

THE VIRUS

Life's Enemy

By KENNETH SMITH

20 Illustrations. 8s. 6d. net

This, the third volume in The Cambridge Library of Modern Science, deals with a subject of which little was known or imagined until very recent times, but which may yet prove to be of paramount biological, economic, and philosophical importance. It has all the interest of stories of man's courageous and imaginative research, with the added importance that a proper understanding of virus diseases and viruses is essential for the future well-being of mankind.

This volume continues Dr Staig's systematic description and illustration of Hunter's collection of insects, made about 160 years ago and then classified by Fabricius, which was part of Hunter's bequest to Glasgow. The first volume was published in 1931 and began the description of Coleoptera, which this volume continues.
