

New for 1999 — Available Now!

Read. Think. Write.

THE BEDFORD INTRODUCTION TO LITERATURE
Reading • Thinking • Writing

Fifth Edition

Michael Meyer, University of Connecticut

1999/CLOTH/2200 PAGES

With its rich array of selections and its many innovative editorial features, this new edition of the most comprehensive 3-genre anthology available provides more options than ever before to help students read, think, and write about literature.

- Stories, poems, and plays that students will read and remember are at the heart of a text that compels students to think critically and write about literature. The features that have made this book a best-seller are all here — integrated coverage of writing about literature, authors covered in depth, sensible discussion of literary theory, and an extensive, spiral-bound Instructor's Manual.
- In addition to 21 new stories, 100 new poems, and 4 new plays, the fifth edition includes over 40 photos; new popular-culture examples; new Cultural Case Studies that invite students to practice cultural criticism; and a completely revised chapter, Writing about Fiction, that includes a model of every stage of a student's paper in progress.

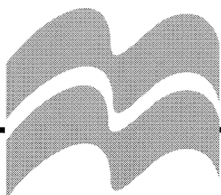

"The Bedford Introduction to Literature has it all: all the classics one expects, many literary gems one does not expect, and the most extensive collection of analysis I've seen in such a text. This is an excellent choice for prompting critical thinking. In an era of increasingly specialized texts, it is good to find one such as this, which specializes in everything."

— Michael O'Gorman, Waubansee Community College

Extensive Ancillary Package Includes

- Instructor's Manual (spiral-bound)
- Literature Aloud (CD or audiocassette)
- Robert Frost: Poems, Life, Legacy (CD-ROM)
- Bedford Links to Resources in Literature at www.bedfordstmartins.com
- Videos of plays and stories featured in the fifth edition

Discount packages are available with titles from any Bedford/St. Martin's literary reprint series.

BEDFORD/ST. MARTIN'S

1-800-446-8923 • www.bedfordstmartins.com

Forthcoming in the May issue of PMLA

*Material evidence: essays on how we embody what we eat (Thomas De Quincey), wear (Herman Melville), and weave from hyphenated
intertexts (Anton Shammas)*

Also

Yves Bonnefoy on photography (Criticism in Translation)

Linda Hutcheon on being
Canadian in an MLA world
(Guest Column)

Elaine Showalter on leading the troops
(1998 Presidential Address)

Forum letters on this and that