

Books for the Family

ROSEMARY HAUGHTON

The Family Book - - - - 6s.

"She is very practical about it all, prayers, church, good manners, sex-instruction and everything: tells the mother exactly what to do and puts the exact words on to her lips. A most valuable book. Indeed it would surely pay any priest to invest in a few dozen copies and sell or give them to parents with young families arriving or expected". The Sower

This book is almost a magazine, with colour illustrations by the author. We have printed a large number and believe it will sell, wherever it is displayed, to the many parents who are hungry for teaching of this sort.

The Children - - - - 8s. 6d.

Heirs of the Kingdom

"Particularly good in approach to young children and the Mass, prayer and sacraments . . . Excellent for almost any family". Doctrine and Life

"Useful to teacher in the junior school". The Sower

"I cannot recommend this book too strongly to Catholic parents". Dom Peter Damien in The Catholic World

MARY NEWLAND

We and our Children - - - - 16s.

"Strongly recommended for family and discussion groups". The Sower

"Father will not regret spending sixteen shillings". The Cross

"Combination of deep spirituality and detailed down-to-earth advice". The Universe

"Abounds in practical and modern advice . . . refreshingly cheerful style . . . able to express deep spiritual truths with great clarity and dignity. Her basic assumption is that children can understand and follow the mysteries of the faith with far more insight and love than is generally imagined by adults". The Life of the Spirit

"A book which I would advise any Catholic mother or teacher to read". The Catholic Times

Like Rosemary Haughton, Mary Newland writes from long experience of a big family.

This book will be welcomed (and argued about) by educators and everyone concerned with our response to the dangers that threaten us both from within and without.

Whom God hath not Joined

CLAIRE McCAULEY

Catholics know that divorce is impossible but also know that this can cause great hardship. Here is an account of a Catholic who married, was divorced, and re-married outside the Church but wanted to remain a Catholic. There were children from the second marriage so separation was not possible. There is an answer, for heroes, to this problem. The author made use of that answer.

Approach to the Crucified

DOM HUBERT VAN ZELLER, O.S.B.

This is the latest addition to Dom Hubert's popular Approach series. This approach is made through the Stations of the Cross, and is yet another fine example of spiritual writing without those awful baroque trimmings.
