New Publications on International Dispute Settlement

INTERNATIONAL COMMERCIAL ARBITRATION: American Principles & Practice in a Global Context

By Jack J. Coe

Single reference source for the preparation of an arbitration or other alternative to litigation. For use throughout the process— prospectively in drafting the dispute settlement clause or after the dispute has arisen. Provides international arbitrators with information in a cogent and well-organized format. Includes up-to-date discussion of leading cases; appendices and glossaries; standard rule formulations and model texts; comprehensive bibliography. Also ideal for classroom use.

Early 1997. Approx. 700 pp. ISBN 1-57105-026-4. Prepublication price $95.00.

HANDBOOK OF WTO/GATT DISPUTE SETTLEMENT

*By Pierre Pescatore, William J. Davey
& Andreas F. Lowenfeld*

Comprehensive reference source and analysis providing: full up-to-date texts of WTO/GATT Panel Reports; a digest and summary of each Report; commentary on the Principles of WTO/GATT, its rules and dispute settlement system; a comparison of WTO/GATT to other international dispute settlement systems.

DISPUTE SETTLEMENT UNDER THE NAFTA: Manual and Source Book

By Leon E. Trakman

A working handbook for dispute resolution under the NAFTA. Part I identifies the dispute resolution procedures. Part II outlines the activities of the different NAFTA Working Groups and Committees; includes a valuable section with names, addresses, phone/fax numbers of those appointed to administer and develop the NAFTA. Part III includes pertinent provisions of the NAFTA. An excellent tool for practitioners.

Early 1997. Approx. 300 pp. ISBN 1-57105-043-4. Prepublication price $95.00.

A GUIDE TO NEGOTIATION AND MEDIATION

By Gary Goodpaster

Clearly explains how to negotiate and how best to resolve disputes through negotiation processes. The text is both theoretically informed and practical. In addition to helping readers understand conflicts and bargaining dynamics, the book explains how to negotiate within virtually any context. Also covers the techniques, uses, and limits of mediation and other forms of dispute resolution. Includes a detailed negotiation planning workform and graphic outline of the negotiation process.

Early 1997. Approx. 350 pp. ISBN 1-57105-029-9. Prepublication price $85.00.

INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF LAW LIBRARIES
UPCOMING COURSES

INTERNATIONAL HUMANITARIAN LAW
Lund, Sweden
August 24-30, 1997

Lund University will host the Association's 16th annual Course on International Law Librarianship. The theme will be international humanitarian law, including matters pertaining to immigration, asylum, and refugees. In addition to tours and other special programs, plans are to devote one day of the conference to a discussion of rare legal materials.

Detailed information will be mailed to IALL members in the Spring of 1997.

INTERNATIONAL EFFORTS TOWARDS UNIFICATION OF LAW
Rome, Italy
September, 1998

The International Institute for the Unification of Law (UNIDROIT) will host the 17th Annual Course of the Association. Planning details are as yet incomplete, but meetings will be in Rome and involve panels on Italian legal information and law librarianship as well as the principal theme of the conference.

Information about IALL activities can be obtained from Britt Kjölstad, Secretary, International Association of Law Libraries, United Nations Library B.148, Palais des Nations, 8-14 Avenue de la Paix, CH-1211 Geneva 10, Switzerland.
