Terrorism and the State

Rethinking the Rules of State Responsibility
Tal Becker

Tal Becker's incisive and ground-breaking book analyses the law of State responsibility for non-State violence and examines its relevance in a world coming to terms with the threat of catastrophic terrorism. The book sets out the legal duties of States to prevent, and abstain from supporting, terrorist activity and explores how to maximise State compliance with these obligations.

'Becker's book is the most thorough and analytically rigorous exploration of the legal responsibility of States for terrorism rendered to date. It handles its explosively political subject with dispassionate objectivity, showing policymakers precisely why they need the assistance of the rule of law - and superb lawyers like Becker.'

Banking Regulation and World Trade Law

GATS, EU and Prudential Institution Building
Lazaros E. Panourgias

Banking Regulation and World Trade Law concerns the legal aspects of the interaction between banking regulation and international trade in financial services. The author studies the internal banking market of the European Union, the liberalisation of financial services trade in the World Trade Organization, the accords of the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision and the European Central Bank. The author questions decentralised/nation-based banking regulation and supervision as a foundation for a sustainable liberalisation of international trade in financial services. In seeking to delineate the interface between international economic law and banking regulation, Dr Panourgias builds on the rich European scholarship on institutional financial issues and the US interdisciplinary approach to world trade law. He also entertains the notion of international financial law as a distinct field. The book will be of particular interest to those concerned with financial law and international banking.

Global Governance and the Quest for Justice

Volume I: International and Regional Organisations
Edited by Douglas Lewis

This book - one in the four-volume set, Global Governance and the Quest for Justice - focuses on the international and regional organisations that represent the key players in the evolving global order. The papers in this collection seek to map the real world of global governance - exploring who governs and how, what the leading international and regional organisations claim to do and what they actually do - as well as assessing the gap between the ideal of constitutionalised global governance and the actuality of governance under globalisation. The contributors discuss what it would mean for global governance to aspire to Rule of Law standards of transparency, accountability and participation together with categorical respect for human rights. In this collection, the perspective of modern public lawyers is systematically applied to the governance deficit associated with globalisation and to its institutional correction in pursuit of a legitimate regime of global governance.

Justice for Crimes against Humanity

Edited by Mark Lattimer and Philippe Sands

The aim of this book is to assess recent developments in international law seeking to bring an end to impunity by bringing to justice those accused of war crimes and crimes against humanity. The essays in this volume, written by internationally recognised legal experts: scholars, practitioners, judges - explore a wide range of subjects, including immunities, justice in international and mixed courts, justice in national courts, and in a particularly practical section, perspectives offered by experienced practitioners in the field.

'This is a welcome collection of papers on criminal justice both at the international and the national level...a book which fills many gaps and adds considerable value by discussing wider policy and moral issues; it is to be recommended to all who are interested in the development of international criminal justice.'

Elizabeth Wilmshurst, International Affairs

'This book is one of the most important contributions to the understanding of recent developments around issues relating to international as well as domestic criminal justice, from both a policy and a moral point of view.'

Jeremy Sarkin, Criminal Law Forum, 05

Established in 1930, the Nordic Journal of International Law has remained the principal forum in the Nordic countries for the scholarly exchange on legal developments in the international and European domains. Combining broad thematic coverage with rigorous quality demands, it aims to present current practice and its theoretical reflection within the different branches of international law.

The Nordic Journal of International Law features:

- an Editorial Board selected from among the most prominent scholars and practitioners in the field of international law in the Nordic countries of Iceland, Finland, Norway, Sweden, and Denmark
- a diverse range of refereed articles
- annual reports on state practice in the Nordic region
- an annual report on the work of the International Law Commission
- special issues on current topics
- regular book reviews; and
- periodic updates on key developments and events in Nordic and international practice.

The strength of its editorial board and the resulting quality and variety of the features and articles offered make this well-established journal an important component in a complete international law library.

The Law and Practice of the International Court, 1920-2005, Fourth Edition

Shabtai Rosenne; with the Assistance of Yaël Ronen

- In print 2005
- ISBN 90 04 13958 3
- Hardback (4 vols.,xxxvi, 2012 pp.)
- List price EUR 500.- / US$ 675.-

The popularity of his monumental and definitive works have established Shabtai Rosenne as the undisputed expert on the International Court of Justice's law and practice. His broad exchange of correspondence and extensive conversations with members of the Court and its Registrars, as well as with other friends who know the Court and its practices well, and his experience in the Court and in the UN, especially the General Assembly and the Security Council, led him to undertake this major reconstruction of this work in the previous edition.

Now divided into several substantive volumes, the work addresses:

- The Court as one of the principal organs, and as the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. Diplomats and legal advisers who have to deal with matters relating to the Court on a political level, in different organs of the United Nations and in other offices will appreciate the full discussion of the diplomatic, political, and administrative aspects of the Court's affairs.
- Jurisdiction and the treatment of jurisdictional matters by the Court. This volume also includes the Court's advisory jurisdiction; the advisory work has related to very difficult legal issues in matters of major political import.
- The Court's procedure.

All of these arenas have undergone significant recent changes.

The work's practical features include the English text of the Charter of the United Nations, the Statute of the Court, the Practice Directions, and the 1978 Rules of the Court, together with a full set of indexes. The Fourth Edition (updated until 31 December 2005) of The Law and Practice of the International Court is an essential component of all international law libraries and an indispensable work for those practicing in the field, all of whom will appreciate access to the most recent work on the Court from this expert author.

The German Act Against Restraints of Competition

Dr. Carsten Gromotke, Jones Day, Frankfurt
Dr. Johannes Zöetzel, Jones Day, Frankfurt

The recently adopted German Competition Act brings about the most significant changes to German Competition law since its inception in 1957. It includes the abolition of the traditional distinction between horizontal and vertical restraints of trade, strengthened private anti-trust enforcement, and the alignment of the German Act with the new European anti-trust enforcement system.

This new bilingual edition of the German Act makes it possible to understand the nuances of the Act by providing a precise and accurate translation, valuable commentary to explain the broader context of the law in practice, and relevant documents such as cooperation agreements.

International Organizations and their Exercise of Sovereign Powers

Dan Sarooshi, Herbert Smith Reader in International Law,
Faculty of Law, University of Oxford; Fellow, The Queen's College, Oxford
Foreword by Judge Rosalyn Higgins, DBE, QC,
President of the International Court of Justice

"The clarity and thoroughness of [Sarooshi's] analysis provides a firm foundation for the development of the law in this important area."

Professor Vaughan Lowe and Professor Ian Brownlie QC (Emeritus), Series Editors' Preface

International Organizations and their Exercise of Sovereign Powers provides a conceptual and legal analysis of one of the most important challenges currently facing international organizations such as the UN, the WTO, and the European Union: their exercise of sovereign powers. Sarooshi thoroughly examines the content of the law that governs both the exercise of sovereign powers by international organizations and the relationships between organizations and their member states.

Human Rights in Criminal Proceedings

Stefan Trechsel, Professor of Criminal Law and Procedure at the University of Zurich, and a former President of the European Commission of Human Rights

In Human Rights in Criminal Proceedings, the case-law of the most important and influential international bodies dealing with such issues is presented and critically examined by an author who has spent almost a quarter of a century contributing to its evolution. The law of the European Convention is emphasized because of its advanced procedures and the quality and quantity of its case-law. There is also considerable coverage of the application of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the American Convention on Human Rights.

WINNER OF THE AWARD FOR A WORK IN A SPECIALIZED AREA OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

The Constitutionalization of the World Trade Organization Legitimacy, Democracy, and Community in the International Trading System

Deborah Z. Cass, Reader in Law, London School of Economics and Political Science

"Deborah Cass has achieved that rare thing: an account which is sophisticated at both a theoretical and a doctrinal level. Her book will be a benchmark for all future writing on this theme."

Joanne Scott, University of Cambridge

In her book, Cass argues that the WTO is not and should not be described as a constitution, either by the standards of any received account of that term, or by any of the current WTO models, because under these definitions serious issues of legitimacy, democracy and community are at stake. Instead, Cass argues that what is needed is a constitutionalized WTO which considers the economic development needs of states and takes account of the skewed playing field of international trade and its effect on the economic prospects of developing countries. In short, trading democracy, legitimacy and community and not trading constitutionalization, are the biggest challenges facing the WTO.

HONORABLE MENTION

International Organizations as Law-makers

José E. Alvarez, Professor at Columbia Law School and Executive Director of the Center on Global Legal Problems

"Jose Alvarez offers a comprehensive treatment of the topic that skilfully melds theory, practice, and history. Deftly weaving together insights and evidence from both international law and international relations."

Professor Kal Raustiala, UCLA Law School

International Organizations as Law-makers addresses how international organizations with a global reach, such as the UN and the WTO, have changed the mechanisms and reasoning behind the making, implementation, and enforcement of international law.
