

People in Political Science

Activities

Walter Beach of the Brookings Institution has been elected to the Board of Trustees at Dickenson College.

David J. Bellis was reelected in April 1984 to a second term on the Signal Hill, California, City Council. He served as mayor of Signal Hill during 1983-84.

Elliott A. Brown, Minority Staff Director of the U.S. House of Representatives Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, participated in a congressional fact-finding mission to the drug-producing nations of Mexico, Peru, Bolivia, Colombia and Jamaica, where he met with heads of state and cabinet ministers to discuss bilateral efforts to prevent and control narcotics trafficking and drug abuse. The congressional delegation also flew to remote jungle areas to see at first hand the impact of United States narcotics control and economic development assistance.

John P. Lovell, professor, Indiana University, will spend 1984-85 at the Strategic Studies Institute, U.S. Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania, working on a project that will focus on "Lessons Learned" by the Army from the Korean War and Vietnam experiences.

John C. McAdams, assistant professor, spent the 1983-84 year as a Hoover Institution National Fellow.

Sophia Peterson, professor, West Virginia University, has received a $93,559 grant from the U.S. Department of Education for a project to strengthen foreign languages, social studies teacher preparation, and international education at West Virginia University.

Robert D. Putnam, chair-elect of the Department of Government, Harvard University, served as the 1983-84 Roy Ray Lecturer at Centre College, Danville, Kentucky. His principal address, "The Annual Western Economic Summits: What Do They Accomplish?" was delivered to a college-wide audience, April 24.

Kenneth Sherrill, Political Science, Hunter College, and Graduate School, CUNY, was elected an alternate delegate to the Democratic National Convention from New York's 16th Congressional District pledged to Walter F. Mondale in this spring's Democratic presidential primary. The 16th Congressional District includes Manhattan's West Side, Morningside Heights, Central Harlem, East Harlem, Inwood, Washington Heights, and Roosevelt Island.

A. J. Wann, professor of political science at the University of Utah, has been appointed by the U.S. Information Agency to tour Africa for nine weeks this summer and lecture on American government at universities and before government and political leaders.

Wann will lecture in Liberia, Ghana, Nigeria, Zambia, Tanzania, the Republic of South Africa and Lesotho.

Promotions

Frederic A. Bergerson, professor, Whit-tier College.

Edward G. Carmines, professor, Indiana University.

Carol A. Cassel, University of Alabama, has been awarded tenure.

Barbara A. Chotiner, University of Alabama, has been awarded tenure and promoted to associate professor.

James David Fairbanks, professor, University of Houston-Downtown; also appointed assistant to the chancellor for academic affairs.

People in Political Science

Kenneth Farmer, associate professor, Marquette University.

Susan P. Fino, assistant professor, Wayne State University.

David M. Hedge, associate professor, West Virginia University.

John R. Johannes, professor, Marquette University.

John Kincaid, associate professor of political science, North Texas State University, Denton.

Charles Lamb, associate professor, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Vincent E. McHale, professor, Case Western Reserve University.

Michael E. Melody, assistant professor of political science at Barry University (Miami, Florida), has been promoted to associate professor and is now the Area Coordinator of Political Science and International Studies.

Ronald I. Meltzer, associate professor, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Philip Norton, Reader in Politics, University of Hull, England.

Lois Oppenheim, associate professor, Whittier College.

Frederic S. Pearson, professor, University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Jonathan Rothman has received tenure at Whittier College.

W. Rand Smith, associate professor of politics, Lake Forest College.

Robert J. Spitzer, associate professor, SUNY Cortland, NY.

Timothy A. Tilton, professor, Indiana University.

Robert Wayne has received tenure at Whittier College.

Paul J. Weber, professor, University of Louisville.

Richard F. Weisfelder, professor, University of Toledo.

Administrative Appointments

Ernst Benjamin has been chosen as the general secretary of the American Association of University Professors; Benjamin is a political scientist and interim dean of the College of Lifelong Learning at Wayne State University.

Elliott A. Brown of the U.S. House of Representatives Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control has been appointed Minority Staff Director of the Select Committee. He is also adjunct professor of government and public administration, The American University.

Byrum E. Carter, undergraduate adviser, Indiana University.

Bruce Douglas, chairman, Department of Government, Georgetown University.

Effective January 1, 1984, Robert J. Friedrich, associate professor of government at Franklin and Marshall College, became Director of Academic Computing.

Andrew Glassberg, director, Master of Public Policy Administration Program.

Richard Harvey has been appointed chairman, department of political science, Whittier College.

David M. Hedge has been appointed Director of Graduate Studies in the Department of Political Science, West Virginia University.

Ernst Benjamin has been appointed as general secretary of the American Association of University Professors.

Francis W. Hoole, graduate advisor, Indiana University.

Paul L. Hain, chairman, Political Science Department, University of New Mexico.

Delos D. Hughes, Washington and Lee University, has succeeded William Buchanan as chairman of the Department of Politics.

E. Terrence Jones, dean, College of Arts and Sciences.

William Julian, professor, Central College, selected as associate academic dean.

Samuel A. Kirkpatrick, formerly head of the Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University, has been appointed dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Arizona State University.

Walter S. Jones, senior vice president and provost and professor of political science, Wayne State University; formerly Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, University of Maryland-Baltimore.

Naomi Lynn, dean, College of Public and Urban Affairs, Georgia State University, Atlanta.

James Millikan, chairperson of political science, Stonehill College.

Jack W. Peltason will become chancellor of the University of California at Irvine effective 9/1/84; formerly president of the American Council on Education since 1977.

John Duncan Powell, chairman, Department of Political Science at Tufts University.

John Paul Ryan, director of the College and University Program, American Bar Association.

James D. Slack, East Texas State University, has been appointed coordinator of the Masters of Public Administration Program.

Harvey Starr, chairman, Department of Political Science, Indiana University.

Joseph Stewart, Jr. has been named coordinator of the Policy Analysis Group in the Department of Political Science, West Virginia University.

Allen Weinstein is president and chief executive officer of the Washington office of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. Formerly acting president of the National Endowment for Democracy and editor of Washington Quarterly.

John T. Whelan has been selected as chair of the Political Science Department of the University of Richmond and also promoted to associate professor of political science.

Charles W. Wiggins, interim department head, Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University.

Bradford Wilson has been appointed research associate to the administrative assistant to the Chief Justice at the Supreme Court of the United States. Wilson has taken a leave of absence from the Department of Political Science at California State University, San Bernardino, for 1984-85.

Sidney Verba, Clarence Dillon Professor of International Affairs and associate dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences for Undergraduate Education, Harvard Naomi Lynn is the dean of the College of Public and Urban Affairs at Georgia State, Atlanta.

People in Political Science

University, has been appointed to succeed Oscar Handlin as Carl H. Pforzheimer University Professor and director of the university library. The Pforzheimer Chair is reserved for outstanding scholars who have demonstrated serious and continuing interest in library problems. Those named to the chair must share the donor's belief that the university library is a focal point in the learning process and an essential factor in research.

New Appointments

Richard F. Benschel, associate professor, New School for Social Research; formerly of the University of Texas at Dallas.

John A. Booth, associate professor of political science, North Texas State University; formerly at the University of Texas at San Antonio.

J. Linda Cook, instructor of political science, Brown University; formerly with Smith College.

Byron Dare, Fort Lewis College, Durango, Colorado; formerly California State University, Northridge.

Allen Weinstein is president of the new Washington office of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

Michael Denning, assistant professor, Indiana University.

Richard C. Eichenberg, assistant professor of political science, Tufts University; formerly of Florida State University and Harvard University Center for International Affairs.

David J. Garrow, formerly assistant professor in the Department of Political Science at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, has become associate professor of political science at the City College of New York.

J. Patrick Hagan, assistant professor, West Virginia University; formerly graduate student at the University of North Carolina.

Stephen M. Haseler, lecturer, Department of Politics, George Mason University.

Nancy C. M. Hartsock, associate professor of political science and women's studies, University of Washington-Seattle; formerly of The Johns Hopkins University.

Michael T. Hayes, assistant professor, Colgate University; formerly of Rutgers University.

Robert Huckfeldt, associate professor, Indiana University; formerly of the University of Notre Dame.

Dennis R. Judd, associate professor; formerly of the University of Denver.

Claudio J. Katz, assistant professor of politics, Lake Forest College; formerly of Loyola University of Chicago.

Charles A. Levine, senior specialist, American National Government and Public Administration, Congressional Research Service.

Michael B. MacKuen, assistant professor; formerly of Washington University.

Barrett McCormick, assistant professor, Marquette University.

Stephen J. Majeski, assistant professor of political science, University of Washington-Seattle; formerly of Syracuse University.

Gary Mucciaroni, instructor of political science, Brown University; formerly with The Brookings Institution.

Richard Pacelle, assistant professor, Indiana University.

Michael J. Rich, instructor of political science, Brown University; formerly with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Martin Rudner has been appointed associate professor of development studies in the Norman Paterson School of International Affairs at Carleton University, Ottawa, Canada. He will continue to serve, concurrently, as consultant on Southeast Asian programs to the Canadian International Development Agency.

Elizabeth Sanders, associate professor, New School for Social Research; formerly of Rice University.

Michael J. Scicchitano, assistant professor of political science, West Virginia University; formerly of the University of Georgia.

Richard Smoke, professor of political science, Brown University; formerly with Peace and Common Security, Berkeley, California.

Dina Spechler, associate professor, Indiana University; formerly visiting associate professor, University of Iowa.

Joseph Stewart, Jr., associate professor of political science, West Virginia University; formerly of the University of New Orleans.

John Strate, assistant professor, Wayne State University; formerly University of Massachusetts-Boston, Survey Research Center.

Kerry H. Whiteside joined the faculty of Franklin and Marshall College in September, 1983, as an assistant professor of government, teaching courses in political theory and comparative politics.

James Zaffiro, instructor of political science, Central College; formerly at University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Gary Zuk, assistant professor, Department of Political Science, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Retirements

L. K. Caldwell, Arthur F. Bentley Professor, Indiana University.

Warner Chapman, professor and director, Honors Division, Indiana University.

Edward L. Cushman, professor of political science and senior vice-president for labor and urban affairs, Wayne State University.

Royal C. Gilkey, professor of political science, West Virginia University, after 27 years of service. A "Royal C. Gilkey Scholarship Fund" has been established in his honor.

Robert H. Johnson, Harvey Picker Distinguished Professor of International Relations Emeritus, Colgate University.

Whitney T. Perkins, professor of political science emeritus, Brown University, in June 1984.

Edgar L. Shor, professor of political science emeritus, Colgate University.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Alexander Barbrook, dean of continuing education, University of Kent at Canterbury, will be a visiting professor in the Department of Political Science, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University for the 1984-85 academic year.

Sidney Verba has been appointed as Carl H. Pforzheimer University Professor and director of the Harvard University library.

Arnold Beichman has been reappointed as visiting scholar at the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace. His biography, "Herman Wouk: The Novelist as Social Historian," was published in May by Transaction Press, Rutgers University.

Steven J. Brams, visiting professor of political science, University of Haifa, fall 1984.

William David Clinnton, visiting instructor, Colgate University, 1984-86; formerly of Kansas State University.

Munther S. Dajani, visiting assistant professor, Colgate University, 1984-85; formerly of Southwest Texas State University.

Lorn Foster will be a senior fellow at the Joint Center for Political Studies for 14 months, 4/84-6/84.

John R. Gist, associate professor of urban affairs at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, was adjunct professor of administrative sciences at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, California, during the summer of 1984, and will be visiting associate professor in the School of Public Affairs at the University of Maryland, College Park, in 1984-85.

Michael E. Kraft, University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, will be visiting professor of environmental studies and government at Oberlin College for the 1984-85 academic year.

Charles A. McCoy, professor emeritus at Lehigh University, has been appointed as visiting research fellow in the Department of Politics at the University of Adelaide (South Australia).

Paul Warr, visiting instructor, Texas A&M University.

Resignation

Michael J. Robinson has resigned from the Department of Politics at Catholic University of America effective 8/31/84.

Award Recipients

American Academy of Arts and Sciences

The following political scientists are new members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences:

Seweryn Bialer, professor of political science, Columbia University.

Morris Paul Fiorina, professor of government, Harvard University.

David Raymond Mayhew, professor of political science and chairman of the department, Yale University.

Joseph Samuel Nye, professor of political science, Harvard University.

Council of Learned Societies

The American Council of Learned Societies has awarded fellowships and grants-in-aid under six programs of support for research in the humanities and related social sciences.

Following is a list of political science recipients, their institutional affiliations, and proposed projects:

Benjamin R. Barber, professor of political science, Rutgers University: Rousseau and Tocqueville on modernity and the social condition of democracy.

Richard Baum, professor of political science, University of California at Los Angeles: The political economy of Chinese bureaucracy.

Larry S. Berman, associate professor of political science, University of California, Davis: From escalation to disengagement—America in Vietnam, 1966-1968.

A. James McAdams, assistant professor of government, Hamilton College: East Germany and detente, 1982-1984.

M. Anne Sa'adah, assistant professor of political science, Middlebury College: Catholics, Catholicism, and political change in postwar France.

Otto Ullc, professor of political science, State University of New York at Binghamton: Dissent through nondissent—misbehavior in Czechoslovakia of the 1980s.

Brantly Womack, assistant professor of political science, Northern Illinois University: Democratic institutionalization in post-Mao China—an analysis of the people's congress system.

Dirksen Award

Alan Ehrenhalt, political editor of Congressional Quarterly's Weekly Report, will receive the 1983 Everett McKinley Dirksen Award for Distinguished Reporting of Congress. The Dirksen Congressional Center, located in Pekin, Illinois, presents the $5,000 Dirksen Award annually to recognize members of the media for thoughtful appraisal of Congress, its members, its policies, and its work.

Donald Strong Award

Gary Demack has received the 1984 Donald Strong Award for the best research paper written by a political science graduate student. Demack's paper is entitled, "Adjusting to the Crisis in Political Development: The Idea of Incorporation."

The award is named after Donald Strong, a former professor in the Department of Political Science, University of Alabama, who retired in 1980. Strong is the author of numerous books and articles about American, particularly Southern, politics. Strong was an editor of the Journal of Politics and the president of the Southern Political Science Association.

Demack is a Ph.D. student in the Department of Political Science. He is originally from Westminster, California. He received his bachelor's degree from Duke University and his M.A. degree in political science from Florida Atlantic University.

Guggenheim Fellowship

Samuel C. Patterson, professor of political science at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, has been awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship for the 1984-85 academic year.

Patterson is one of 283 scholars, scientists, and artists chosen to share in the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation's 16th annual awards.

Patterson plans to use his fellowship to conduct research on the changing nature of political parties in Congress in the 1980s. Patterson, who will conduct his Guggenheim-funded research while living in Washington, D.C., plans to write a book on congressional parties.

Hoover Scholars

The Herbert Hoover Presidential Library Association, Inc. has announced that 15 individuals have been named Hoover Scholars for 1984 and recipients of substantial research awards under its Hoover Presidential Fellowship and Grant Program.

Political scientists receiving fellowships are: The Colonel Robert R. McCormick Fellowship—Martin D. Dubin, associate professor of political science, Northern Illinois University; and The U.S. Senator (Ret.) and Mrs. Roman L. Hruska Fellowship—Donald F. Kettl, assistant professor, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, University of Virginia.

Alan Ehrenhalt has been selected to receive the 1983 Everett McKinley Dirksen Award for Distinguished Reporting of Congress.

Samuel C. Patterson has been awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship for 1984-85.

Grants-in-aid have been awarded to political scientists David M. O'Brien, associate professor, Department of Government, University of Virginia; and James A. Rhodes, professor, political science, Luther College.

Since establishment of the program in 1978, the Association has provided research assistance to 66 scholars seeking to conduct original investigations into the personal and public careers of President Herbert Hoover, or into national public policy during the Hoover Period, 1921-33.

Kellogg Foundation

Walter L. Bennett, professor of political science at the University of Washington, Seattle, and Lenneal J. Henderson, professor in the school of business and public administration at Howard University, Washington, D.C., are among 43 outstanding American professionals chosen for Group V of the W. K. Kellogg Foundation's National Fellowship Program.

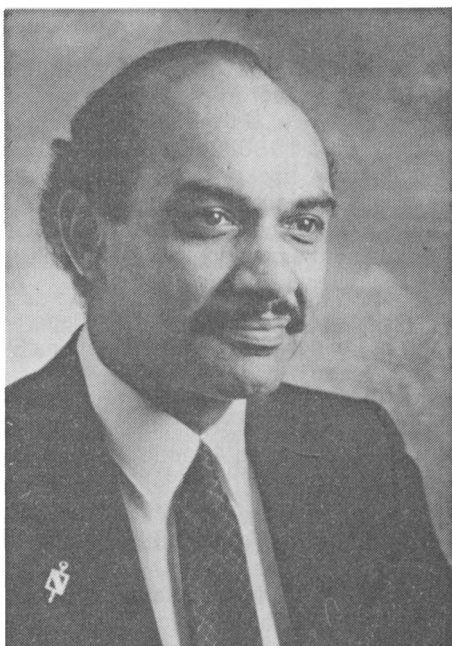

Each Kellogg National Fellow receives a three-year grant of $30,000 to pursue a professionally broadening self-designed plan of study. The Foundation also supports up to 12½ percent of the Fellows' salaries.

During six seminars over the three-year period, Group V will examine national priorities relating to quality and equality in human resource development, technology and growth, populations, food supply, the provision of basic health care, economic revitalization, and international interdependence.

The Kellogg Foundation has made grants totaling more than $700 million since its beginning in 1930. Its three fields of interest are agriculture, education, and health.

Mellon Fellowships

Anne Crippen, a student in political philosophy at Carleton College, has won a Lenneal J. Henderson was chosen for the Kellogg Foundation National Fellowship Program.

Mellon Fellowship from the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation. In addition to covering tuition and fees for the first year of graduate school, the fellowships include a cash stipend of $7,500. The awards are renewable for a second year and, in some cases, the Mellon fellows can receive support to complete their doctoral dissertations.

Western Political Science Association

The Western Political Science Association has announced its 1984 dissertation awards:

Best Dissertation: Byron Douglas Dare, "Marxist Revisionism: Ideological, Political, and Socio-Economic Factors Contributing to the Thought of Bernstein, Lenin, and Kautsky," May 1983, University of Southern California. Dissertation advisor: Joseph Nyomarkay, California State University, Northridge.

Best Paper on Black Issues: Paula D. McClain and Albert K. Karnig, Arizona State University, "Black Political, Economic, and Social Development in the 1980s."

Best Paper on Women and Politics: Barbara Nelson, University of Minnesota, "Women's Poverty and Women's Citizenship: Some Political Consequences of Economic Marginality."

Wilson Center

The Fellowship Committee of the Board of Trustees of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars has awarded research appointments to 49 fellows. Wilson Center fellows are chosen competitively once a year on the basis of submitted research proposals from throughout the world. The following political scientists, who were chosen from 437 applicants, will pursue their projects while in Washington, D.C.

Kennan Institute for Advanced Russian Studies

Bohdan Rostyslav Bociurkiw, Canada, professor of political science, Carleton

Byron Douglas Dare received the Western Political Science Association's 1984 award for best dissertation.

University, Ottawa. The Orthodox Church, the state and social change in the Ukraine, 1917-1982.

Stephen F. Cohen, professor of politics, Princeton University. Gulag survivors and the Soviet Union after Stalin.

Jerry Fincher Hough, professor of political science, Duke University. The administration of Soviet agriculture.

Latin American Program

Lorenzo Francisco Meyer, Mexico, professor of political science, Center for International Studies, El Colegio de Mexico. The Mexican revolution, His Majesty's government and the United States, 1910-1950: a study in revolution and interimperial conflict.

Amaury G. de Souza, Brazil, associate professor of political science, Instituto Universitario de Pesquisas do Rio de Janeiro (IUPERJ). Corporatism and labor representation in Brazil: dilemmas of the labor movement in the transition to democracy.

International Security Studies Program

Rashid Ismail Khalidi, associate professor of political studies and public administration, American University of Beirut. Patterns of foreign intervention in Lebanon: 1973-1983.

People in Political Science

East Asia Program

Youngnok Koo, Republic of Korea, professor of political science and director, American Studies Institute, Seoul National University. How East Asian nations lobby in Washington: Taiwan, Japan, South Korea.

Dorothy Solinger, associate professor of political science, University of Pittsburgh. China's economic readjustment and "industrial policy."

Other Awards and Honors

Richard Franklin Bense, New School for Social Research, has been awarded an F. Leroy Hill Fellowship by the Institute for Humane Studies for research in connection with a book-length manuscript entitled, Yankee Leviathan: The Origins and Exercise of Central State Authority in America, 1859-1919.

Lief Carter, associate professor, department of political science, University of Paul J. Weber has received the lifetime title of Distinguished Teaching Professor at the University of Louisville.

Georgia, Athens, has received three teaching awards during the past year: Pi Sigma Alpha Teaching Award (May 1983); Sandy Beaver Award for Excellence in Teaching (February 1984), cash stipend of $2,000; and the Josiah Meigs Award for Teaching Excellence (May 1984), cash stipend of $1,000.

Lawrence C. Dodd, professor, Indiana University, has received a National Fellowship at the Hoover Institution for 1984-85 for research on "The Calculus of Legislative Change: A Theory of Congressional Cycles."

Chun-tu Hsueh, professor of government and politics at the University of Maryland, received an honorary doctorate from the Universidad San Martin de Porres, Lima, Peru, in May 1984. The Peruvian university has 36,000 students.

Harold K. Jacobson was named the Jesse Siddal Reeves Professor of Political Science at the University of Michigan. This named professorship was established in honor of Jesse S. Reeves, the first professor and chair of political science at the University of Michigan and president of the American Political Science Association in 1928. In December 1983, Jacobson was elected to be a coopted member of the International Social Science Council.

Charles O. Jones, Robert Kent Gooch Professor of Political Science at the University of Virginia, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters on May 12, 1984, at the commencement exercises of his alma mater, the University of South Dakota in Vermillion. He also delivered the commencement address.

Michael A. Morris, associate professor of political science, Clemson University, has been awarded a senior marine fellowship from Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution for 12 months from September 1984-September 1985.

Vincent Ostrom has been named to the Arthur F. Bentley Chair of Political Science at Indiana University.

Timothy A. Tilton, professor, Indiana University, received an AMOCO Teaching Award at the University's Founders Day ceremonies in April 1984. Previous teaching award winners in the Department of Political Science include Byrum E. Carter, Alfred Diamant, and Marjorie R. Hershey.

Paul J. Weber was awarded the lifetime title of "Distinguished Teaching Professor" at the University of Louisville. The award, which carries a $1,000 honorarium, is based on a University-wide competition. Selection is based on student, faculty, and alumni evaluations.

In Memoriam

Joseph Lawrence Bernd

Joseph Lawrence Bernd's long struggle against pain and illness is past. His contributions to the profession, his colleagues, friends and family remain.

Those of us who worked with Joe naturally recognized his solid contributions to the discipline. Joe was born in Macon, Georgia, in 1923. He graduated from Mercer University, received an M.A. from Boston University, and obtained his Ph.D. from Duke University. He taught at High Point College and Southern Methodist University before coming to Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University as the first head of the political science department in 1965. He remained as a professor there until the time of his death.

His accomplishments while in charge of the political science department were numerous. Perhaps in the outside world he is best known for the Summer Conferences on Mathematical Applications in Political Science which he organized and directed. They represented the first such activity by political scientists to receive support from the National Science Foundation. The programs resulted in several publications that he co-authored with a colleague.

He also developed the pre-law program and was instrumental in bringing the Public Choice Center to Virginia Tech. He helped to create the International Studies Program, and he introduced courses on Southern politics, civil liberties, and military policies into the curriculum. And he taught these courses creatively; students still remember charging up the drill field in military class exercises.

Joe was an active scholar. He wrote Grass Roots Politics in Georgia, edited several volumes of Mathematical Applications in Political Science, and co-edited 200 Years of the Republic in Retrospect. He was also author of numerous articles, monographs, book chapters, convention papers, and book reviews. The academic enterprise to which he gave the most devoted attention recently was the Journal of Politics. As associate editor from 1974 to 1977 and as editor-in-chief from 1978 to 1982, he made his mark for outstanding service to the profession.

Joe was interested in politics early in life. As a young man, he founded the Young People's League for Better Government in Macon, Georgia. Later he was assistant campaign manager for M. E. Thompson's successful race for the Georgia governorship. Even later he was a delegate to the State Democratic Convention in Texas. In 1960, he had the interesting opportunity in Illinois to testify that Mayor Daley did not really steal the presidential election from Richard Nixon.

Through it all, Joe Bernd remained an honorable and respectable man, a man of admirable personal qualities. He was often called upon whenever arbitration or mediation were required. Especially in the years before his illness, he was very active as a campus statesman. He used restraint with junior colleagues and often refused to give his opinion until they had spoken in committee meetings. He was intensely concerned about fairness for students and gave careful consideration to the facts of a case. Once one evening, two students appeared on Joe's doorstep to say they were in trouble for having painted graffiti on a railroad bridge. Joe went with them to intercede with the police. Nor was he without a touch of dramatic humor. When students complained one year that advisors were not available in the department, Joe took up residence in his office and stayed overnight on an army cot. Finally, Joe showed this same gentle concern for his family. His enormous respect for his mother was truly impressive. His mutual support