LYNN HUNT

This major new series will focus on the problems of political, social and cultural change that have accompanied the transition to the modern world.

Lynn Hunt's book, the first volume in the series, is a powerful new interpretation of the French Revolution which re-directs our attention to its central political significance. Professor Hunt shows that the Revolution's main accomplishment was the foundation of a political culture of democratic and revolutionary republicanism which has had an enduring influence on Western politics.

Revolution Postponed

Women in Contemporary China

Margery Wolf. The Communist revolution promised Chinese women an equality with men in all matters legal, political, social, and economic. This book examines the extent to which this promise has been kept. Based on nearly a year of field research and interviews with over 300 women in six widely separated rural and urban areas, it gives us a vivid picture of Chinese women today—their daily lives, their views of the present, and their hopes for the future. These opinions, combined with the author's astute observations on their local and national context, add up to a wholly new perspective. $21.95

Facing Two Ways

The Story of My Life

Baroness Shidzue Ishimoto. Introduction and Afterword by Barbara Molony. First published in 1935, this book describes the early life of one of Japan's most remarkable modern women—the daughter of a samurai family, who rejected wealth and class to devote herself to liberating Japanese women from the bonds of traditionalism and the demands of biology. The Afterword treats Ishimoto's career from 1935 to her present role, at 87, as President of the Japan Family Planning Federation. Illus. Cloth, $35.00; paper, $10.95

Women, Power, and Economic Change

The Nandi of Kenya

Regina Smith Oboler. The author examines the impact of colonialism and the cash economy on the Nandi, a semi-pastoral and patrilineal people of western Kenya, emphasizing changes in women's and men's economic roles and their respective relations to property and to each other. Although most of the book is ethnographic in nature, it also looks at Nandi gender roles in the context of economic history and the processes that have induced change. Illus. $29.50

Andropov and Chernenko Whither Big Brother?

Chernenko, in his role as ideological controller, has been promoting "socialist realism" in the Soviet arts and literature; it would seem that it is "socialist funerealism" that prevails in Soviet life.

However "interim" a leader Chernenko may turn out to be, neither the problems of the "real" succession, nor the problems of the Soviet economy can be swept under the carpet.

In this issue of SURVEY we scrutinize Andropov's 15 months in power and analyse what Chernenko's succession may signal. We also have an extended analysis of the problem of Soviet economic reform which includes a sensational Soviet document – the leaked Novosibirsk Report.

THE WORLD TODAY

STUDENTS OF CURRENT AFFAIRS, to be well informed, need the facts. In THE WORLD TODAY, the monthly journal of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, experts bring to the general reader up-to-date and reliable information on world affairs.

Authoritative and objective, THE WORLD TODAY deals primarily with international problems but also includes articles on internal political and economic conditions in individual countries or regions, written by authors with first-hand knowledge. Short comment in 'Notes of the Month' puts current developments into perspective and provides a background to events of international significance.

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalizations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, Department of History, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.
