Navigating the Profession: Sage Advice from the Pages of PS

This first virtual issue of PS: Political Science & Politics brings together some of the journal's most highly cited articles about the profession from more than a dozen past issues. This practical material spans numerous topics that especially apply to young scholars. From "ideas and debates" of political science as a vocation, to the "nuts and bolts" of preparing a literature review and publishing as a graduate student, this virtual issue boasts something both for scholars just beginning their studies and for academics early in their careers. Other topics include:

- Restructuring the social sciences
- Navigating the challenges of fieldwork and research design
- Harnessing the potential in blogging and other outreach in the profession and the public
- Becoming a reviewer
- Writing more effectively
- And more!

APSA is excited to offer this collection of 24 PS articles in this virtual issue Navigating the Profession. The association looks forward to producing more virtual issues to highlight excellent research and make this research more accessible to members. Read the virtual issue today at journals.cambridge.org/PS/virtualissue/1.

"Mentoring the profession has been and should continue to be one of the most important missions of PS."

—Robert J-P. Hauck,
Editor, PS, 1987–2014

Political Turbulence How Social Media Shape Collective Action

Helen Margetts, Peter John, Scott Hale & Taha Yasseri

"Political Turbulence is an exciting book. The authors bring a psychological perspective to the analysis of experimental results and big data to tell an insightful and fresh story about social media and collective action dynamics at the individual level."

—Bruce Bimber, author of Information and American Democracy

Paper $24.95

Liberalism The Life of an Idea

Edmund Fawcett

"Not only a gripping piece of intellectual history, it also equips the reader to understand today's threats—and how they might be withstood. . . . Liberalism is indeed under siege. Those who would fortify the walls would do well to study the foundations. . . . Fawcett's book offers an admirable archaeology."

—The Economist

Cloth $35.00

Sailing the Water's Edge The Domestic Politics of American Foreign Policy

Helen V. Milner & Dustin Tingley

"Foreign policy is notoriously resistant to theorizing. In Sailing the Water's Edge, Milner and Tingley make a significant advancement by generating and testing arguments about domestic constraints that explain why presidents choose to deploy various policy instruments. Rich in careful reasoning and data, this book will be the focus of the field for years to come."

—Robert Jervis, author of American Foreign Policy in a New Era

Paper $22.95 Cloth $70.00

Righteous Transgressions Women's Activism on the Israeli and Palestinian Religious Right

Lihi Ben Shitrit

"This excellent and rigorously researched book enhances our understanding of Jewish and Muslim religious-political movements and women's attendant roles in ways that have remained largely unaddressed until now. By providing a window into a world seldom seen, let alone traversed, it challenges common understandings about these movements and women's agency therein."

—Sara Roy, Harvard University

Cloth $29.95

Beyond Religious Freedom The New Global Politics of Religion

Elizabeth Shakman Hurd

"In this brilliantly argued book, Hurd shows why the stakes are very high and the dangers very real when governments set the standards for religious practice. Beyond Religious Freedom is intellectually courageous and deeply grounded in religious as well as political theory. There is simply no better guide to the contemporary global religious landscape."

—Robert Orsi, Northwestern University

Cloth $39.95

Classical Confucian Political Thought A New Interpretation

Loubna El Amine

"Combining deep scholarship, theoretical imagination, and lucid prose, El Amine gives us a more complex and yet more accessible Confucius, Mencius, and Xunzi than they are ordinarily taken to be. This book brings their distinctive and subtle voices to the fore and is political philosophy at its best."

—Stephen G. Salkever, Bryn Mawr College
