

Why We Fight

Congress and the Politics of World War II

Nancy Beck Young

“This important and fascinating work reveals that the decisive struggles of the 1940s took place not only on military battlefields but on Capitol Hill as well. Drawing on a wealth of archival evidence, Young shows how ideological and institutional contests within Congress, and between Congress and the White House, both consolidated and limited the New Deal while providing for victory in World War II. Essential for scholars and full of insight for citizens who wonder what has happened to Congress’s bygone culture of practical compromise and effective governance.”—Geoffrey Kabaservice, columnist, The New Republic, and author of Rule and Ruin
376 pages, 17 photos, Cloth $39.95

Reining in the State

Civil Society and Congress in the Vietnam and Watergate Eras

Katherine A. Scott

“A well-written book that helps fill a large gap in our knowledge about attempts to reform U.S. national security policy through greater transparency and accountability for the nation’s secret agencies.”—Loch K. Johnson, author of America’s Secret Power: The CIA in a Democratic Society
248 pages, 12 photos, Cloth $34.95
