SIR CHARLES NAPIER AND SIND

by H. T. Lambrick 45s. net

'Mr Lambrick is to be congratulated on writing a piece of Anglo-Indian history which, if narrow in its compass, will never have to be rewritten . . . It is unlikely that his book will ever be superseded. . . ' Times Literary Supplement

THE EAST INDIA COMPANY IN EIGHTEENTH CENTURY POLITICS

by Lucy S. Sutherland 35s. net

' . . . at once takes its place as one of the most notable contributions in recent years to our knowledge of the eighteenth century . . . ' Listener

' . . . a brilliant piece of detective work . . . '

Impressions of the Life, Character, and Thought of the Peoples of Persia

by

EDWARD GRANVILLE BROWNE

A revised edition of the late E. G. Browne's classic of life and travel in the Middle East. Browne's year was more than sixty years ago, since when the surface of Persian life has changed greatly ; but the spirit is much the same and it is the spirit that this book mirrors.

Third edition. With a Foreword by Sir Ellis H. Minns, Memoir by Sir E. Denison Ross, a portrait and a map.
