The Regime Complex For Climate Change

Robert O. Keohane and David G. Victor

NEW FROM UNIVERSITY PRESS OF FLORIDA

Failed Sanctions

Why the U.S. Embargo against Cuba Could Never Work
Paolo Spadoni

"An excellent study indicating how transnational players, nation-states (including Cuba), and individual tourists (particularly Cuban-Americans) were able to undermine the U.S. embargo on Cuba so that from its earliest stage in 1960 it was doomed to failure."

—Peter Schwab, SUNY-Purchase

Hardcover $34.95

Kennedy v. Nixon

The Presidential Election of 1960
Edmund F. Kallina Jr.

"For almost half a century The Making of the President, 1960 has stood as the standard work on this topic. Kallina has exposed the mythology of Theodore White's description of Camelot. For the first time we have an unbiased portrayal of what happened before, during, and after that pivotal election."

—Irving F. Gellman, author of The Contender

Hardcover $69.95

U.S. Relations with Latin America during the Clinton Years

Opportunities Lost or Opportunities Squandered?
David Scott Palmer

"This study fills a hole in the literature on U.S. Latin American policies. A welcome attempt to delve into the complexities of U.S. policy-making."—Latin American Politics and Society

ISBN 978-1-61610-142-8 | Paperback $19.95

Selling War in a Media Age

The Presidency and Public Opinion in the American Century
Edited by Kenneth Osgood and Andrew K. Frank

"Venturesome . . . Is it ever possible for a president to nudge the nation to war without lying? Most of these authors would vote no."—Columbia Journalism Review

Hardcover $44.95

Toledo's Peru

Vision and Reality
Ronald Bruce St John

"Combines in-depth interviews with contemporary accounts to provide the first full-length study of a Peruvian government that, in spite of its many limitations, often self-induced, deepened the market economy while restoring democratic practices."

—David Scott Palmer, Boston University

Hardcover $44.95

Venezuela's Petro-Diplomacy

Hugo Chávez's Foreign Policy
Edited by Ralph S. Clem and Anthony P. Maingot

"The first academic endeavor to research and understand the complex web of Venezuela's recent mono-industrial over-dependence on oil/petroleum and its implications for foreign policy and hemispheric relations."

—David E. Lewis, former assistant secretary of state for Caribbean development, Commonwealth of Puerto Rico

Hardcover $65.00

Brazilian Foreign Policy after the Cold War

Sean W. Burges

"An important, well-documented book. The intergration of interviews with Brazilian officials and diplomats into the text is especially impressive."—Choice

Paperback $29.95

AVAILABLE MAY 2011:

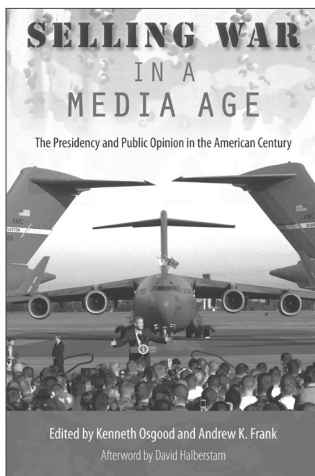

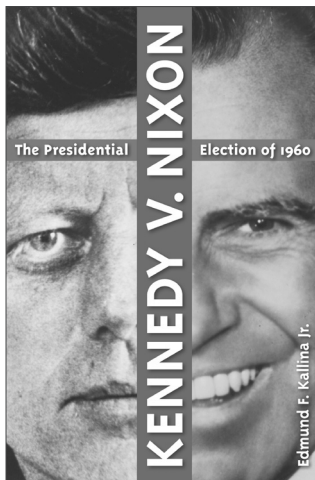

Transnational Politics in Central America

Luis Roniger

"Finally, a study that moves beyond abstract assertions. . . . This is a rich, interdisciplinary look at regional history, politics, and society."

—Thomas Legler, coeditor of Promoting Democracy in the Americas

Hardcover $74.95

Cover Art: Recently installed wind turbines erected next to Drax, Europe's biggest coal fired power power station in Selby, England (August 24, 2010). The Rusholme wind farm creates 24 Mega Watts—enough to supply power for an estimated 14,000 households. By comparison, Drax creates 3,960 Mega Watts and supplies 7% of Britain's electricity. According to a recent article in the Guardian, Drax is Britain's biggest emitter of carbon dioxide—about 22m tons in a typical year. (<http://www.guardian.co.uk/environment/2010/feb/25/greenwash-drax-power-plant>, accessed 02/04/2011) "It emits as much CO₂ as one-quarter of all Britain's cars, and more than all the planes taking off from Heathrow in a year. It emits more than the whole of Sweden. . . Under the EU emissions trading scheme, Drax only has permission to emit 9.6m tons of CO₂, less than half its actual emissions. It has to buy permits to make up the difference." The article explains the position of Drax chief executive officer as follows: "Thompson says that if it is cheaper to burn coal and buy the permits, that is what she will do." Philosophy for Perspectives on Politics

Perspectives seeks to nurture a political science public sphere, publicizing important scholarly topics, ideas, and innovations, linking scholarly authors and readers, and promoting broad reflexive discussion among political scientists about the work that we do and why this work matters.

A full-length copy of the editorial philosophy appears in Perspectives on Politics 8(1): 7–10 and also on the web at http://www.apsanet.org/content_44375.cfm.

Submission and Review

For submission guidelines, please see http://www.apsanet.org/content_44360.cfm.

Our editorial team discusses all submissions. Those that seem promising are evaluated by several external reviewers—with full confidentiality on both sides—and then accepted, returned for further revisions, or declined with suggestions of more appropriate venues for publication.

Africa: Journal of the International African Institute

EDITORS

KARIN BARBER, UNIVERSITY OF BIRMINGHAM, UK

DAVID PRATTEN, UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD, UK

Published for the International African Institute

Africa, the journal of the International African Institute is the premier journal in African Studies, encompassing the whole of Africa and a wide spectrum of disciplines. Founded in 1928, the journal has a long history of publishing ground-breaking work in the humanities, social sciences, and environmental studies.

Editorial policy encourages an interdisciplinary approach. We are interested in African production of knowledge, emerging social and cultural trends 'on the ground', and links between local and national levels of society.

A thematic strand on 'local intellectuals' highlights obscure or unpublished texts by Africans writing outside the academic or literary mainstream. These shed a fascinating light on local life in Africa. Online publication makes it possible to reproduce extensive local texts in their entirety, as a supplement to articles published in the journal.

Each issue contains six or seven major articles, arranged thematically, extensive review essays and substantial book reviews. One issue each year is a guest-edited special issue on a key emerging topic or theme.

Impact Factor*: 0.592

Quarterly. Volume 81, 2011. ISSN 0001-9720. E-ISSN 1750-0184

Africa is not sold on its own to institutional subscribers. It is sold to institutions in a package with the annual Africa Bibliography and is available in print, online and bundled formats in this package.

The International African Library (IAL) is a monograph series from the International African Institute. Over 40 books have been published since the series' inception in 1986, including winners of the Herskovits Prize, the Amaury Talbot Prize, and the Audrey Richards Prize. The IAL enjoys the reputation as one of the leading series in African Studies, and Cambridge University Press is proud to carry on this fine tradition beginning with the publication of War and the Crisis of Youth in Sierra Leone by Krijn Peters in December 2010.

International African Institute

The IAI was founded in 1926 in London as the International Institute of African Languages and Cultures. Over the years, the IAI has played a pioneering role in promoting African studies through facilitating research, scholarly publishing about Africa, and a variety of other programmes including hosting seminars and lectures. Cambridge University Press is proud to announce that beginning in January 2011, we will take over publication of this venerable institution's critically important and innovative collection of books and journals.
