International Journal of GERIATRIC PSYCHIATRY

Aims and Scope

The rapidly increasing world population of aged people has led to a growing need to focus attention on the problems of mental disorder in late life. The aim of the journal is to communicate the results of original research in the causes, treatment and care of all forms of mental disorder which affect the elderly. The journal will be of interest to psychiatrists, psychologists, social scientists, nurses and others engaged in therapeutic professions together with basic neurobiological researchers. It is intended that the journal will provide an international perspective on this important issue. Contributions will be published from countries round the world. Topics covered will include epidemiology of mental disorders in old age, clinical aetiological research, post mortem pathological and neurochemical studies, treatment trials and evaluation of services.
