A NOSTALGIC JOURNEY THROUGH CHILE

MY INVENTED
COUNTRY

is Isabel Allende's highly personal memoir of exile and homeland centering around two life-changing moments—the assassination of her uncle, Salvador Allende Gossens, on September 11, 1973, and the terrorist attack of September 11, 2001. While acknowledging the role of memory and nostalgia, Allende evokes people and landscapes of her native Chile, and the politics, religion, myth, and magic of a place she carries with her even today.

Manuel Rionda and the Fortunes of Pre-Castro Cuba

Muriel McAvoy

"McAvoy's 'subject' is not simply Manuel Rionda as an individual, but the entire history of U.S.-Cuban relations from the Spanish-Cuban-American War to the Revolution of 1933. Believe it or not, such a story can be told from the vantage point of this one individual, and McAvoy has done it in exemplary fashion."—César Ayala, University of California, Los Angeles

Cuba's Foreign Relations in a Post-Soviet World

H. Michael Erisman

"Kudos to Erisman for a timely, provocative, and persuasive analysis of Cuban foreign affairs. This book should be required reading for policy makers in Havana and Washington, for Latin American and Caribbean specialists, and for all those intrigued by the survival of the Cuban Revolution into the 21st century."—John W. Gaitanismo, Left Liberalism, and Popular Mobilization in Colombia

W. John Green

"The breadth of Green's research and the originality of his ideas are truly impressive. In addition to the whole phenomenon of Gaitanismo, one can learn an enormous amount about the interworking of Colombian politics and especially the role played by gamonales and fraud in local and national elections."—Jane Rausch, University of Massachusetts, Amherst

BECOMING CAMPESINOS

Becoming Campesinos
Politics, Identity, and Agrarian Struggle in Postrevolutionary Michoacan, 1920-1935

CHRISTOPHER R. BOYER

In Becoming Campesinos, the author argues that the understanding of popular-class unity conveyed by the term campesino originated in the interaction of postrevolutionary ideologies and agrarian militancy during the 1920s and 1930s. The book uses oral histories, archival documents, and partisan newspapers to trace the history of one movement born of this dynamic—agrarisimo in the state of Michoacán.

COLLECTING LATIN AMERICAN ART FOR THE 21ST CENTURY

EDITED BY MARI CARMEN RAMÍREZ
WITH THERESA PAPANIKOLAS

Five essays explore the shifting profile of Latin American art collections. What are the challenges of collecting the art of such a heterogeneous region? How have local collectors balanced individual tastes with the demands of a globalized art world? A series of case studies examine the history and context behind this largely unprecedented trend.

IMAGINING IDENTITY IN NEW SPAIN

RACE, LINEAGE, AND THE COLONIAL BODY
IN PORTRAITURE AND CASTA PAINTINGS

By MAGALI M. CARRERA

Using an interdisciplinary approach that also considers legal, literary, and religious documents, Carrera focuses on eighteenth-century portraiture and casta paintings (which purported to portray discrete categories of mixed-blood plebeians) to understand how the people and spaces of New Spain were conceptualized and visualized.
