The Past is a Foreign Country

David Lowenthal

"A skillful use of art, architecture, literature and the psychology of memory, perception and motivation results in our first comprehensive synthesis of ways in which the past has been seen and manipulated... an innovative contribution to historiography in conception, analysis, and integration of 105 well-chosen pictorial illustrations with a lucid and pleasant text. Without doubt, this book is a significant milestone in the history of thought and culture." — Merle Curti, University of Wisconsin-Madison

"... at once erudite and delightful — so much so that we cannot mind laughing at ourselves. Cultural history as social criticism, in this instance, makes for creative scholarship at its best." — Michael Kammen, Cornell University

Constructing the Past

Essays in Historical Methodology

Jacques Le Goff and Pierre Nora, Editors

With an Introduction by Colin Lucas

Now available in English, this collection of essays represents the best historians of the "Annales" tradition, and are ten of the most significant contributions to Faire de l'histoire, a major three-volume exposition of French historiography first published in 1974. Copublished with the Maison des Sciences de l'Homme.

Contributors: Colin Lucas, Francois Furet, Perec Chaunu, Pierre Vilar, Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie, Andre Burguiere, Alphonse Dupront, George Duby, Jacques Le Goff, Mona Ozouf, Roger Chartier, Daniel Roche.

Population and Economy

From the Traditional World to the Modern World

Editors: Robert I. Rotberg, Theodore K. Rabb

Guest Editors: Roger S. Schofield, E. Anthony Wrigley

These essays contribute not only to a richer understanding of the relationships in the past between population and economy, but also to a fuller appreciation of the circumstances that limited economic growth in preindustrial economies and with the train of events that led to the escape from these constraints with the industrial revolution.

For Bread With Butter

Life-Worlds of East Central Europeans in Johnstown, Pennsylvania, 1890-1940

Ewa Morawska

Ewa Morawska delves in unusual depth into the micro-world of East Central European homes and communities in Johnstown, Pennsylvania, at the same time illuminating broader macro-societal issues, specifically, the evolving history of a large segment of contemporary American society, and the meaning of modernity.

The Rise of the Trading State Commerce and Conquest in the Modern World

RICHARD ROSECRANCE

The rise of the trading state and what it means for peace in the nuclear age is here set forth in a tough-minded yet optimistic analysis by a distinguished Cornell scholar and former State Department analyst. "An excellent blend of theory and history that identifies trends which offer opportunities for constructing a more peaceful international system."—ALEXANDER I. GEORGE "A brilliant book. . . . Simultaneously relevant and plausible."—PAUL KENNEDY, New York Times Book Review

How the West Grew Rich The Economic Transformation of the Industrial World

NATHAN ROSENBERG & L.E. BIRDZELL, JR.

Two leading scholars argue persuasively that the political pluralism and the remarkable flexibility of the West's institutions—not corporate organization and mass production technology—explain its unparalleled wealth and prosperity. "Scholarly, amusingly written, accurate, this is a good college course in 'What We Know About Economic History. . . . Lively and intelligent.'"—DONALD N. McCLOSKEY, New York Times Book Review

The Second Industrial Divide Possibilities for Prosperity

MICHAEL J. PIORE & CHARLES F. SABEL

Exploring the alternatives to mass production as a base for industrial economies, The Second Industrial Divide is "must reading for those who want to understand the changes that are occurring in the structure of the American and world economy."—LESTER C. THURLOW "Rich . . . imaginative . . . a thoughtful contribution to the current debate on industrial policy."—ALBERT O. HIRSCHMAN

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalizations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, Department of History, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.
