

Studies in American Political Development

Editors

Karen Orren, University of California, Los Angeles
Stephen Skowronek, Yale University

Studies in American Political Development publishes high quality scholarship covering American political change and institutional development from a historical perspective. Articles focus on government institutions and their social, economic and cultural environment. The journal features in-depth original articles, which allow scholars to elaborate on the complex patterns of state-society relations. These longer articles also encourage an interdisciplinary approach-- tying in relevant issues and related themes. In addition, SAPD recognizes the importance of comparative politics to the study of American institutions.

COMMON SENSE AND A LITTLE FIRE

Women and Working-Class Politics in the United States, 1900–1965

BY ANNELISE ORLECK

"A beautifully rendered collective biography of four activist immigrant women. This book is insightful, original, and dynamic. It makes an important contribution to the fields of labor history, immigrant history, and women's history. And it is a good read as well."—Alice Kessler-Harris, Rutgers University

approx. 410 pp., 41 illus., $39.95 cloth, $15.95 paper
Gender and American Culture available May

THE CIO, 1935–1955

BY ROBERT H. ZIEGER

"Zieger has written an incomparable institutional history of the CIO that surpasses all previous such studies but, more importantly, one that makes extremely imaginative use of social and cultural history to elucidate working-class 'mentalité.' . . . A brilliant accomplishment."—Melvyn Dubofsky, author of The State and Labor in Modern America

504 pp., 32 illus., $39.95

TAKING THE HARD ROAD

Life Course in French and German Workers' Autobiographies in the Era of Industrialization

BY MARY JO MAYNES

Based on a reading of ninety autobiographical accounts of growing up in French and German Industrial Revolution era working-class families, Taking the Hard Road explores the far-reaching historical transformations associated with the emergence of modern industrial capitalism. "A precious addition to our knowledge of nineteenth- and early twentieth-century life as revealed through the direct testimony of working men and women."

—Mark Traugott, University of California, Santa Cruz
approx. 300 pp., 28 illus., $39.95 cloth, $16.95 paper

WAGE LABOR AND GUILDS IN MEDIEVAL EUROPE

BY STEVEN A. EPSTEIN

"Relying on a broad range of printed and secondary sources, Wage Labor and Guilds charts the history of guilds from their antecedents in the Roman Empire to their 'crisis' in the fourteenth century. . . . As a much-needed synthesis, [the book] will serve students well."—Speculum

International Review of Social History

Editor: Marcel van der Linden,
Internationaal Instituut voor Sociale Geschiedenis, Amsterdam

International Review of Social History, the oldest scholarly journal of its kind, is distinguished for the quality, depth and originality of its articles. It also publishes documents, debates, a major bibliography of social history titles, professional news and an annual supplement of specially commissioned essays on a current topic.

In 1993, the journal expanded its scope by including as an annual supplement a collection of specially commissioned essays on a major theme. The 1995 supplement will deal with the social history of citizenship.

Major features

- Research articles (abstracted in English, French, German and Spanish)
- A review section with reviews and review essays on books of international interest
- An analytic, descriptive bibliography giving details of about 400 new books annually
- News of the profession with details of forthcoming conferences, research programmes, etc.

The Struggle for the Breeches

Gender and the Making of the British Working Class

ANNA CLARK

Clark depicts the making of the working class in Britain as a “struggle for the breeches.” By integrating gender into the analysis of class formation, she transforms the traditional narrative of working-class history.

Studies on the History of Society and Culture, $35.00 cloth, illustrated

From The Struggle for the Breeches

Law and Disorder on the Narova River

The Kreenholm Strike of 1872

REGINALD E. ZELNIK

“Zelnik has allowed the wonderfully textured account of the strike to illuminate some of the most garbled problems in Russian labor history. . . . A breakthrough work.”

—Ronald Grigor Suny,
University of Michigan

The Fabrication of Labor

Germany and Britain, 1640-1914

RICHARD BIERNACKI

This monumental study demonstrates the power of culture to define the meaning of labor. Biernacki shows how the very nature of labor as a commodity differed fundamentally in different national contexts.

The Rites of Labor

Brotherhoods of Compagnonnage in Old and New Regime France

CYNTHIA MARIA TRUANT

The only full account of the brotherhoods of compagnonnage (secret associations of French journeymen formed in the late medieval era), this book re-creates their economic activities, their clashes with one another, and the rituals that sustained their bonds. $43.95 cloth, $19.95 paper

Making Workers Soviet

Power, Class, and Identity

EDITED BY LEWIS H. SIEGELBAUM AND RONALD GRIGOR SUNY

This is the first book to examine the shifting identity of the "working class" in late tsarist and early Soviet societies. "A very fine collection. . . . The essays define the contours of future work in Russian and Soviet labor history."—William J. Chase, University of Pittsburgh $49.95 cloth, $19.95 paper

The Weaver's Knot

The Contradictions of Class Struggle and Family Solidarity in Western France, 1750-1914

TESSIE P. LIU

Liu provides a detailed history of the linen weavers of the Pays des Mauges. Focusing on the weavers' campaign for independence as small producers, she traces the consequences of their struggle not only for their regional economy but also for their family structure. $42.50 cloth, $17.95 paper
