Colorful Criticism

"[This] study displays an uncommon combination of historical and theoretical sophistication, intellectual precision and genuine aesthetic and literary sensitivity . . . It is a remarkable achievement." —
Barbara Herrnstein Smith, University of Pennsylvania

THE COLORS OF RHETORIC

Problems in the Relation between Modern Literature and Painting

Wendy Steiner

"Colors of rhetoric," "the sister arts": these are the phrases that assert a special kinship between literature and painting and that appear repeatedly in the history of aesthetics. This work elevates the analogy from a matter of fashion to a matter of philosophy. Steiner provides a theoretical context for the interartistic studies now in progress and an answer to the consternation or indifference that so often greets them. Among the many artists and writers discussed are Peter Brueghel, René Magritte, William Carlos Williams, Lewis Carroll, and Gertrude Stein.

A HUMAN COMEDY:

Physiognomy and Caricature in 19th Century Paris

Judith Wechsler

With a Foreword by Richard Sennett

This lively study draws on art history, literature, the history of theater, and political and social documents to demonstrate how caricature recorded the mood and attitude of city life in Paris between 1830 and 1870. Through studies of Balzac, Daumier, Debureau (the mime), and Baudelaire, Wechsler shows how caricature reflected Parisians' preoccupation with physical clues to class, profession, character, and circumstances.

The Daughter's Seduction

Feminism and Psychoanalysis

By JANE GALLOP. Examining the relationship between contemporary feminism and the psychoanalytic theories of Jacques Lacan, this fascinating new work of psycho-criticism ably serves as an introduction to Lacanian theory. Through readings of the major texts that stand at the intersection of French psychoanalysis and feminism, Gallop confronts boldly and directly such topics as sexual difference, desire, reading, writing, power, the family, phallogocentrism, and language. "The intelligent ease, strength, and flexibility displayed in this book are astounding."—Barbara E. Johnson, Yale University. $14.95

Ingmar Bergman and the Rituals of Art

By PAISLEY LIVINGSTON. This innovative, revisionary consideration of Ingmar Bergman's cinematic artistry challenges the common perception of the director as a pessimist interested primarily in his private and unresolved crises. Presenting a new critical mode for examining Bergman's career—in which textual analysis and cultural theory complement each other—this insightful work draws on his famous and lesser-known films, early stage productions, untranslated essays, interviews, and scripts to elucidate Bergman's art. "[An] excellent study."—American Film. 27 b&w photos. $19.95

THE Shabunin Affair

An Episode in the Life of Leo Tolstoy

By WALTER KERR. Describing Tolstoy's role as counsel for the defense at the court-martial of Private Vasili Shabunin, a soldier who was subsequently executed by firing squad, this "moral biography" shows the effects of these events in 1866—when Tolstoy was writing War and Peace—on the novelist's life and work. "The narrative is as absorbing as a psychological novel and will fascinate many readers besides those specially concerned with Tolstoy."—Helen Muchnic. $14.95

The Profane Book of Irish Comedy

By DAVID KRAUSE. Krause discusses the major works of fourteen Irish playwrights—Samuel Beckett, Brendan Behan, Dion Boucicault, William Boyle, Paul Vincent Carroll, George Fitzmaurice, Lady Gregory, Denis Johnston, Sean O'Casey, Lennox Robinson, Bernard Shaw, George Shields, J.M. Synge, and W.B. Yeats—and shows the ways in which these works are linked, emotionally and thematically. 16 b&w photos. $19.95

The Medieval Saga

By CAROL J. CLOVER. The evolution of the Icelandic prose saga is commonly regarded as an anomalous phenomenon, distinct from contemporary developments in European literature. In this groundbreaking new study, Clover challenges this view and relates the rise of imaginative prose in Iceland directly to the rise of imaginative prose on the Continent. "I regard this work as one of the most original and substantial contributions to saga scholarship that I have had the pleasure to read."—Paul Schach, University of Nebraska. $18.50
