February, 1966.

These magnificently illustrated volumes, printed on art paper, contain the first complete account of the work conducted under the auspices of the British School of Archaeology in Iraq at Nimrud between the years 1949 and 1963. The discoveries at Nimrud have a bearing which goes beyond the world of Assyria to the confines of the Mediterranean and as far as Greece and Etruria. These volumes should be indispensable to any library concerned with the history and archaeology of Western Asia and the Levant. The discoveries should also be of particular interest to art historians and to all who are concerned with the history of ancient craftsmanship. There are extensive accounts of many hundreds of ancient texts discovered in the course of the excavations.
