

New Books from YALE

THE CRISIS OF ISLAMIC CIVILIZATION

Ali A. Allawi

"Allawi offers both a nuanced analysis of the present crisis in Islamic civilization, and a way forward. . . . Allawi writes with characteristic elegance and incisive reflection—the western world badly needs such interpreters of Islam." —Philip Lewis $27.50

ONE STATE, TWO STATES

Resolving the Israel/Palestine Conflict
Benny Morris

"Morris is one of the most authoritative historians of the Israeli-Arab conflict. In his new book, he presents an up-to-date interpretation and suggestions for its solution."

—Walter Laqueur 7 maps $26.00

THE EURO

The Politics of the New Global Currency
David Marsh

"Amazingly detailed and thoroughly readable. This is the stuff of a political thriller: the deal-making behind a currency constructed not just as a financial instrument but also as a way of overcoming centuries of conflict."

—George Soros 16 illus. $35.00

THE CONSERVATIVES

Ideas and Personalities Throughout American History
Patrick Allitt

"A perceptive, rigorously balanced, and richly panoramic account of conservative ideas and thinkers in American politics and culture since 1787. This is a welcome, indeed, necessary book." —George H. Nash $35.00

JESUS AND JUSTICE

Evangelicals, Race, and American Politics
Peter Goodwin Heltzel

This timely examination of the increasing influence of evangelical Christians in recent American politics and elections is "splendid. . . . Will be of high interest to any observer of recent and current relations between politics and religion in the U.S."

—Catherine Keller $30.00

New in paper

THE BRIDGE AT THE EDGE OF THE WORLD

Capitalism, the Environment, and Crossing from Crisis to Sustainability
James Gustave Speth

"The most compelling plea we have for changing our lives and our politics. And it is a compelling case indeed." —Robert F. Kennedy, Jr.

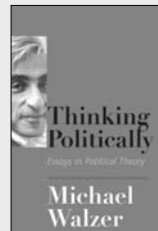

A Caravan Book: caravanbooks.org
8 illus. $18.00 paperback

THINKING POLITICALLY

Essays in Political Theory
Michael Walzer
Selected, Edited, and with an Introduction by David Miller

"Walzer is one of liberalism's most important contemporary philosophers, as he seeks to meld communitarian concerns with traditional Rawlsian arguments together with a healthy dose of patriotic feeling and never-entirely absent concern for the well-being of Israel." —Eric Alterman, media-matters.org $22.00 paperback

ONE AMERICA IN THE 21ST CENTURY

The Report of President Bill Clinton's Initiative on Race

Edited and with an Introduction by Steven F. Lawson
Foreword by John Hope Franklin
"Lawson places the Franklin Commission Report in historical perspective and analyzes the Clinton presidency as well as the report in a cogent and evenhanded way." —John Dittmer $20.00 paperback

ARMS AND INFLUENCE

With a New Preface and Afterword
Thomas C. Schelling

"Well worth reading and there will be few who do so that do not find an idea or line of inquiry emerging in their own later thinking that owes its inspiration to Professor Schelling's lively analysis." —American Political Science Review

The Henry L. Stimson Lectures Series
$20.00 paperback

FROM THE NEW DEAL TO THE NEW RIGHT

Race and the Southern Origins of Modern Conservatism
Joseph E. Lowndes

"Brilliantly describes the ideology of American conservatism. A richly detailed analysis that helps illuminate the development, rise, and the discursive peculiarities of this political movement." —Anne Norton $20.00 paperback

OUT OF REACH

Place, Poverty, and the New American Welfare State
Scott W. Allard

"A timely book that will have major implications for welfare reform policy and, more broadly, American social policy." —Steven Rathgeb Smith 13 illus. $35.00 paperback

THE PURITAN ORIGINS OF AMERICAN PATRIOTISM

George McKenna

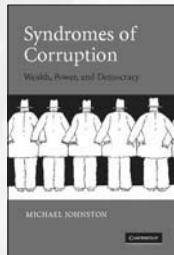

"This thoughtful and well-written book makes a powerful case that Puritan values and ideas continue to shape American identity and politics down to the present day."

—Walter Russell Mead, Foreign Affairs
$22.00 paperback

Politics and Communication

Digital Diasporas

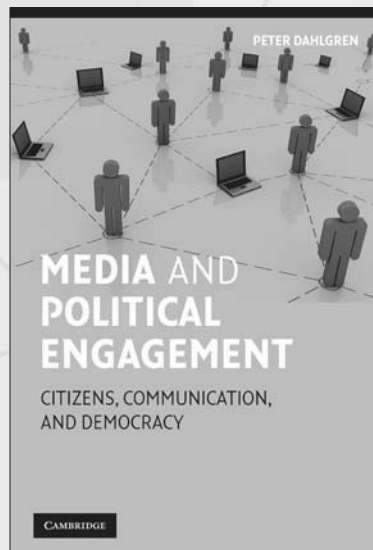

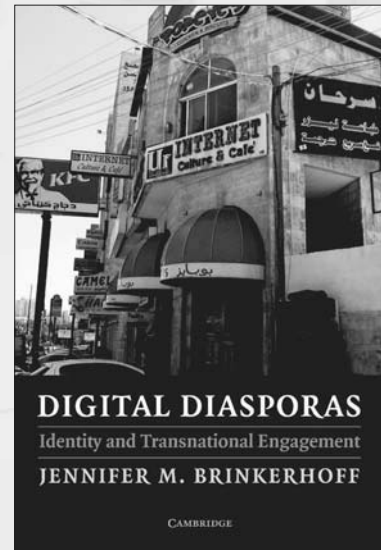

Identity and Transnational Engagement

Jennifer M. Brinkerhoff

$80.00: Hardback: 978-0-521-51784-3: 288 pp.

$24.99: Paperback: 978-0-521-74143-9

In the first full-length scholarly study of the increasingly important phenomenon of digital diasporas, Jennifer M. Brinkerhoff examines how immigrants who still feel a connection to their country of origin use the Internet. She argues that digital diasporas can ease security concerns in both the homeland and the host society, improve diaspora members' quality of life in the host society, and contribute to socio-economic development in the homeland. Drawing on case studies of nine digital diaspora organizations, Brinkerhoff's research supplies new empirical material regarding their potential security and development impacts. She also explores their impact on identity negotiation, arguing that digital diasporas create communities and organizations that represent hybrid identities and encourage solidarity, identity, and material benefits among their members. The book also explores these communities' implications for policy and practice.

Media and Political Engagement

Citizens, Communication, and Democracy

Peter Dahlgren

Communication, Society and Politics

$80.00: Hardback: 978-0-521-82101-8: 248 pp.

$24.99: Paperback: 978-0-521-52789-7

One of the most difficult problems facing Western democracy today is the decline in citizens' political engagement. There are many elements that contribute to this, including fundamental socio-cultural changes. The book summarizes these contexts and situates itself within them, while focusing on the media's key role in shaping the character of civic engagement. In particular, it examines the new interactive electronic media in terms of their civic potential. Looking at the evolution of the media landscape, the book interrogates key notions such as citizenship, public sphere, agency, identity, deliberation, and practice, and offers a multi-dimensional analytic framework called 'civic cultures'. This framework is then applied to several settings, including television, popular culture, journalism, the EU, and global activism, to illuminate the role of the media in deflecting and enhancing political engagement, as well as in contributing to new forms of political involvement and new understandings of what constitutes the political.

DAY OF EMPIRE

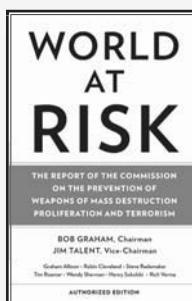

How Hyperpowers Rise to Global Dominance—and Why They Fall

by Amy Chua

“Amy Chua tells the story of the world’s hyperpowers. Not everyone will be persuaded by her ingenious thesis that religious and racial tolerance was a prerequisite for global dominance, but also the slow solvent of that cultural ‘glue’ which holds a great nation together. But few readers will fail to be impressed by the height of this book’s ambition and by the breadth of scholarship on which it is based.” —Niall Ferguson, Laurence A. WORLD AT RISK

The Report of the Commission on the Prevention of Weapons of Mass Destruction Proliferation and Terrorism
by Senator Bob Graham, Chairman

The bipartisan Commission on the Prevention of Weapons of Mass Destruction Proliferation and Terrorism was established by the U.S.

Congress to build on the work of the 9/11 Commission by assessing our nation’s progress in preventing weapons of mass destruction proliferation and terrorism. The Commission’s report, published here for the first time, examines the government’s current policies and programs, identifies gaps in our government’s prevention strategy, and recommends ways to close them.

SO DAMN MUCH MONEY
 The Triumph of Lobbying and the Corrosion of American Government
 by Robert G. Kaiser

“Bob Kaiser has written the real story of the breakdown of our political system. In the pages of this enormously important book, we can also glimpse a path toward reform—as a new president and Congress take office.” —Carl Bernstein

International Theory

A Journal of International Politics, Law and Philosophy

journals.cambridge.org/int

Editors

Duncan Snidal, University of Chicago

Alexander Wendt, The Ohio State University

Launching in 2009, International Theory invites papers on theory of all varieties and from all disciplines, provided it addresses problems of politics, broadly defined and relates to the international.

International Theory welcomes scholarship that uses evidence from the real world to advance theoretical arguments. However, it is intended as a forum where scholars can develop theoretical arguments in depth without an expectation of extensive empirical analysis.

ENCOUNTERS
*My Life with Marcuse,
Nixon, and Other Friends and Teachers*

Paul E. Gottfried
$28 (hc) • 275 pages

“If Paul Gottfried is capable of dull writing, you won’t find any evidence for it in these pages, which sparkle from start to finish with his characteristic candor and intellectual intensity. Gottfried has long been known both as a superb intellectual historian and a frequent combatant in American conservatism’s internal battles. But in this pensive memoir he shows a keen talent for subtle portraiture, including an insightful sketch of the post-Presidential Richard Nixon, among the other fascinating figures in his gallery of friends and acquaintances.”—Wilfred McClay, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga

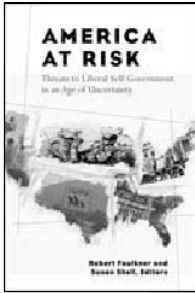

MISS BETSEY
A Memoir of Marriage
Eugene D. Genovese
$25 (hc) • 200 pages

“Eugene Genovese has written a beautiful memoir of the life of his late wife Betsey Fox-Genovese and has given a compelling portrait of the strong tie of marriage between two renowned historians. We see Betsey as a young Marxist professor demanding fair treatment for striking service workers at her university and Betsey as a mature and deeply spiritual Catholic, assisting the priest in administering Communion. We see her as an influential scholar, a contentious political writer, and devoted teacher, reading a student’s doctoral dissertation in the pain of her last days. Passionate, partisan, humorous, and self-mocking, Eugene Genovese’s book is a paean of love for a remarkable woman.”—Natalie Zemon Davis, author of Women on the Margins: Three Seventeenth-Century Lives

LIVING CONSTITUTION, DYING FAITH

Bradley C.S. Watson
$25 (hc) • 250 pages

“Sweeping in scope and penetrating in insight, Living Constitution, Dying Faith provides a sure guide to any one who wishes to understand the intellectual currents set loose by Social Darwinism and pragmatism, currents which have brought the judiciary, broadly encouraged by the academy, to presume authority to speak for the polity’s emerging consciousness, perilously distant from the philosophic moorings of the Constitution.”—Stanley C. Brubaker, Director, Institute for Philosophy, Politics, and Economics, Colgate University

THAT INFERNAL LITTLE CUBAN REPUBLIC

The United States and the Cuban Revolution

LARS SCHOULTZ

A superb chronicle of and commentary on the history of U.S.-Cuba relations. Schoultz explains U.S. Cuba policy as, on balance, a failure. Tellingly, the profound depth of that failure since the end of the Cold War shames the great majority of U.S. citizens, including this one, for tolerating such special interest folly disguised in the cloak of freedom and democracy.”
—Lawrence B. Wilkerson, former chief of staff to Secretary of State Colin Powell

The United States has normal relations with China and Vietnam. Why not with Cuba? As Lars Schoultz so well sums it up in his excellent and highly readable book, it is because the United States cannot get over its obsessive uplifting mentality, i.e., the belief that it is the sacred duty of the United States to uplift the Cuban people. Even most Cubans who want change believe they must seek it on their own. Schoultz expresses no optimism that the United States will get over its obsession any time soon.”

—Wayne S. Smith, former Chief of the U.S. Interests Section in Havana (1979-82)

A terrific book for scholars, students, tourists, and policy makers. This book should become the standard reference work on U.S. policy toward Cuba.”

Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy accepts articles from any branch of social and political philosophy that are accessibly written and concerned with the overlap between theory and practice. Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy focuses on individual thinkers, particular social and political concepts, such as power, equality, sovereignty and liberty, and various schools of thought, such as republicanism, liberalism and nationalism. In each case, particular regard is paid to the practical policy implications of the theories or ideas concerned. It also covers the theoretical assumptions and implications of such policy issues and socio-political-legal processes as democratization, multiculturalism, environmental protection, development aid, European Union, judicial legislation, globalization and social stratification.

Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy will interest academics and practitioners intrigued by the tie between philosophical reflection and public policy, especially in international relations, law, politics and public administration, philosophy, sociology and management.

SUPPORTING POLITICAL SCIENCE

Among its many activities, the American Political Science Association supports exceptional scholarship in several fields within the discipline by honoring those whose work stands above the rest. The Association's awards are made possible by the generous contributions of individual members and friends. As many of these awards were initially funded many years ago, the time has come to strengthen the endowments supporting them, to make possible award amounts that continue to convey the prestige associated with them into the second century of political science. The endowments for the following awards are in need of an additional $5,000 to $10,000 each, to reach the $25,000 minimum currently required of all endowments. In seeking to contribute to the support of the discipline, please consider donating to one of the following funds. Gifts are accepted as one-time donations, or as pledges to be fulfilled over time. For more information on giving to APSA, please visit our website at <www.apsanet.org/section_216.cfm> or contact William Harder by email at wharder@apsanet.org or by phone at (202) 483-2512.

AWARD ENDOWMENTS

Gabriel A. Almond Prize

The Gabriel A. Almond prize is awarded annually for the best dissertation in the field of comparative politics. The award was created in recognition of Gabriel Almond's contributions to the discipline, profession, and Association. He was a long-time faculty member at Stanford University and former APSA president (1966). Almond's scholarly work contributed directly to the development of theory in comparative politics and brought together work on the developing areas and Western Europe that prevented splintering into an array of disparate areas studies.

William Anderson Award

The William Anderson prize is awarded annually for the best dissertation in the general field of federalism or intergovernmental relations, state, and local politics. The award was set up in honor of William Anderson, former APSA president, who was a leading American authority in the areas of local government, public administration, intergovernmental relations, and the history of political science. He did much to shape teaching and research in these fields not only at his own university, but throughout the country.

Carey McWilliams Award

The Carey McWilliams prize is awarded annually to honor a major journalistic contribution to our understanding of politics. Eligible candidates meet the criteria laid forth by the first organizing committee. First, the individual chosen should have a distinguished public service career in newspaper, magazine, or broadcast media. Second, the individual chosen should, in his or her work, illuminate some broad general principles of the social and political sciences. Third, the individual may have a background in editorial activities and not necessarily be a working journalist or writer. Fourth, the individual should illuminate certain key elements identified with McWilliams, which include intellectual forthrightness and political independence.

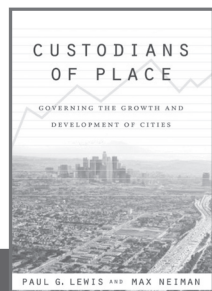

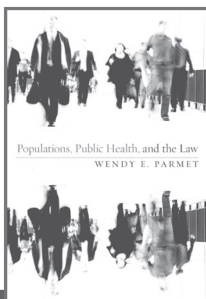

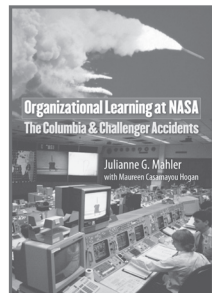

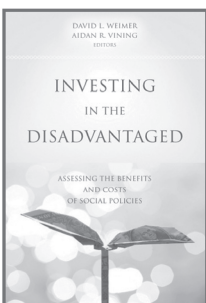

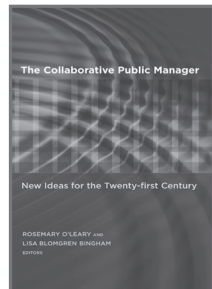

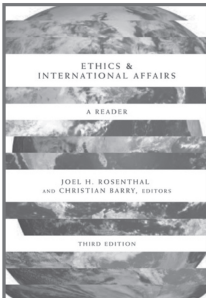

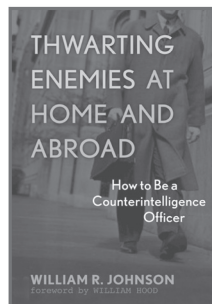

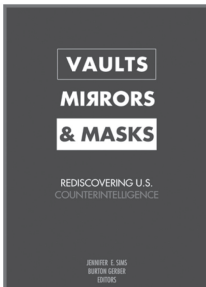

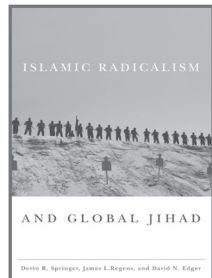

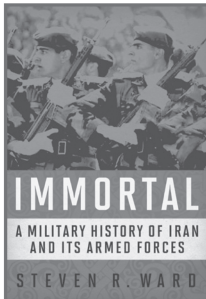

Charles E. Merriam Award

The Merriam Award was established by the Association to recognize "a person whose published work and career represent a significant contribution to the art of government through the application of social science research." First presented in 1975, the award was revived in 1995 and is presented biennially. Charles Merriam's career exemplified a combination of innovative political and social science scholarship and practical service to the community and nation. The department he chaired in the 1920s-1940s set the agenda of the political science profession in the post World War II decades. He was the key figure in the founding of the Social Science Research Council, and chaired it in its first decades. His public service included membership in the Chicago City Council, and on President Roosevelt's National Resources Planning Board and the Committee on Administrative Management.

E. E. Schattschneider Award

The E. E. Schattschneider prize is awarded annually for the best doctoral dissertation completed and accepted during that year or the previous year in the field of American government. This award fund, established in 1971, was set up in honor of Elmer Eric ("E. E.") Schattschneider, a former APSA president, and widely published and respected political scientist.

CALL FOR PAPERS
Politics and Religion

Published by Cambridge University Press
 on behalf of the Religion and Politics Section of the American Political Science Association

Editors
 Ted G. Jelen, University of Nevada at Las Vegas, USA
 Sabrina P. Ramet, Norwegian University of Science and Technology, Norway

Politics and Religion, published on behalf of the Religion and Politics Section of the American Political Science Association, is a new peer-reviewed journal providing original research into all aspects of the relationship between politics and religion around the world.

The impact of religion on political attitudes, decision-making, and public policy development is analyzed, with topics ranging from abortion laws, sex education in schools, and stem cell research to transnational terrorism, morality, social justice, and human rights.

The journal is multidisciplinary and international in scope, with contributions coming from all relevant areas, including political science, theology, law, philosophy, sociology, history, area studies, and economics. Studies of public religion, secular-religious conflicts, and political divisions within a religion – from within and outside the Judeo-Christian tradition, including works from Islamic, Hindu, Buddhist and scholars of Eastern traditions – are especially welcome. Book reviews are also part of the journal's coverage.
