References repeated in the footnotes should be by author and short title; or the Harvard system of citation may be used.

The title of the article and the author's name and affiliation should be typed on a separate page at the beginning of the article.

Tables should be clearly laid out and numbered consecutively. All figures and totals should be checked for accuracy. Maps and figures should be legible in every detail. The spelling of place names should be consistent with that used in the text. Every table, map and figure should have a title and at least one reference in the text.

First proofs only will be sent to the author who will be expected to return them to the Editor within three days. Excessive alterations and additions may be charged to the author.

Each author will receive twenty-five free offprints of his or her article and a copy of the part of the journal in which it appears.

Submission of an article will be taken to imply that it has not been previously published and that it is not on offer to any other publisher. In the interests of authors, copyright is normally assigned to Cambridge University Press.

Private Business and Public Purpose in Japan

Kent E. Calder

Was Japan's economic miracle generated primarily by the Japanese state or by the nation's dynamic private sector? In addressing this question, Kent Calder's richly detailed study offers a distinctive reinterpretation of Japanese government-business relations. Calder challenges popular opinion to demonstrate how Japanese private enterprise has complemented the state in achieving the national purpose of industrial transformation.

"This is the most important book dealing with industrial policy in Japan since Chalmers Johnson's MITI and the Japanese Miracle."

Art, Tea, and Industry

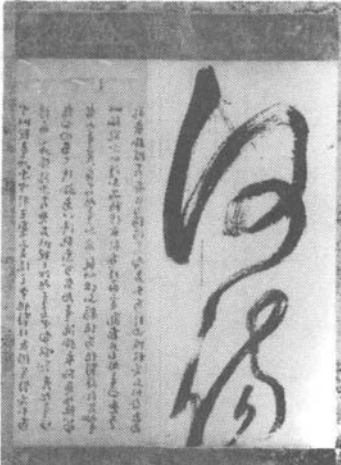

Masuda Takashi and the Mitsui Circle

Christine M. E. Guth

In this illustrated book Christine Guth examines the intimate relationship between art collecting, the tea ceremony, and business through the activities of Masuda Takashi (1848-1938), the highly charismatic director of the Mitsui conglomerate, whose opulent life and passionate pursuit of art continue to influence new generations of aspiring business magnates in Japan. Guth's exploration of his aesthetic ideas deepens our understanding of not only the formation of the canon of Japanese art but also the role of art in the ideology of early modern Japan.

Retirement of Revolutionaries in China

Public Policies, Social Norms, Private Interests

Melanie Manion

Melanie Manion analyzes the largest bloodless circulation of elites in history—the massive retirement of officials in the People's Republic of China. Beginning in 1978 Chinese leaders in Beijing replaced millions of old cadres with younger generations of better educated officials. How were the elders persuaded to retire? Manion shows how a norm of age-based exit from office was engineered by top policymakers and aided by younger cadres. Her research combined a wide variety of sources and methods, many new to the study of Chinese politics. The result is a rich portrayal of manipulative leadership in post-Mao China, which reveals the key role of the private interests of all the parties involved.

Taoist Ritual and Popular Cults of Southeast China

Kenneth Dean

Most commentators imagine contemporary China to be wholly divorced from its earlier customs, but Kenneth Dean reveals an entirely different picture. Since 1979, when the Chinese government relaxed some of its most stringent controls on religion, villagers in the isolated areas of Southeast China have maintained an "underground" effort to restore traditional rituals and local cults.

"This is an extremely important book. There is nothing else like it in the field, particularly in its detailed depiction of local religion in the People's Republic. Kenneth Dean has made a major new contribution to Chinese Studies."—Daniel L. Overmyer, University of British Columbia

Beautiful Imperialist

China Perceives America, 1972-1990

David Shambaugh

"David Shambaugh has uncovered a story that shocks and dismays me because I for one . . . was innocent of the extent to which the supposedly best-informed Chinese are both ignorant and critical of America."
