

Canadians Discuss Nationalism

The Atlantic Provinces Political Studies Association held its annual conference in Moncton, New Brunswick on October 23 and 24, 1981. The papers presented dealt with the themes of nationalism and integration. Anyone interested in receiving a copy of the conference program or any information about the association should write to Bill McGrath, Department of Political Science, Memorial University of Newfoundland, St. John's, Newfoundland, A1B 3X9. ■

Why Ill-Advised Arms Race Continues

Lord Zuckerman's question remains unanswered. The question was, "Why, despite scientific advice against continuing the arms race, military expenditure especially on nuclear devices, has continued?" A special issue of Science and Public Policy, October 1981, on the arms race, seeks to answer that basic question.

In his editorial, Brett-Crowther suggests that "The arms race is perhaps the most obvious example of the complex, the neurosis, of fears and failures which prevent new life and free action from re-directing evolution."

Adam Roberts examines options for an "alternative defence" to that based upon nuclear weapons. He outlines strategies based upon conventional forces, territorial forces, and defense by civil resistance, highlighting some important questions that these give rise to.

Adam Curle poses the poignant question, "Do our nuclear weapons protect us more than they imperil us?" In doing so, he examines the very concept of "deterrence," its effectiveness and its relevance, in the light of new nuclear strategies that have to be adopted.

A proposal that each superpower site a colony of 10,000 of its own people in the capital city of its rival is made by K. Bullough, and seen by him as providing a deterrent against nuclear attack, as well as a medium through which the disarmament process can be pursued.

Philip Gummert examines the dynamic behind the adoption of the latest nuclear weapons systems, MX, Cruise and Trident missiles. He highlights the problems posed by their excessive accuracy and quantity.

F. H. Brookman and A. J. C. Vierling review the experience of Dutch involvement in nuclear armament and how varying political and nuclear strategies have influenced Dutch conceptions of nuclear weaponry on their soil.

In a final paper, the Rev. Martin Jerrett-Kerr sets nuclear proliferation in the context of the theological and ethical response to human reality.

Science and Public Policy is edited by Maurice Goldsmith and is published by IPC Science and Technology Press Limited, P.O. Box 63, Westbury House, Bury Street, Guildford, Surrey, GU2 5BH, UK. Subscriptions are available by writing IPC Science & Technology Press Limited, 205 East 42nd Street, New York, New York 10017. ■

Calls for Papers

American Enterprise Institute Begins Series on Latin America

The Center for Hemispheric Studies of the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research has announced the inauguration of its new Occasional Paper Series on Latin America and Latin American affairs. This series is part of a broader research, conference, and publication launched by the Center designed to address important issues of public policy and to enhance our understanding of Latin America.

The Occasional Papers Series is intended to provide circulation within policy-making and academic circles for papers relating to the Center's primary research concerns. Current staff research interests include: a study of public order and instability in Central America and the Caribbean, a study of human rights and U.S. human rights policy in Latin America, a project on the role of the state in the political economy of Latin America, a project on the interconnections between Iberia and Latin America, a study of democracy and authoritarianism in Latin America, a study of state-society relations focused particularly on state regulation of labor and entrepreneurial groups in Latin America, a study of bureaucratic authoritarianism and change in Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

The Center for Hemispheric Studies will consider papers relating to these themes for inclusion in its Occasional Papers Series. Inquiries and abstracts should be directed to Ms. Janine Perfit, Center for Hemispheric Studies, American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, 1150 Seventeenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. ■

Journal Solicits Material for Review

Armed Forces and Society, an interdisciplinary quarterly journal focusing on foreign area studies, international relations and military affairs, has instituted "From the Archives," a section featuring short reviews of materials not usually covered among the journal's regular book reviews (e.g., documents, "think tank" reports, anthologies, reference works, pertinent issues of other periodicals). Send publications to: James A. Stegenga, Department of Political Science, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana 47907. ■

Papers Solicited For Symposium

Southern Review of Public Administration is calling for papers to be published in a special symposium issue, "The Economic Development Function in Local and State Government." Those interested in contributing should request materials outlining issues in the symposium and notes on manuscript preparation from Terry F. Buss, Director, Center for Urban Studies, Youngstown State University, Youngstown, Ohio 44555. ■

Policy Papers Sought

The Institute for Social Philosophy and Policy wishes to solicit manuscripts for publication in its philosophy and public policy monograph series. The series, entitled Studies in Social Philosophy and Public Policy seeks papers that will analyze a specific public policy area (e.g., public lands, energy, welfare) from an explicitly formulated philosophical perspective. Authors of manuscripts selected for publication in the monograph series will be awarded an honorarium of $500. Manuscripts must be unpublished, approximately 40 to 75 pages in length, submitted in duplicate, along with a 150-word abstract.

The series will begin publication in 1982. Authors desiring return of their submissions must include a stamped self-addressed envelope. Send manuscripts to: Professor Ellen F. Paul, Research Director, Institute for Social Philosophy and Policy, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio 43402. ■

Mexican Journal Calls for Articles

Foro Internacional is a quarterly journal published by the Center of International Studies of El Colegio de Mexico since 1960. Foro features articles focusing on the theory and practice of international relations and related political and economic aspects, as well as comparative politics. Contributions are invited in these fields. The journal is published in Spanish, but contributions in other languages are accepted; Foro takes care of the translation, the only condition being that the rights of publication (in any language) be exclusive.

Please submit all manuscripts (in duplicate) to: Esperanza Durán, Editor, Foro Internacional, El Colegio de Mexico, Camino ad Ajusco 20, Mexico 20, D.F. Subscription rates are $19.50 (post free). ■

Comparative Judicial Studies

The Research Committee for Comparative Judicial Studies of the International Political Science Association will consider proposals for papers on Judiciaries and Human Rights, Judicial Behavior, and Court Structures and Processes for presentation at the XII Congress of the International Political Science Association scheduled for August 9-14, 1982, in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

If you wish to submit a proposal please send the proposed title, a detailed description of the substance of the proposed paper, and a brief resume of your research and contributions in the comparative judicial area to: John R. Schmdhauser, Chairman, Research Committee for Comparative Judicial Studies of the International Political Science Association, Department of Political Science, VKC 327, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, California 90007, U.S.A. ■

Social Sciences Journal Requests Contributions

The Journal of Applied Social Sciences welcomes contributions in the sociology of social welfare, applications of the social sciences to human services, and the like. Articles must conform to the style requirements of the American Psychological Association and should not exceed 20-24 double-spaced typewritten pages. Three copies should be submitted, along with an abstract of no more than 150 words. Articles submitted should not have been published or concurrently under consideration elsewhere. Submit papers to: Pranab Chatterjee, Editor,

Journal of Applied Social Sciences, Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio 44106. ■

Journal Requests Papers on Women

The Social Science Journal is publishing a symposium issue on Women in State and Local Politics. The deadline for submission of papers for consideration for inclusion in the symposium is January 1, 1983. Please send three copies of papers to: Janet Clark, Department of Political Science, University of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyoming 82071. ■

Announcements

Fulbright Scholars Available For Short-Term Visits

More than 150 Fulbright scholars from all regions of the world, currently in the United States for college and university teaching and advanced research, are available for occasional lectures, seminars and special programs. The Council for International Exchange of Scholars (CIES), which administers the Senior Scholar Fulbright Program, announced that limited funds would be available to facilitate travel to interested institutions, particularly those which have had little opportunity to participate in the Fulbright Scholar Exchange Program.

The Council has prepared a brochure describing the Occasional Lecturer Program and listing by discipline Fulbright scholars who welcome short-term invitations. The entries include proposed topics, home and U.S. affiliations. A copy of the brochure is available from Mary W. Ernst, Council for International Exchange of Scholars, 11 Dupont Circle, N.W., Department N, Washington, D.C. 20036; (202) 833-4979. Also available upon request is the 1981-82 Directory of Visiting Fulbright Scholars, a by-