

P02-377

MORAL CONFLICT AND FIRST SEXUAL EXPERIENCE - CASE PRESENTATION

N. Kravic<sup>1</sup>, M. Hasanovic<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Social Psychiatry, University Clinical Center Tuzla, <sup>2</sup>Social Psychiatry, Psychiatric Department, Tuzla, Bosnia-Herzegovina

Objectives: In our mind as well as in our body and nature nothing is happened accidentally, we can often see that there is mutual connection between them. There is a case presentation of young man age 29 with obsessive thoughts for getting fatal disease if step on junky needles which he had seen in his neighbor. It thoughts influence his all life he is avoiding to go out of his apartment, poorly sleep, he insisted to be admitted to in patient treatment because he „would probably kill himself if he had to stay there jet...“ His first difficulties appeared when he was 20, after his first sexual experience which he has had with prostitute, after his friend’s birthday party. Then he obsessively started to think about getting AIDS, getting died... Four years ago he really have got malignant testicular tumor and in his 24he had passed through exhausting surgery and chemotherapy. As a child he was growing up during the war time, experienced snake bite, often tonsil infections.

Now he has no job, live with parents and one year older brother, no girlfriend or other relationship. Treated with antidepressant venlafaxin, and atypical narcoleptic risperidon, with additionally used EMDR, he showed good recovery and getting into every day activities.

Conclusion: Moral conflict and unsolved guilty feelings lead to real illness and constant fear of fatal disease as a punishment for him.