Developments in International Law

This wide ranging series provides expert insights into the most fundamental aspects of public international law, and has for many years, made a major contribution to the international debate on legal issues affecting the world community.

Changing Actors in International Law

Edited by Karen N. Scott, Kathleen Claussen, Charles-Emmanuel Côté and Atsuko Kanehara

Changing Actors in International Law explores actors other than the 'state' in international law focusing on under-researched actors (quasi-states, trans-government networks, Indigenous Peoples, self-determination claimant groups) as well the less well studied aspects of otherwise well-researched actors (individuals, corporations, NGOs, armed organised groups).

BRILL | NIJHOFF

International Water Law Series

The International Water Law Series publishes scholarly and other expert work on the increasingly important field of international freshwater law. Fresh water shared by two or more states, whether in the form of surface water or groundwater, is in growing demand as populations increase and economic activities such as agriculture and hydroelectric power production continue to develop. In addition, climate change is already bringing with it challenges to the established order, including a spectrum of problems ranging from droughts, glacial melting and reduced precipitation to floods and other water-related disasters caused by increasingly extreme climatic events. Works in this series will address these problems.

The Community of Interest Approach in International Water Law:

A Legal Framework for the Common Management of International Watercourses

Julie Gjortz Howden, University of Bergen

In The Community of Interest Approach in International Water Law, Julie Gjortz Howden identifies the normative elements of the community of interest approach, and how the approach provides a legal framework for common management of international watercourses.

June 2020 | Hardback (xiv, 243 pp.) | ISBN 9789004426313 | E-ISBN 9789004426320 | Price US$ 159 | International Water Law Series, 8

International Groundwater Law and the US-Mexico Border Region

Maria Milanes Murcia, UN FAO

In International Groundwater Law and the US-Mexico Border Region, Maria Milanes Murcia offers a new international legal and institutional framework to manage fossil aquifers and groundwater in conjunctive use with surface water.

"Straus is special because of its people. The entire faculty offered their time for personal chats and valuable advice. They equipped me with solid theoretical and practical knowledge in arbitration and provided many insights on how to succeed in the field. Small group classes created a unique opportunity to discuss exciting topics with a close circle of engaged and bright people. Such a level of personal attention is not commonplace at other universities.

"With this background under my belt, I left Straus with a significant competitive advantage in the arbitration market."
