from the Paris IEP (1984). In 1995 he obtained a qualification to supervise research from the Sorbonne. He has written around twenty books on the imaginary, symbols, sexuality, love, refinement and The Thousand and One Nights. He is the author of several books on Muslim society: Le Corps en Islam, 1999; Du Désir, 2000; Le Sujet en islam, 2002; Psychanalyse des Mille et Une Nuits, 2002; Dictionnaire amoureux de l'islam, 2004. Address: c/o Diogenes.

Pierre-Emmanuel Dauzat is a translator of various languages and works, and the author of several essays, among them Le Suicide du Christ, 1998; Le Nihilisme chrétien, 2001; L'Invention de Marie-Madeleine, 2001; Les Pères de leur mère, 2001. He was project director for the Cahier de l'Herne devoted to George Steiner, 2003. Forthcoming: Judas and Traduire et trahir. Essai sur le contresens volontaire. Address: c/o Diogenes.

Wendy Doniger a historian of religions, is the Mircea Eliade Professor of the History of Religions at the University of Chicago. She has devoted her work to highlighting the great themes of Hindu mythology. Holder of several international honors, she has published a number of translations from Sanskrit texts and books on Hindu and comparative mythology, among them Siva, The Erotic Ascetic, 1993; The Bedtrick: Tales of Sex and Masquerade, 2000; and The Woman Who Pretended to Be Who She Was, 2005. Address: Swift Hall, University of Chicago, 1025 East 58th St, Chicago, IL 60637, USA. [email: don8@midway.uchicago.edu]

Copyright © ICPHS 2005

SAGE: London, Thousand Oaks, CA and New Delhi, <http://dio.sagepub.com>

DOI: 10.1177/0392192105059492

Elsa Dorlin is associate professor in philosophy and the history of science at the University of Paris I Panthéon-Sorbonne. Among her publications are articles: 'Corps contre Nature – Stratégies actuelles de la critique féministe', L'Homme et la Société, December 2003 to May 2004; 'Maladies des femmes', 'Hermaphrodismes', in D. Lecourt (ed.), Dictionnaire de la pensée médicale, 2004; 'Les putes sont des hommes comme les autres', Raisons Politiques, August 2003; 'Autopsie du sexe', Temps Modernes, June–July 2002; and books: L'Évidence de l'égalité des sexes: une philosophie oubliée au 17^e siècle, collection 'Bibliothèque du féminisme', 2001. Address: UFR de philosophie, 17 rue de la Sorbonne, 75005 Paris, France. [email: edorlin@hotmail.com]

Michael Groneberg is a philosopher with research supervisor qualification at Fribourg University in Switzerland. He has three books on the stocks, one on 'intersexes' and their treatment at birth, one on male sexuality (both with Academic Press, Fribourg), and one on the topic of future contingents (his habilitation thesis). Articles on sex and gender include: 'A propos du sexe de l'âme' in Studia Philosophica Vol. 62, 'Le corps dans la philosophie – Der Körper in der Philosophie', 2003; 'Switch Hitters: Männlichkeit und Weiblichkeit in Reinkultur? An den Grenzen der Geschlechterstudien', in Jahrbuch für Internationale Germanistik, 2000; Band 10 Geschlechterforschung und Literaturwissenschaft, 2001. Address: Département de Philosophie, Université de Fribourg, Ave. de l'Europe 20, CH-1700 Fribourg, Switzerland. [email: michael.groneberg@unifr.ch]

Moshe Idel is titular professor in the Max Cooper chair of Jewish thought at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. He gave a series of lectures at the Collège de France in 2001. He is the author of a large number of books, several of them translated into French: L'Expérience mystique d'Abraham Aboulafia, 1989; Maïmonide et la mystique juive, 1991; Le Golem, 1992; La Cabale. Nouvelles perspectives, 1998 ; Les Chemins de la Kabbale, 2000; and Absorbing Perfections, 2002. Address: Institute of Jewish Studies, Faculty of Humanities, Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Mt Scopus, Jerusalem 91905, Israel. [email: idelm@mssc.huji.ac.il]

Cécile Ladjali is a writer and professeur agrégé and gained a doctorate ès Lettres from the University of Paris IV Sorbonne with a thesis entitled Hermaphrodite et androgynie dans le texte décadent. She has published Murmures, 2000, with a preface by George Steiner; Tohu-bohu, with a preface by Daniel Mesguich; Éloge de la transmission, conversations with G. Steiner, 2003; and a novel, Les Souffleurs, 2004. Address: 209 avenue Daumesnil, F-75012 Paris, France.

Anne Lettrée is a psychologist by training, and is passionate about history and history of art. In 1986 she opened her first gallery mainly devoted to the Paris School, post-impressionism and modern art. In 1993 she moved to the Left Bank, focusing on contemporary art. She has taken part in many international art fairs. Her gallery is currently giving priority to exchanges between France and China. Address: Galerie Anne Lettrée, 46 rue de Seine, F-75006 Paris, France.

Laure Murat has a degree from the EHESS, and is an independent researcher in the field of cultural history. Author of several books, she has published notably: La Maison du docteur Blanche: Histoire d'un asile et de ses pensionnaires, de Nerval à Maupassant, 2001 ; Goncourt de la biographie et Passage de l'Odéon: Sylvia Beach, Adrienne Monnier et la vie littéraire de l'entre-deux-guerres, 2003. Her study on Le Troisième sexe is forthcoming with Fayard in 2006. Address:

Institute for Advanced Study, School of Social Science, 177 Weyl Lane, Princeton, NJ 08540, USA. [email: lm@ias.edu]

Jean-Jacques Nattiez is titular professor of musicology in the Faculty of Music at the University of Montreal. A promoter of music semiology, he is the author of many articles, a novel, Opera, 1997, and several books on musicology. His work is continuing with experimentation, on the music of the Inuit, the Aïnou and the Baganda, with a theoretical model he is developing. He has designed a type of compact disc organized by theme (Jeux vocaux des Inuits, 1990), which involves intervention by the listener, a significant innovation in the field of ethnomusicology. Among his recent writings are: Wagner androgyne, 1990; Le combat de Chronos et d'Orphée, 1993; since 1997 he has been working on an encyclopedia of music in five volumes, of which the first was brought out in March 2001 by the Italian publisher Einaudi (in French: Musiques; une encyclopédie pour le xxi^e siècle, volume 2: Les savoirs musicaux, published in 2004). Address: Faculty of Music, University of Montreal, CP 61-28, Succ. Centre-ville, Montreal, Quebec, Canada H3C 3J7. [email: jean-jacques.nattiez@umontreal.ca]

George Robb is professor of the history of the United Kingdom and Ireland at William Paterson University in New Jersey, USA. He has published various studies dealing with the history of sexuality, criminality and the arts. Recent books are: Disorder in the Court: Trials and Sexual Conflict at the Turn of the Century, 1999; and British Culture and the First World War, 2002. He is working on the history of 19th-century family law. Address: Department of History, William Paterson University, Wayne, NJ 07470, USA. [email: robbg@wpunj.edu]

Vanessa Rousseau is teaching philosophy at lycée Hattemer in Paris during 2004/5, having been awarded her PhD in history in November 2003 from the University of Paris XIII, with honours. The subject of her research was 'The Taste for Blood: Beliefs and Controversies in Western Christianity', and builds on her masters degree in philosophy, at the University of Paris I (Panthéon-Sorbonne) on 'original sin and the Fall', and a first degree in philosophy from the same institution. In 2005 her publications include: Le goût du sang (Armand Colin); 'Le gras: une phobie religieuse' – an interview with Claire Charter for L'express; and 'Faut-il avoir peur du sang?' in L'Histoire. Forthcoming in 2006 is: L'antijudaïsme et ses expressions, and in 2008 she will have four entries in the Dictionnaire historique et critique du racisme (PUF). Address: 5 bis rue Duranti, F-75011 Paris, France. [email: senancour.vanou@wanadoo.fr]

Lydia R. Ruprecht is Canadian, was born in Mexico in 1969 and studied social sciences (especially international relations and political sociology) in Montreal (BSc), Paris (maîtrise; DEA; doctoral studies) and Colchester (certificate). Since 1994 she has been working at UNESCO on questions relating to equality between the sexes and is currently programme specialist in the Section for Women and Equality between the Sexes, Office of Strategic Planning. Her interest in the subject has led her, over the last few years, to work on these problems with the private (PriceWaterhouseCoopers and the Evian Group from IMD Business School) and community sectors (ENDA-dialogue politique, Senegal). Address: c/o Diogenes.

Bernard Saladin d'Anglure first studied social anthropology in Canada, then France, before joining the CNRS in 1964 at the Laboratoire d'Anthropologie Sociale, directed by C. Lévi-Strauss. In 1971 he became head of the anthropology department at Laval University (Québec), where he taught for 30 years. He founded the journal Études Inuit/Inuit Studies in 1977, international conferences on Inuit studies in 1978 and the Groupe d'Études Inuit et Circumpolaires, which recently became the Centre Interuniversitaire d'études et de recherches autochtones at Laval University. He spent almost eight years in the field studying the Inuit, whose language he speaks. In 2002 he translated and edited SANAAQ, the first Inuit novel, written in syllabic characters by a woman, Mitiarjuk, who has never been to school; he has just completed Naître, renaître et changer de sexe dans la tradition orale des Inuit, a book to be published by Gallimard in the collection 'Le Langage des Contes'. In 2003 he received the Prix de la Recherche scientifique sur le Nord in Canada. Address: 10 rue Chairedon, F-31300 Toulouse, France. [email: b.saladin-d-anglure@ant.ulaval.ca]

Marie-Blanche Tahon is a lecturer in sociology and a researcher affiliated to the Centre interdisciplinaire de recherche sur la citoyenneté et les minorités at Ottawa University. She is the author of various articles and several books, among them: La famille désinstituée, 1995; Sociologie des rapports de sexe, 2004; Vers l'indifférence des sexes? Union civile et filiation au Québec, 2004. Address: Sociology, University of Ottawa, 550 Cumberland, Ottawa, Ontario K1N 6N5, Canada. [email: mbtahon@uottawa.ca]

Catherine Vidal is a neurobiologist and Research Director at the Institut Pasteur in Paris. She holds a PhD and a Doctorat d'État in neurophysiology (University of Paris VI). Her main research work has been concerned with the physiology of pain, the role of the cerebral cortex in memory and attention, and brain infection by the AIDS virus. Her current research relates to the neuropathology of prion diseases. Besides basic research, she is involved in scientific communication on brain research to the media. She is the author of a large number of publications, among them the book Cerveau, sexe et pouvoir, 2005, Belin ed. Address: CEA, GIDTIP, Bâtiment 60, 18 route du Panorama, F-92265 Fontenay aux Roses, France. [email: catherine.vidal@cea.fr]

Wolfgang Wackernagel is a doctor of philosophy from Geneva University and has been an invited lecturer, in particular at the universities of Brussels, Oxford and Zurich in 2003–4. He is the author of many publications in three languages, among them four books in French on Meister Eckhart (themes: ethics of the image, mystical poems, spiritual counsel and divine consolation); and Henri Suso, Tel un aigle. Initiation à la vie spirituelle, translated, introduced and annotated by Wolfgang Wackernagel, 2005. He has published in Diogenes, among other work: '2000 Years of Heresy', no. 187, 1999; and 'The Genius of Our Lady Nature', a review of Pierre Hadot's Le voile d'Isis, no. 207, 2005. Address: 14 chemin de la Cocuaz, CH-1253 Vandoeuvres, Switzerland. [email: wolffy@geneva-link.ch]

Acknowledgements

The editors of Diogenes extend their warmest thanks to everyone who has contributed to the preparation of this issue: Frances Albernaz, Carole Alvarado, Dominique Arnouil, Janette Arnulf, Patricia Arnulf, Emmanuelle Auroi, Christian Caduc, Malek Chebel, Stéphane Cohen, Pierre-Emmanuel Dauzat, Pierrette Friedman, Masahiro Hamashita, Roberte N. Hamayon, He Huiling, Françoise Héritier, Huang Changzhu, Silvia Laphan, Emo Lessi, Thierry Loisel, Jean Pascaud, Lydia R. Ruprecht, Jean Starobinski, Xiao Junming.

Our very special thanks go to: Nicole G. Albert, Pierre-Emmanuel Dauzat, Cécile Ladjali anad Wolfgang Wackernagel. Ute Sperrfechter most generously gave her time and talent to preparing this issue. We express our immense gratitude to her, as well as to all those who have expressed their confidence in this journal over the last ten years.

Numbers 207 and 208 are, in addition, a tribute to Roger Cailliois, whose project has continued to inspire Diogenes.