The Journal of Modern African Studies

Editor: DAVID KIMBLE

The Journal of Modern African Studies offers a quarterly survey of politics, economics, and related topics in contemporary Africa. The main emphasis is upon the peoples and policies, the problems and progress of this dynamic and disparate continent; upon the many societies that are evolving rather than the essential characteristics of the old; and upon the present, rather than the past. The best current work is presented from specialists in different academic disciplines. Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, but aims at a fair examination of controversial issues in order to promote a deeper understanding of what is happening in Africa today. The journal also includes an invaluable book review section.

This book charts the social and environmental challenges met in Kenya from the last century. Using rich case material and first hand ethnographic material, it explores the social, cultural and historical aspects of colonialism in Kenya. In particular it recognises the leading role played by women in resisting the chiefs and the colonial administration. Addressing the debates of central and eastern Africa and the central struggle for land in Kenya between settler and African, this book highlights the use of environmentalism as a weapon by settlers to legitimise their occupation of the land.

Africa is the premier journal devoted to the study of African societies and culture. Its editorial policy encourages an interdisciplinary approach, involving the social sciences, history, the environment and life sciences. Africa aims to give increased attention to historical trends, issues of development and links between local and national levels of society. At the same time, it maintains its commitment to the theoretically informed analysis of the realities of Africa's own cultural categories.
