MAMLŪK STUDIES REVIEW

The First Scholarly
Journal Devoted
Exclusively to Mamluk
Studies

Published by The Middle East
Documentation Center (MEDOC)
The University of Chicago

Mamlūk Studies Review is an annual journal devoted to the study of the Mamluk Sultanate of Egypt and Syria (648-922/1250-1517). The goals of Mamlūk Studies Review are to take stock of scholarship devoted to the Mamluk era, nurture communication within the field, and to promote further research by encouraging the critical discussion of all aspects of this important medieval Islamic polity. The journal will include articles and reviews of recent books, as well as edited texts and translations of shorter Arabic source materials (waqf deeds, letters, fatāwá, etc.). Featured articles in Volume 1 include:

Donald P. Little, Documents as a Source for Mamluk History

Li Guo, Mamluk Historiographic Studies: The State of the Art

W. W. Clifford, Ubi Sumus? Social Theory and Mamluk Studies

Th. Emil Homerin, Reflections on Poetry in the Mamluk Age

Doris Behrens-Abouseif, The Maḥmal Tradition and the Pilgrimage of the Ladies of the Mamluk Court

Donald Whitcomb, Mamluk Archeological Studies: A Review

Leonor Fernandes, Mamluk Architecture and the Question of Patronage

ISSN 1086-170X
