Roman Social Relations 50 B.C. to A.D. 284

Ramsay MacMullen

"In this interesting and suggestive book Professor MacMullen views anew an important and rather neglected aspect of Roman social relations. A perceptive and sensitive interpreter, he has drawn widely upon the scattered and unorganized evidence about the poorer classes, rural and urban, in much of the Roman Empire, and presents a fresh picture of their conditions, attitudes and aims."—T. Robert S. Broughton $8.95

The Ancient View of Greek Art

Criticism, History, and Terminology

J. J. Pollitt

What did the ancient Greeks think about their own art? J. J. Pollitt attempts to answer this question by studying the critical terminology of the ancient Greeks—the terms they used to describe sculpture, painting, and architecture. $25.00

An abridged paperbound edition contains the complete text and a selective glossary arranged thematically. This version will be useful for students. $6.95

Chamulas in the World of the Sun Time and Space in a Maya Oral Tradition

Gary H. Gossen

Descendants of the Ancient Maya, the Chamulas use language in a way that expresses the special understanding they have of the social and cosmic order to which they belong. Gary Gossen offers a brilliant analysis of the cosmology, symbolism, and verbal behavior of the Chamulas. His description and analysis are augmented by more than 180 abstracts of narrative texts and several original Chamula drawings. $15.00

Woman, Culture, and Society

Michelle Zimbalist Rosaldo
and Louise Lamphere, Editors

Sixteen women anthropologists analyze the place of women in human societies, treating as problematic certain observations and questions that in the past have been ignored or taken for granted, and consulting the anthropological record for the data and theoretical perspectives that will help us to understand and change the quality of women's lives. The essays examine the universal fact of women's subordination, address questions of human sexual asymmetry, and explore woman's role in a wide variety of social systems. Cloth, $12.50; paper, $3.95

Gerald H. Meaker

"Altogether excellent . . . one of the few really major books on modern Spanish history."—Stanley G. Payne. This first comprehensive history of the burgeoning of the revolutionary Left traces the ideological evolution, internal divisions, and interaction of the Anarchist and Socialist movements, ending with the collapse of the Restoration regime and the advent of military dictatorship. Also discussed are Spain's part in the strategies of the Communist International and the origins, internal struggles, and early failures of Spanish Communism. June. About $18.50

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalisations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, Department of History, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48104.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.

Contributors will receive 50 offprints bound in the journal covers. Any additional offprints must be ordered on receipt of the first proof.
