CAMBRIDGE LIBRARY COLLECTION

Books of enduring scholarly value

In the spirit of Cambridge University Press's continued commitment to innovation and enterprise, the Cambridge Library Collection will launch in July 2009, making an initial group of 475 out-of-print books available again. Another 1,000 will follow by the end of 2009 and 3,000 titles a year will be added as the program continues.

Drawing from the world-renowned collections in the Cambridge University Library, these books are carefully selected by experts in each subject area because of their scholarly importance or as landmarks in the history of their academic discipline.

Cambridge University Press is using state-of-the-art scanning machines to capture the contents of each book. The files are processed to give a consistently clear, crisp image, and the books finished to the high-quality standard for which the press is recognized around the world. The latest print-on-demand technology ensures that the books will remain available indefinitely.

The Cambridge Library Collection will revive books of enduring scholarly value across a wide range of disciplines in the humanities, social sciences, science and technology.

EARLY KOREA

RECONSIDERING EARLY
KOREAN HISTORY THROUGH ARCHAEOLOGY

Mark E. Byington, Editor

Early Korea, a new publication from the Early Korea Project at the Korea Institute, Harvard University, is a series designed to promote and develop studies of early Korean history and archaeology in the English language. While these fields are active and dynamic in East Asia, they are only beginning to develop in English-language scholarship. Early Korea provides a forum for scholarly articles focused on studies of Korean history, archaeology and art history prior to the tenth century. Each volume features a section dedicated to several articles focused on a selected theme, along with articles on timely issues in the fields of early Korean history and archaeology as well as studies on the academic fields themselves.

The first volume, "Reconsidering Early Korean History Through Archaeology," features three articles by prominent Korean scholars focused on the topic of recent advances in historical archaeology on the Korean peninsula and adjacent regions and how this is changing the ways historians understand the origins and development of the earliest states on the peninsula. Other articles include a survey of the development of Korean ceramic traditions and two studies on the practice of heritage management in Korea.

New Research from the AAS

New in 2009

"Tools of Culture" addresses aspects of Japanese human and material interactions in East Asia from the late eleventh through the late sixteenth centuries, a period coincident with Japan's late classical and medieval eras.

Each chapter provides a different perspective on the interactions—travel, trade, texts, religion, poetry, medicine, and art—rippling through Japanese society and across the waters that joined Japan and the continent.

South Asia Across the Disciplines

Edited by Dipesh Chakrabarty, Sheldon Pollock, and Sanjay Subrahmanyam

EDITORIAL BOARD:

Nicholas B. Dirks • Wendy Doniger • Leela Gandhi • Robert Goldman
Akhil Gupta • Sudipta Kaviraj • Kathleen D. Morrison • Gregory Schopen
Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak • Gauri Viswanathan • Steven I. Wilkinson

Published jointly by the University of California Press, the University of Chicago Press, and Columbia University Press

Three of the academy's leading publishers in South Asian studies are combining their resources and those of the Mellon Foundation to launch a major new series devoted principally to first books in this vibrant field.

"South Asia Across the Disciplines" will address core questions of South Asian studies. These include the place of South Asian studies in the disciplinary order; the presence of the past and the pastness of the present in South Asia; the history and nature of modernity (including early and late modernity), especially in relation to such issues as cultural change, political transformation, secularism and political religion, and globalization. Above all, the series will showcase monographs that spur new archives, theory, and method. We expect our authors, whom we hope will represent the entire, global extent of South Asian studies, to emerge principally from history, literary studies, religious studies, philosophy, and the interpretive social sciences, especially social or cultural anthropology. We will also consider books that apply to the fields of political science, sociology, and economics.

As a collaboration among leading university presses, "South Asia Across the Disciplines" marks an innovative approach. Each book in the series will be published under the imprint of one of the three presses, but all will be promoted as part of the series, sharing in design, advertising, and publicity.

Authors interested in submitting a book manuscript to the series should send an initial inquiry and prospectus to Avni Majithia at am3190@columbia.edu. All manuscripts should be complete at the time of submission.

CASTE IN INDIA

Diane Mines

"Diane Mines has produced a clear and compelling introduction to one of the world's most complex and misunderstood social systems.

This booklet offers an exhaustive overview of the anthropology and history of caste based on extensive reading and over two decades of ethnographic research in rural South India. It also speaks to the wider political and economic dimensions of caste as it is lived and debated in India today. Caste in India will be a most welcome addition to introductory courses in anthropology, history, sociology, geography, and political science."

Editors

Duncan Snidal, University of Chicago

Alexander Wendt, The Ohio State University

Launching in 2009, International Theory invites papers on theory of all varieties and from all disciplines, provided it addresses problems of politics, broadly defined and relates to the international.

International Theory welcomes scholarship that uses evidence from the real world to advance theoretical arguments. However, it is intended as a forum where scholars can develop theoretical arguments in depth without an expectation of extensive empirical analysis.

FELLOWSHIPS IN CONTEMPORARY ASIA-PACIFIC STUDIES FOR JUNIOR SCHOLARS

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center in the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies announces its 2010–2011 Walter H. Shorenstein Fellowships. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent Ph.D.s must have degree conferral by August 31, 2010) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the program is contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including Northeast, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. Fellows must be in residence for at least three academic quarters, beginning the fall quarter of the 2010 academic year. Fellows take part in center activities throughout the academic year, and are required to present their research findings in center seminars. Fellows also participate in the center's publication program. The fellowship carries a stipend of $42,000, plus $2,500 for research materials.

Applicants should submit: (1) a brief research statement (not to exceed five typed pages), which describes the research and writing to be undertaken during the fellowship period, as well as the proposed publishable product that will result; (2) curriculum vitae; and (3) three letters of recommendation.

DEADLINE FOR RECEIPT OF ALL MATERIAL IS DECEMBER 15, 2009. Address all materials and queries to Ms. Nancy Ashton, Executive Assistant to the Director, Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center, Encina Hall E301, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305-6055. email nashton07@stanford.edu.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY ANNOUNCES
THE 2010–2011 NORTHEAST ASIAN HISTORY FELLOWSHIP

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (Shorenstein APARC) in the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies at Stanford University announces its 2010–2011 Northeast Asian History Fellowship. Made possible through the generosity of the Northeast Asian History Foundation, the fellowship supports a scholar to conduct research and writing on a historical subject that has an impact on modern and contemporary Northeast Asia. The fellow helps deepen the Center's current research on historical issues and on how historical memory has shaped current relations in Northeast Asia. Applicants should have a record of research and publishing on Northeast Asian historical issues, but candidates may include scholars from all social sciences and other disciplines such as international relations and art history. A junior scholar with a Ph.D. received after 2003 is preferred. In the case of a senior scholar, the fellowship can be used to supplement a sabbatical leave.

Fellows must be in residence for one academic year, beginning the fall quarter of the 2010 academic year. Fellows take part in Center activities throughout the academic year, present a lecture on their research topic, and organize one workshop or colloquium series focused on a theme in Northeast Asian history. The fellow must also visit Korea for a one- to two-week stay at the Northeast Asia History Foundation, where he/she will deliver at least one lecture and engage in dialogue on issues of mutual concern with scholars at the foundation.

The Northeast Asian History Fellow will participate in the Center's publication program and must submit one publishable article at the end of the fellowship, which can be published in the Journal of Northeast Asian History or elsewhere. The fellow will teach a credited Stanford lecture or seminar course through the University's Center for East Asian Studies. The course topic can vary depending on the area of specialization but it should be related to historical issues in modern or contemporary Northeast Asia.

The fellow receives a stipend of $45,000, plus $2,500 for research materials.

Applicants should submit: (1) a brief research statement (not to exceed five typed pages), which describes the research, writing, and teaching to be undertaken during the fellowship period; (2) curriculum vitae; and (3) three letters of recommendation.

DEADLINE FOR RECEIPT OF ALL MATERIALS IS DECEMBER 15, 2009. Address all materials and queries to Ms. Nancy Ashton, Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center, Encina Hall E301, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305-6055. email letigre@stanford.edu.

REQUIREMENTS FOR MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION

When preparing a manuscript, please note that JAS is committed to publishing articles based on in-depth, original research. Authors should also take care to address the interests of our broad, multidisciplinary readership by raising larger questions of interest that reach beyond their precise research specialties. Authors are encouraged to consult recent issues of JAS for guidance on style and formatting.

- Please submit inquiries, manuscripts and images electronically to the Editor at jas@journalofasianstudies.org. Electronic text should use MS Word-compatible software; include a PDF file if using non-standard characters. Low-resolution images and illustrations are acceptable for the review process; all images, tables and figures should include titles or captions. Please note that in the event of publication, the author is responsible for acquiring high-resolution images along with permission to publish them. If electronic submission is not possible, please contact the editorial office at the email address, phone number or fax number listed above.
- Article manuscripts, including notes and references, should range between 8,000 and 10,000 words, or approximately thirty-five pages in length, and must include a 150 word abstract at the beginning of the document.
- Authors' names must be left off of the manuscript, as JAS engages in double-blind reviews.
- Manuscripts must be double-spaced with 12-point type and 1 inch margins including extracts, notes, and references, and formatted for letter-size (8.5 × 11 in.) paper if possible.
- Notes should be as few as possible and appear at the end of the text.
- Use parenthetical in-text citation, and author-date formatting for references per Chicago Manual of Style, 15th edition (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2003), pp. 616–24.
- Please use the following Romanization: Chinese: Pinyin; Japanese: Hepburn; Korean: McCune-Reischauer.
- Paper manuscript submissions are acceptable if electronic submission is not possible. Please include four copies of your document in the submission packet.
- Manuscripts submitted to JAS should not have been published elsewhere and should not be under review for publication elsewhere.

Articles in JAS represent neither the views of the Association for Asian Studies nor those of the JAS editors. The Editor is responsible for the final selection of content of JAS and reserves the right to reject any material deemed inappropriate for publication. Responsibility for opinions expressed and the accuracy of facts published in articles and reviews rests solely with the individual authors.
