CIVILIZATION AND OPPRESSION

Edited by
CATHERINE WILSON

$22.00 • 294pp. • ISBN 0-919491-25-1
ISSN 0229-7051

This distinctive collection of essays explores the relationship between the growth and development of civilization and the forms of social and political oppression that civilization permits and encourages as well as the forms of oppression that civilized societies unmask and seek to relieve. It offers fresh insights into the thought of political philosophers, including Locke, Montesquieu, Marx, Kant, Mill, and Rawls as well as the postmodernist response of Foucault and his successors to the fact of the domination of human by human.

• CJP SUPPLEMENTARY VOLUME 26 • MORAL EPISTEMOLOGY NATURALIZED

Edited by

RICHMOND CAMPBELL &
BRUCE HUNTER

$25.00 · 241 pp.

ISBN 0-919491-26-X

ISSN 0045-5091

A traditional task of epistemology is to establish and defend systematic standards that must be met in order for us to have knowledge or justified beliefs. A naturalized epistemology tries to arrive at such standards through an empirical investigation into how we interact with our fellows and the world around us, what we seek in these activities, and the particular ways in which we can and cannot succeed. This approach is a radical departure from tradition because its means of investigation is empirical.

Nevertheless, since its inception three decades ago, this style of epistemology has become a powerful trend in contemporary theory of knowledge. This collection breaks new ground in extending the insights and methodology of naturalized epistemology to the subject of moral knowledge and moral theory.

What might we know if we knew that the mind is an adaptation? What could knowledge of history or circumstances tell us about the individuation of content or the nature/rôle of vision? What can science—evolutionary theory in particular—tell us about the metaphysics of mind?

This collection of new essays concerning the mind explores the prospects for, and limits of, appealing to facts about evolutionary history and current environment-organism interaction in explaining the nature and workings of the mental. Each paper addresses empirical data from evolutionary theory, ethology, psychology, or neuroscience, though they vary with regard to their optimism as to what such discoveries can tell us about particular issues in the philosophy of mind.

Biology & Philosophy

Editor-in-Chief: Kim Sterelny, Research School of the Social Sciences, Australian National University, Canberra, Australia and Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand

Associate Editors: Peter Godfrey-Smith, Dept. of Philosophy, Stanford University, CA, USA; Paul Griffiths, Dept. of History & Philosophy of Science, University of Pittsburgh, PA, USA;
Jane Maienschein, Arizona State University, Tempe, USA

The past decades have witnessed fascinating and controversial advances in the biological sciences. One may think, for instance, of methods for analyzing the basic molecular units of heredity; of proposals and clarifications of the appropriate methods of classifying organisms; of exciting new ideas about the nature of the fossil record and their implications for the elucidation of evolutionary mechanisms; and of ways in which the biological study of behavior has been extended, theoretically and experimentally, and of supposed implications for humankind. To add to these internal issues, the outside world has also seen much debate on biology – in the world of education, for instance.

These and other issues have made biology one of the most exhilarating areas of science, and have aroused in biologists and philosophers an awareness that there is a need for meta-theoretical analysis, both about the very nature of biology, as well as about its social implications.

Biology and Philosophy is aimed at a broad readership, drawn from both the sciences and the humanities. The journal subscribes to no specific school of biology, nor of philosophy, and publishes work from authors of all persuasions and all disciplines. The editorial board reflects this attitude in its composition and its world-wide membership.

Each issue of Biology and Philosophy carries one or more discussions or comparative reviews, permitting the in-depth study of important works and topics.

Studies in East European Thought

Founding Editor: J.M. Bocheński

Editor-in-Chief: Edward M. Swiderski, IEO,
University of Fribourg, Switzerland

Editorial Assistant: Frances Nethercott, Cardiff, UK;
Evert van der Zweerde, Faculty of Philosophy,
University of Nijmegen, The Netherlands

Studies in East European Thought is intended to provide a forum for Western-language (English and German) writings on philosophy and philosophers who identify with the history and cultures of East and Central Europe, including Russia, Ukraine, and the Baltic States. The editors do not advocate a program or defend a position as to the nature and limits of philosophy in its manifold interactions with other disciplines and in its role in articulating cultural values and marking intellectual dissonances. They welcome descriptive, critical, comparative, and historical studies of individuals, schools, currents, and institutions whose work and influence are widely regarded in their own environments to be philosophical or provide insight into the socio-cultural conditions of philosophical life in Eastern Europe.
