

Jennifer Wenzel

Bulletproof

Afterlives of Anticolonial Prophecy in South Africa and Beyond

"The Xhosa cattle killing that took place in South Africa in the nineteenth century has been the subject of many historical and literary studies, but Jennifer Wenzel's book is the first to fully represent the significance this singular event has had on the making of a culture of letters in Southern Africa. More than an accounting of a millennial event and its cultural aftermath, this book is an incisive, innovative, and tantalizing account of the process by which historical failure engenders a new literature. It is an original and compelling account."

The Division of Humanities at UCLA is accepting applications for the Andrew W. Mellon Postdoctoral Fellowships in the Humanities "Cultures in Transnational Perspective." We expect to appoint 4 or 5 fellows for a 1-year term renewable for a 2nd year beginning in fall 2010. Fellows must have earned their doctoral degree between January 2004 and June 2010. The Mellon Fellowship provides a stipend of $53,000, fringe benefits, a moving allowance of $1,500, and a research budget of $2,000. All Fellows will be housed in home departments for which they teach 2 courses. Designed to explore the emerging field of Transnational Studies, the Mellon Program at UCLA aims to broaden the study of minority cultures from its national focus to global and comparative perspectives. For more information and to download the fellowship application form, please visit our website at <http://www.humnet.ucla.edu/mellon>. Email completed applications forms and 3 letters of recommendation to mellon@humnet.ucla.edu. Only electronic applications will be accepted. All application materials are due by February 1, 2010.

ETHNICITY, INC.

John L. and Jean Comaroff

“John and Jean Comaroff have compressed a great many scintillating ideas into this book-length essay on ethnicity and its current transmutations. Drawing on examples from across the globe, they offer a powerful new hypothesis about why ethnicity refuses to succumb to modernization, and indeed how law, neoliberal markets, and new forms of possessive nominalism make ethnicity a critical element of the social logic of commodification.”

THE PERILS OF BELONGING

Autochthony, Citizenship, and Exclusion in Africa and Europe

Peter Geschiere

“This is an ambitious, astute, and timely effort to address one of the most interesting and potentially troubling trends in our contemporary world, namely, the rise of politically charged passions about belonging.”

LOVE IN AFRICA

Edited by Jennifer Cole and Lynn M. Thomas

“This is a breakthrough volume on a remarkably neglected topic. The contributors include many of the top scholars in the field, and the chapters offer wonderfully insightful and revealing analyses of a broad range of ethnographic and historical cases.”—James Ferguson, Stanford University
