

Notice to Contributors

Contributions within the scope covered by the journal (see inside front cover) are invited and should be sent to either of the Editors. Electronic submission is preferred in either pdf or Word format. Greek or other non-Roman script should be submitted in a unicode font.

Normally contributions should be between 5,000 and 10,000 words in length (inclusive of footnotes and bibliography), though shorter articles will be considered.

Contributors should be sure to keep a copy of the version submitted. Articles are routinely sent to one or more referees for peer review.

Antichthon is part of the Cambridge Core Share initiative that allows authors and subscribers to generate a URL link that can be publicly shared, including on social sharing sites.

Preparation of Copy

Articles should be typed in double spacing. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively and typed in double spacing. Greek quotations should be in Greek script and not transliterated. A translation of longer passages of Greek and Latin should normally be included.

Quotations in Latin should be italicised (or underlined to indicate italics), except for long indented passages; quotations in English, French, German, etc. should be put in single inverted commas. A quotation within a quoted passage has double inverted commas. Single words or self-contained phrases (such as faute de mieux) may be italicised (or underlined to indicate italics). The following should not be italicised: ad loc., ap., c., cf., e.g., ibid., i.e., s.v., viz.
