

THE HISTORIAN EPHORUS

By G. L. BARBER

7s. 6d. net

The discussion of Ephorus (floruit 4th century B.C.) began more than a century ago and culminated in the publication in 1923 of Jacoby's collection of the fragments, but this is the first English work dealing with him specifically as a historian.

Vol. IV (the concluding Volume) in Two Parts

THE PALACE OF MINOS

A Comparative Account of the Successive Stages of the Early Cretan Civilization as illustrated by the Discoveries at Knossos

By SIR ARTHUR EVANS, D.Litt., etc., F.R.S.

With 966 figures in the Text, Plans, Coloured and Supplementary Plates.
Crown 4to. £9 9s. net.

Forty years after the beginning of the exploration it has been given to the author to complete this final volume. The work now forms a real Encyclopædia of Minoan art and culture.

"The great work is accomplished, the biggest piece of creative scholarship since the completion of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. For, different in kind as has been the life work of Sir Arthur Evans, in scale, originality, and range of learning it is comparable with that of Gibbon."—Professor W. R. Halliday (Manchester Guardian).

"It is impossible to exaggerate our debt to Sir Arthur Evans, and the æsthete as well as the archæologist will find this great book, now at last completed, packed with fascinating reproductions, and productive of curious speculations."—New Statesman and Nation.
