Language and Ideas of the New Testament

Paul N. Anderson
The Christology of the Fourth Gospel

Its Unity and Disunity
in the Light of John 6

The purpose of this work is to explore the most salient aspect of John's Christology: its unity and disunity. In other words, the most fascinating thing about John's portrayal of Jesus is not that it portrays him as divine and equal to the Father, nor is it the parading of Jesus' humanity and subordination to the Father. Rather, the distinctive feature of John's christology is that it does both. It holds these and other polarities together in dialectical tension, and Paul N. Anderson's work investigates centrally the origins of those tensions using John 6 as the 'locus argumenti'.

Richard H. Bell
Provoked to Jealousy

The Origin and Purpose of the Jealousy Motif in Romans 9 – 11

Paul believed that the provoking of Jews to jealousy by Gentile Christians will lead to the salvation of some Israelites (Rom. 11.11 – 14). How is this salvation of Israel through the gentile mission related to the final salvation of Israel at the parousia (11.26)? What is the theological basis of the jealousy motif? What part did the motif play in Paul's mission strategy? And if Israelites are saved through provocation to jealousy, is there any place for a direct mission to Jews? Richard Bell addresses these questions.

Herrlichkeit des Neuen Bundes

Die Bestimmung des biblischen Begriffs der 'Herrlichkeit' bei Hans Urs von Balthasar

The author examines how Hans Urs von Balthasar conceives of the biblical idea of 'the Glory of the Lord' in his major works. He focuses on questions of methodology as well as on the exegetic details in Balthasar's writings. The results of this study not only clarify one of the most central biblical ideas but also provides an introduction of the important theological thought of Hans Urs von Balthasar.
