Magomero

Portrait of an African Village

LANDEG WHITE

This historical portrait of a village in Malawi from 1859 to the present day investigates the concerns of modern African history 'from the inside'. It records the changes in the economy, in custom, in personal and political relationships. The book's heroes are ordinary men and women whose names and voices and contributions to history are resurrected here.

The Shell Money of the Slave Trade

JAN HOGENDORN and MARION JOHNSON

This study examines the role of cowrie-shell money in West African trade, particularly the slave trade. It covers the supply of cowries to traders, the devaluation caused by large-scale importation of cowries, the efforts of colonial governments to replace them by coins, and their reappearance both in the depression of the 1930s and more recently.

Social Facts and Fabrications

Customary Law on Kilimanjaro 1880-1980

SALLY FALK MOORE

Sally Falk Moore examines a hundred years in the history of an African people, the Chagga of Kilimanjaro, in order to understand how their present system of 'customary' laws came to be the way it is, and how the idea of custom is used today in the very midst of Tanzania's experiment with African socialism.

African Civilizations

Precolonial Cities and States in Tropical Africa: An Archaeological Perspective

GRAHAM CONNAH

This survey of the precolonial civilizations of the African continent presents the insights and discoveries of modern archaeology. It demonstrates the complexity and range of urban settlements and states which were a feature of precolonial societies in many parts of Africa. The origins of African civilizations, their economies, the structure of their societies and their varied nature are described with a wide selection of illustrations.

Chronicles from Gonja

A Tradition of West African Muslim Historiography

IVOR WILKS, NEHEMIA LEVTZION and BRUCE M. HAIGHT

Historians of the old kingdom of Gonja are fortunate in having access to chronicles of local authorship, written in Arabic. This book traces the development of that historiographical tradition and shows that by the eighteenth century scholars in Gonja were maintaining annals and writing down orally transmitted accounts of their history.

Horn and Crescent

Cultural Change and Traditional Islam on the East African Coast, 800-1900

RANDALL L. POWWELS

In this first major historical study of Islam among the Swahili, Randall Pouwels argues that coastal Africans adopted Islam as the spiritual vehicle best suited to their expanding intellectual needs and to meeting the opportunities presented by their physical and cultural environment.

Warriors, Merchants, and Slaves

THE STATE AND THE ECONOMY IN THE MIDDLE NIGER VALLEY, 1700–1914

---

Richard L. Roberts. Over two centuries, the region of the Middle Niger valley of the Western Sudan was dominated by three successive states: the indigenous Segu Bambara, the Islamic Umerian, and the French colonial. In each state, warriors were the rulers and the survival of the state depended on an ability to reproduce its capacity to make war; in order to do so, the warrior state intervened in the economy. The interrelationship of warfare, the state, and the economy produced different results in the three states, expanding and contracting in response to an ability to provide conditions favorable to commercial development, capital accumulation, and investment. How each state actually intervened in the economy and influenced its structure and performance is the subject of this book. $37.50

African Perspectives on Colonialism

A. Adu Boahen

"A valuable overview of the colonial period in Africa by one of the most distinguished African historians. Boahen's interpretation is not only interesting in itself, but also constitutes a significant document in the intellectual history of Africa, a statement of what Africans in the mid-1980s think about their colonial past." —Philip D. Curtin, The Johns Hopkins University

In a departure from the predominant Eurocentric points of view, A. Adu Boahen reinterprets the experience of African colonization from the standpoint of the colonized. Examining the legacies of colonialism, Boahen also assesses its social, political, economic, and psychological impact on contemporary Africa.

CONTRIBUTIONS

Contributions to the Journal are welcomed. They may be submitted in either English or French. They should not exceed about 6000 words (excluding footnotes), except with the prior approval of the Editors. A summary of the contents of the article, not exceeding about 300 words in length, should be attached on a separate sheet. Contributors are asked to observe closely the conventions listed in the Notes for Contributors, Vol. XV, pp. 173–4. It is essential that contributors observe these conventions, which may be had on request from the Editors, as the Journal now goes straight into page proof. This severely limits the number of corrections which are possible.

Page proofs will be sent, if necessary by airmail, to each contributor (or his nominee) provided that the Editors have been given an address through which he can be reached without delay. Corrections should be kept to the minimum, and should be corrections, not new material. If they are to be incorporated in the master proof corrected by the Editors, it is important that the contributor should return the page proofs, by airmail if necessary, to the Editor named when they are sent out (and not to the Cambridge University Press), within ten days of his receipt of them.

Contributors of articles and review articles receive 25 free offprints. Additional offprints may be obtained at reasonable cost, provided that they are ordered before publication on the special form sent out with the page proofs.

All contributions and books for review should be addressed to The Editors, The Journal of African History, School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, London, WC1E 7HP.
