

ANNOUNCEMENT

15th International Radiocarbon Conference

Glasgow, Scotland, August 15–19, 1994

The 15th International Radiocarbon Conference will be held in Glasgow in the Royal Scottish Academy of Music and Drama (RSAMD) during August 15–19, 1994. A number of specialist Workshops will be held during the preceding weekend of August 13 and 14. Broad themes of the conference will be: ^{14}C in the reconstruction of past environments; ^{14}C as a tracer of the dynamic carbon cycle in current environments; accelerator techniques; calibration of the ^{14}C timescale; ^{14}C in archaeology; advances in beta counting. Preconference whole-day workshops will cover: PAGES (past global changes) chronologies; carbon in the oceans; AMS sample preparation; tephra studies and radiocarbon dating; ^{14}C in soils; archaeology; TIRI (Third International Radiocarbon Intercomparison); liquid scintillation counting. The deadline for submission of abstracts is December 31, 1993.
