PATTERNS OF PART-TIME MINISTRY in some churches in South America

by DOUGLAS WEBSTER

5s.

This study of various patterns of part-time ministry in the fast-growing evangelical churches in South America was undertaken by Canon Douglas Webster, under the aegis of the World Dominion Press, in an attempt to assess what significance they may have for the Church elsewhere.

MISSIONARY PRINCIPLES

by ROLAND ALLEN

6s.

This work of Roland Allen's, so far little known, on how to be a missionary of Jesus Christ, is as relevant today as when it was written over fifty years ago. It will be widely used in training for service overseas and at home.

The Art and Truth of the Parables

Geraint V. Jones

35s. net

"After a succinct, well-informed and discriminating survey of modern treatment of the parables, the central part of the book is devoted to the study of 'The Parables as a Literary Form' . . . The reader, and especially the preacher, whom he has particularly in mind, will find page after page of illuminating suggestions toward a fresh understanding of familiar texts." C. H. Dodd: View Review

The Dome and the Rock

Kenneth Cragg

40s. net

"The Warden of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, in this sensitive and sympathetic treatment of Islam, writes out of a long and intimate experience of the Islamic World. . . . His book cannot fail to enlighten and encourage those Christians whose work and life bring them into close contact with Islam." Church Times

Tertullian's Homily on Baptism

Ernest Evans, Editor

35s. net

With the lucid and meticulous scholarship which has established his fame as an editor and commentator on Tertullian's works, Dr Evans gives here the text and translation, with Introduction and full notes, of another of Tertullian's important works, the De Baptismo.

The Four Gospels

The Clarified New Testament

Emil G. Kraeling

30s. net

Published in the U.S.A. by McGraw-Hill

An outstanding biblical scholar, gives us a new form of commentary. He provides readers and students of the Bible with a thoroughly scholarly view of the Gospels and helps them to understand what the evangelists have to say as they intended it to be understood by their contemporaries.

The Dead Sea Scrolls and the New Testament

Revised Edition

H. H. Rowley

3s. 6d.

A good deal of unscholarly, "sensational" statements has been written about the relation of the Dead Sea Scrolls and the Christian Faith. Dr Rowley is concerned to show how unfounded these statements are; and this he does brilliantly.

S·P·C·K

An Atheist's Values

RICHARD ROBINSON

'Nobody will agree with Mr Robinson on everything; but the virtues of free rational inquiry and of caring for beauty are not merely argued for in his pages, they are exhibited. To read this book attentively would be not only to learn more; it would force one to reflect in just the right way on one's own conduct.'

The Ecumenical Movement

What it is and what it does

NORMAN GOODALL

'That a second edition should be called for is the surest tribute to the value of this book. That it should contain a number of changes to bring it up to date is also a tribute to the vitality of the ecumenical movement. As a reference book this is an essential requirement. But its usefulness lies as much in its estimate of trends and prospects, difficulties and problems.'

CONGREGATIONAL MONTHLY 21s net

A Library of Protestant Thought

John Wesley

EDITED BY ALBERT C. OUTLER

A selection of John Wesley's most representative theological writings, which call attention to his sources – Anglican, patristic and biblical. Professor Outler places him in perspective against the background of Christian thought and contemporary theology, and shows that he was primarily responsible for one of the most dynamic Christian movements in the history of modern Protestantism. 52s net

The Oxford Movement

EDITED BY EUGENE R. FAIRWEATHER

The Oxford Movement, or Anglo-Catholic Revival, has been a major factor in the reshaping of the Church of England and of the entire Anglican Communion. This volume tries to introduce the main ideas and problems of the Movement, by providing a representative selection from the writings of its major theologians. 50s net

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

A Synopsis of the Gospels

The Synoptic Gospels with the Johannine Parallels

H. F. D. SPARKS, D.D.

The first English synopsis of such scope and detail, enabling the Greekless student to read through any one of the synoptic gospels continuously with the corresponding passages in the other three printed in parallel columns. Virtually a miniature concordance to gospel usage. 42s

The Pastoral Epistles

A Commentary on I and II Timothy, Titus

J. N. D. KELLY, D.D.

'A surprising, splendid, never-tedious commentary that is a challenge not only to computers, but also the critical orthodoxy . . . he has given to the clergy of this generation the standard English commentary on the Pastorals. Dr Kelly's superbly dramatic handling of the evidence (of authorship) is worthy of the importance he attaches to the verdict.' THEOLOGY 28s

Anglican and Puritan

The Basis of Their Opposition 1558-1640

JOHN F. H. NEW

A study from a fresh point of view of the long struggle between Anglicans and Puritans in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. It is right in the centre of what is still a live and controversial issue, and will have to be read by anyone seriously interested in the period. 21s

The Fathers of the Latin Church

HANS VON CAMPENHAUSEN, D.D.

A continuation in subject-matter of the Fathers of the Greek Church. The seven Fathers discussed are Tertullian, Cyprian, Lactantius, Ambrose, Jerome, Augustine and Boethius, and the author describes their characteristics and teaching within the context of their times. 30s

The Athanasian Creed

J. N. D. KELLY, D.D.

This authoritative work is the first full-length study of the Athanasian Creed to appear since the beginning of the century. Canon Kelly gives much greater prominence to its structure, literary qualities, and above all, its theology than has been usual hitherto. 18s

ADAM & CHARLES BLACK

The Text of the New Testament

Its Transmission, Corruption, and Restoration

B. M. METZGER

'... a work of outstanding importance, well worth its cost, full of interesting information not easily accessible elsewhere, and stimulating in its impact upon the mind of the student.' EXPOSITORY TIMES 42s net

The Revelation of St John the Divine

A Commentary on the English Text

AUSTIN FARRER

'The most strange and, to the modern reader, the most incomprehensible book in the New Testament is here expounded with such profound insight and appreciation that, whether or not Dr Farrer's interpretation always carries conviction, no one who studies it can fail to be stimulated to go back to the text with a new realization of the strength and beauty both of the Seer's poetic imagination and of his theology.' CHURCH TIMES 30s net

The Interpretation of the New Testament 1861-1961

STEPHEN NEILL

'... there is perhaps no one who could have written with the grace and charm which Bishop Neill has brought to his task. . . . The would-be New Testament scholar will search far before he will find a better assessment of the strength and the weakness of both the Barth and the Bultmann positions. This is a book which should be prescribed reading for all students of the New Testament.' GLASGOW HERALD 45s net

Mandell Creighton and the English Church

W. G. FALLOWS

'Anglicans would do well to cherish the memory of so doughty a champion, while those of other faiths who wish to understand the ethos of the Church of England might do well to study this short and readable book, for, as Mr Fallows truly says, "it is as an expositor of the character, mission, and destiny of the Church of England that Creighton's true greatness is revealed".'
