2010 APSA Africa Workshop: Dar es Salaam, Tanzania

The 2010 APSA Africa Workshop on “Global Perspectives on Politics and Gender” will be held from July 19 to August 6, 2010, in partnership with the Gender Centre at the University of Dar es Salaam, Tanzania. With the support of the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, APSA continues a four-year effort to organize political science workshops in various locations in sub-Saharan Africa.

The first workshop was held in Dakar, Senegal, in collaboration with the West African Research Center from July 6 to 27, 2008. The second workshop was offered in Accra, Ghana, in partnership with the Institute of African Studies at the University of Ghana, Legon, from June 21 to July 10, 2009.

These annual residential workshops are led by a joint U.S. and African organizing team and aimed at mid-and junior-level scholars residing in Africa. They enhance the capacities of political scientists and their resources in sub-Saharan Africa while also providing a forum for supporting their ongoing research.

Each three-week workshop brings together up to 30 scholars and covers substantive issues, methodologies, and reviews of research.

2010 Japanese-American Women Political Scientists Symposia to Be Held

The American Political Science Association will offer the third in a series of Japanese-American Women Political Scientists Symposia (JAWS) from August 29 to September 5. The project, funded by the Japan–United States Friendship Commission (JUSFC), brings together dozens of Japanese and American women scholars to discuss a wide range of topics.

The 2010 JAWS workshops will focus on the theme of “Gender, Politics, and Policy: Post-Elections.” The workshop will encourage and distribute policy-relevant, collaborative research on women and politics in the wake of two major national elections: the 2008 U.S. presidential and congressional elections and the 2009 Japanese parliamentary elections. The workshop will take place in Washington, DC, before and during the APSA Annual Meeting in Washington, DC; one day will be spent at Washington College in Chestertown, Maryland. The workshop will enhance scholarly exchange and understanding between political scientists in the United States and Japan, provide expertise and policy-relevant research on pressing contemporary issues, build networks of scholars (and, particularly, bring together scholars who otherwise might not achieve the kind of comparative perspectives that these kinds of endeavors foster), encourage cooperative classrooms, and incorporate new comparative perspectives into teaching.

The Japanese participants include:

- Misako Iwamoto, Mie University
- Masako Aiuchi, Hokusho University
- Tokuko Ogai, Ochanomizu University
- Cheiko Otsuru Katagawa, Kansai University

Centennial Center for Political Science & Public Affairs Research Opportunities in Washington, D.C.

I enjoyed my stay in Washington D.C. immensely, and the high quality facilities and friendly staff at the Centennial Center made it a great base from which to conduct my fieldwork. I found the facilities to be well located making it easy to travel to my interviews and use the National Security Archive at GWU. Coming to Washington as an international scholar, I found it helpful when securing key interviews to have the support of such a respected organization.

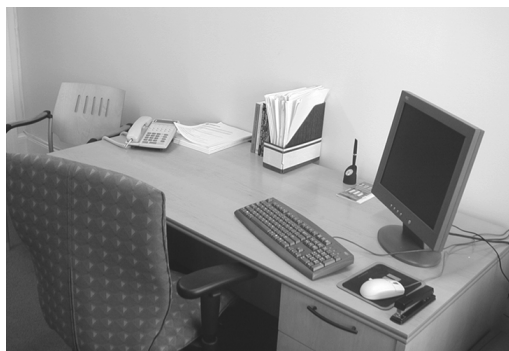

-Emma Briant, University of Glasgow

Created in celebration of the American Political Science Association centennial, the Centennial Center for Political Science and Public Affairs encourages research, writing, and collaboration among scholars working within the discipline.

The Center, located in Association headquarters in D.C., assists scholars from the United States and abroad whose research and teaching could benefit from a stay in and access to the incomparable resources in the nation's capital. The Center has space for ten visiting scholars for extended periods of time ranging from a few weeks to a year.

The Center features:

- personal work space
- computer, high-speed internet, and wireless
- personal phone, fax, and printing
- flexible scheduling for long and short stays
- convenient downtown location, metro accessible
- meeting and conference room facilities
- reference library
- night and weekend access
- community of scholars
- access to: U.S. government, Library of Congress, National Archives, World Bank, International Monetary Fund, USAID, national party headquarters, embassies from around the world, Organization of American States, etc.

Funding Opportunities

As a result of generous contributions by members and friends, APSA developed endowments for grant programs that may support stays at the Centennial Center.

“Kenya is a prime case of the backsliding that has taken place across Africa...tribalism, coupled with foreign aid and cold war politics, helped produce staggering levels of sleaze, and eventually bloodshed.... Wrong’s book is packed with detail and solid sourcing and tells its story clearly.”
