

ERRATUM

Dying for an iPhone: Apple, Foxconn, and the Lives of China's Workers. By JENNY CHAN, MARK SELDEN, and PUN NGAI. Chicago: Haymarket Books, 2020. 300 pp. ISBN: 9781642591248 (paper). – ERRATUM

Ralph Litzinger

<https://doi.org/10.1017/S0021911821000760>, published by Cambridge University Press, 1 September 2021.

In the original publication of this review (Litzinger 2021), the name of one of the book's authors appeared incorrectly at the beginning of the third paragraph. The first sentence of that paragraph, on the bottom of p. 707, should read:

In the summer of 2010, as the number of suicides increased, Chan, Selden, and Pun began to work with researchers in China, Taiwan, and Hong Kong and made field visits to nine Chinese cities where Foxconn factories were located.

The publisher apologizes for this error.

Reference

LITZINGER, RALPH. 2021. Review of Dying for an iPhone: Apple, Foxconn, and the Lives of China's Workers, by Jenny Chan, Mark Selden, and Pun Ngai. Journal of Asian Studies 80(3): 707–708.