CONTRIBUTORS

Barbara Weinstein is Silver Professor of History at New York University and past president of the American Historical Association. She has also taught at Vanderbilt University, Stony Brook University and the University of Maryland. Her publications include The Amazon Rubber Boom, 1850–1920 (1983), For Social Peace in Brazil: Industrialists and the Remaking of the Working Class in São Paulo, 1920–1964 (1996), and The Color of Modernity: São Paulo and the Making of Race and Nation in Brazil (2015). She has served as co-editor of the Hispanic American Historical Review, the journal International Labor and Working-Class History, and the Radical Perspectives book series published by Duke University Press. Her research been funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Fulbright-Hays Program, the John Simon Guggenheim Foundation, and the Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study. She was a 2017–18 Fellow at the Cullman Center for Scholars and Writers at the New York Public Library, where she began work on an intellectual biography of the pioneering Latin Americanist Frank Tannenbaum; she continued this research in 2022 with the support of an NEH Fellowship.

Nancy E. van Deusen is Principal Emeritus Daniel R. Woolf Professor of Humanities in the Department of History at Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario. She is a historian of colonial Andean, Latin American, and Early Modern History and specializes in the histories of Indigenous slavery in the Americas and gender relations and female Catholic spirituality in colonial Lima, Peru. She is the author of more than 30 articles and four scholarly monographs, two of which have been translated into Spanish.

Francismar Alex Lopes de Carvalho is an Alexander von Humboldt Research Fellow in the Department of the Anthropology of the Americas at the University of Bonn, Germany. He is also a professor of history at Rio de Janeiro State University, and the author of Natives, Iberians, and Imperial Loyalties in the South American Borderlands, 1750–1800 (Palgrave Macmillan, 2022). He earned his PhD from the University of São Paulo. His research focuses on the frontier regions of South America and the interactions between Indigenous peoples, Jesuits, and agents of the Iberian empires. He is currently finishing a book manuscript; the tentative title is “Missionizing on the Edge: Religion and Power in the Jesuit Missions of Spanish Amazonia.”

Lillian Guerra is Professor of Cuban and Caribbean History at the University of Florida. She is the author of five books of history, including one on Puerto Rican national identity in the age of Americanization and four books on Cuba that span the twentieth century. Her latest work, Patriots and Traitors in Revolutionary Cuba, 1961–1981 (University of Pittsburgh Press, 2023) examines how citizens experienced and internalized the Communist state's construction of life within the Cold War paradigm and defined national belonging as a zero-sum game. Guerra began researching in Cuba in 1995 and has made more than 50 visits to the island.

Barbara Tenenbaum, the first Mexican Specialist in the Hispanic Division of the US Library of Congress, retired in September 2015. She came to the Hispanic Division in 1992. She was editor-in-chief of the Encyclopedia of Latin American History and Culture (5 vols., 1995). During her years in the Hispanic Division, Tenenbaum organized numerous public events, exhibitions, and symposia, many of them in collaboration with the Mexican Cultural Institute of Washington and the Embassy of Mexico. In addition to the encyclopedia, Tenenbaum published Politics and Penury: Debts and Taxes in Mexico 1821–1656 and co-edited (with Vincent C. Peloso) Liberals, Politics, and Power: State Formation in Nineteenth-Century Latin America (University of Georgia Press, 1996; republished 2017). She has presented papers at national and international organizations, including the Conference on Latin American History, the International Congress of Americanists, and many others. Tenenbaum was honored with the Águila Azteca Award by Mexico in 2015, the highest award conferred by that country on foreigners.

Kenneth Andrien is the author of Crisis and Decline: The Viceroyalty of Peru in the Seventeenth Century (University of New Mexico Press); The Kingdom of Quito, 1690–1830: The State and Regional Development (Cambridge University Press); Andean Worlds: Indigenous History, Culture, and Consciousness Under Spanish Rule, 1532–1825 (University of New Mexico Press); and co-authored, with Allan J. Kuethe, The Spanish Atlantic World in the Eighteenth Century: War and the Bourbon Reforms, 1713–1796 (Cambridge University Press). He has edited or co-edited four books, including the forthcoming The Spanish Atlantic World, 1492–1825 (Oxford University Press). He retired as Professor Emeritus of History at Southern Methodist University after serving at Ohio State University for 35 years.
