LUCRETIUS. Poet and Philosopher

By E. E. SIKES. 7s. 6d. net

The achievement of Lucretius as a poet, his attitude towards religion, his view of his brother men, and of the Nature of the Universe in which men find themselves, are the humane matters that Mr Sikes discusses here. His book has thus a broad modern interest and is open to general readers as well as to scholars.

Excavations at THERMI IN LESBOS

By WINIFRED LAMB. 50 plates, 67 figures and maps. £2 12s. 6d. net

This well-stratified site, the first excavated in Lesbos, covers the whole of the Bronze Age and is important as throwing light on the West Anatolian culture (to which it belongs) and on the relations of that culture to those in the northern, western, and southern Aegean.
