PROCEEDINGS of the
76th ANNUAL MEETING

WASHINGTON, D.C.
APRIL 22-24, 1982

It is the policy of the American Society of International Law not to take an official position, by resolution or otherwise, upon controversial questions. The views expressed in the addresses, remarks and discussions delivered at its annual meetings and appearing in its printed PROCEEDINGS are those of the individual speakers and are not to be taken as representing the views of the Society.

Editor's Note

It had been hoped that publication of the 1982 Proceedings would have taken place within a year of the Meeting; that is, by April 1983. Unfortunately, delays in receipt of several panel reports—indeed, one was never received at all—meant that the major part of the editing process had to take place during the 1982-1983 academic year, rather than during the summer of 1982, when it could have been accomplished more expeditiously.

Each year, many more people contribute to the organization and administration of the Annual Meeting than can be listed. Mark B. Feldman, Chairman of the Committee on the Annual Meeting, and his Committee deserve special recognition, both for the substance of the program and for assistance with the arrangement details. Covey T. Oliver, ASIL President, was also active in the planning. The reporters also deserve commendation; though some, as noted above, were dilatory, most were reasonably prompt and did excellent jobs of conveying the substance and flavor of the extemporaneous remarks that add so much to the Meeting and the Proceedings.

Mention must also be made of the editorial work of second- and third-year students at the Wake Forest University School of Law, members of the Wake Forest International Law Society, who, with spirit and energy, undertook the first round of editorial work as a project for the year:

My secretary, Pamela Bowman, is owed a special debt of thanks for her untiring efforts in retyping manuscript pages, including the one complete panel discussion for which we never received a reporter's draft, and patient hours in copying and otherwise assisting me with preparation of the Proceedings. Dean John D. Scarlett was supportive in this project, and thanks go to him and the law school for their part in its completion.

I would be remiss in not concluding this with a special note of appreciation to the Society's administrative staff, particularly Judith R. Hall, Administrative Director, with whom I had worked on the 1978 Proceedings, Seymour J. Rubin, Executive Director, and Eileen Bartscher, who carefully proofread the galleys and checked my editing.
