

Chivalry

Maurice Keen

“A deep and thoughtful examination of a heavily romanticized subject. . . . In reasoned, balanced fashion, Keen explores many of the presumptions that contemporary historians make about chivalry and shows that the medieval evidence refutes them. . . . An elegantly written, important book.”

—Carolly Erickson, The Los Angeles Times Book Review 35 b/w + 18 color illus. $25.00

Biographical Truth

The Representation of Historical Persons in Tudor-Stuart Writing

Judith H. Anderson

Analyzing works from the Tudor-Stuart period, Anderson studies both the kinds of truth and fiction evident in each work and the nature of each writer's perception of their juncture.

“Provides us . . . with an effective way of comprehending the project of writing biography in a period whose conception of the role of truth in biography is quite different from our own.” —University Publishing $22.50

Exile and Change in Renaissance Literature

A. Bartlett Giamatti

Seven stimulating and rewarding essays consider two recurrent themes in Renaissance literature — the sense of exile as a precondition to identity and the preoccupation with change or mutability.

“Intriguing and suggestive.” —The Virginia Quarterly Review $14.95

Mannerism and Renaissance Poetry

Concept, Mode, and Inner Design

James V. Mirollo

This insightful book provides not only an introduction to mannerism as a theoretical concept and a historical stylistic mode but also a cogent discussion of some of its literary and artistic manifestations in the Renaissance.

“Will rank among the most important studies of Renaissance culture in the past decade.” —William J. Kennedy $20.00

Responsive Readings

Versions of Echo in Pastoral, Epic, and the Jonsonian Masque

Joseph Loewenstein

“A fascinating exploration of echo, resonance, and the acoustic or auditive aspects of literature in general, illuminating both classical and Renaissance texts. It will be a seminal study for future work on Renaissance drama and pastoral.” —Donald Cheney $17.50
