ANTHROPOLOGICAL LINGUISTICS

Anthropological Linguistics, a quarterly journal, provides a forum for the full range of scholarly study of the languages and cultures of the peoples of the world, and especially the native peoples of the Americas. Embracing the field of language and culture broadly defined, the editors welcome articles and research reports addressing cultural, historical, and philological aspects of linguistic study, including analyses of texts and discourse; studies of semantic systems and cultural classifications; onomastic studies; ethnohistorical papers that draw significantly on linguistic data; studies of linguistic prehistory and genetic classification, both methodological and substantive; discussions and interpretations of archival material; edited historical documents; and contributions to the history of anthropological linguistics. The journal also actively reviews new publications in the field.
