Precedent in the World Court

Mohamed Shahabuddeen

Although precedent in the International Court of Justice is not binding, the Court relies upon its previous judgments as authoritative expressions of its views. Judge Shahabuddeen shows the extent to which the Court is guided by previous decisions, and how parties to cases themselves use the Court's decisions when framing and presenting their cases.

The Haiti Crisis in International Law

Marc Weller, Editor

Ana MacLean, Assistant Editor

The Haiti episode represents the first and only instance of a UN-mandated military operation to restore democracy, against the wishes of an effective government in the target state. This volume documents the crisis from the initial coup, the immediate responses of the UN, the Organization of American States (OAS), Human Rights bodies and states involved in the crisis.

The Control and Monitoring of Iraqi Weaponry of Mass Destruction

Marc Weller, Editor

Philip Hatfield, Assistant Editor

After the Gulf War, unprecedented calls for the destruction and monitoring of its chemical, biological, nuclear and other convention weapons facilities were leveled against Iraq. The texts of Iraq's commitments to nuclear non-proliferation, materials on the work of UN Special Commission for disarming and monitoring Iraq, and International Atomic Agency documents are reproduced, with a helpful introduction.

THE PROBLEM OF REFUGEES IN THE LIGHT OF CONTEMPORARY INTERNATIONAL LAW ISSUES

edited by Vera Gowlland-Debbas

The contributions collected in the present book go beyond refugee law in its traditional sense, largely centred on questions of durable asylum and the plight of only a small tranche of the asylum-seeking population, in situating refugee law within the broader international legal system.

CHILDREN ON THE MOVE How to Implement Their Right to Family Life

edited by Jaap Doek, Hans van Loon, and Paul Vlaardingerbroek

Children on the Move provides the reader with an in-depth analysis of the various legal aspects (problems and remedies) of inter-country adoption, international child abduction, and children as international refugees.

1996. Hardcover, ISBN 90-411-0156-X, $122.00

TRANSFRONTIER MOBILITY OF LAW

edited by A.J. de Roo, Robert W. Jagtenberg, Esin Öricü

This volume is a collection of the papers presented on a study day 'Transfrontier Mobility of Law' held in Erasmus University, Rotterdam, on 23 September 1994. All these papers help the reader to see how the problems associated with the transfrontier mobility of law are universal, how very interesting such movements are - not just in historical terms, but in the making - and how there is indeed a universal need for a wider analytical framework to assess future developments.

EMERGING ELECTRONIC HIGHWAYS

New Challenges for Politics and Law

edited by Victor J.J.M. Bekkers, Sjaak Nouwt, Bert-Jaap Koops

Electronic highways are emerging; the information society is in the making, but who is building the infrastructure, and whose interests are to be taken into account in establishing the electronic superhighway? This book sets out important administrative and legal implications for political scientists, lawyers, as well as other professionals working on electronic highways.

WEAPONS PROLIFERATION AND WORLD ORDER: After the Cold War

by Brad Roberts

With the end of the Cold War, the subject of weapons proliferation has acquired new interest and prominence. This study describes the prevailing conceptual model of nuclear proliferation, evaluates proliferation's changing technical features, considers economic and political factors bearing on its future rate and character, and speculates about proliferation's implications on the post-cold-war world order. It concludes with an assessment of progress to date in meeting these new challenges, arguing that the new agenda is only slowly coming into focus.

THE EXTINCTION OF NATION- STATES: A World without Borders

by L. Ali Khan

This work explores whether the nation-state is a useful concept under contemporary international law. It traces the historical development of the nation-state, then argues that due to increased interdependence among the peoples of the world, the nation-state has become dysfunctional in serving the needs of global life. Emphasizing a world

SELF-DETERMINATION, TERRORISM AND THE INTERNATIONAL HUMANI- TARIAN LAW OF ARMED CONFLICT

by E. Chadwick

Since international terrorism was defined by the world community in 1937, a World War and the Cold War have made any such modern consensus impossible. Dr Chadwick argues that the separability of illicit acts of war would enable the international community to reach consensus more easily in regard to a definition of terrorism, and a coordination of efforts to deter its occurrence.

CUMULATIVE DIGEST OF UNITED STATES PRACTICE IN INTERNATIONAL LAW 1981-1989. BOOK III.

Book III, the concluding volume of the Cumulative Digest of United States Practice in International Law, 1981-1988, will become available from the Government Printing Office after April 15, 1996.

Book III consists of the second part of Chapter 10, and Chapters 11 through 15. Chapter 10, International Economic Law, contains materials on debt rescheduling, intellectual property, fuels and energy, communications and transportation, labor, and economic sanctions, including sanctions against terrorist-supporting states. Chapter 11, Environmental and Health Affairs, presents materials on transfrontier pollution, including air pollution (in regard to both Canada and Mexico), protection of the ozone layer, transboundary movements of hazardous wastes, whaling, drug control, and AIDS/HIV. Chapter 12, Scientific, Educational and Cultural Affairs, addresses illicit import, export and transfer of cultural property, statutes of limitation and cultural property litigation, international expositions, and Voice of America relay stations.

Chapter 13, Peaceful Settlement of Disputes, is divided into three sections. The first is devoted to the diplomatic processes of negotiation (Kampuchea), conciliation (the Esquipulas Central American Peace Process), and mediation (the Contadora Process), and to the U.S.-Chile disputes treaty (invoked to resolve the claims arising from the 1976 Letelier assassination). The second section, on arbitration, covers important issues addressed by the Iran-United States Claims Tribunal during the period 1981-1988, as well as the resolution of arbitrations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, regarding construction of their respective Embassies in Moscow and Washington, and between the United States and the United Kingdom, regarding Heathrow Airport user charges. The third section focuses on the International Court of Justice: the modification and subsequent termination of U.S. acceptance of its compulsory jurisdiction, arising from Nicaragua v. United States, and the general issues of jurisdiction and admissibility presented by that case; the obligation to arbitrate under the U.N. Headquarters Agreement; and the promotion of consensual jurisdiction, including discussion of two such cases before Special Chambers that involved the United States: the Gulf of Maine Case and the Raytheon (ELSI) Case.

Chapter 14, Legal Regulation of Use of Force, addresses, inter alia, the military operation in Grenada, self-defense against terrorism, including air strikes against Libya, the laws of war, developments in arms control and disarmament, the War Powers Resolution, and military assistance and sales to Angola.

Finally, Chapter 15, Private International Law, describes activities in the codification of private international law through the Hague Conference on Private International Law, the International Institute for the Unification of Private Law (UNIDROIT), the U.N. Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL), and the OAS Inter-American Specialized Conferences on Private International Law (CIDIP). The last section concerns international commercial arbitration, including the Inter-American Convention on Commercial Arbitration and the New York Convention.

Book III concludes with a Subject Index and Table of Cases for all three volumes.
