"Intelligently organized by period, topic, location, and industry or craft, the book offers the reader more than seven thousand well-chosen entries"—William E. Leuchtenburg, William Rand Kenan Professor, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

AMERICAN WORKING CLASS HISTORY

A Representative Bibliography

Compiled by Maurice F. Neufeld, Professor of Industrial Relations, New York State School of Labor and Industrial Relations, Cornell University; Daniel J.

Leab, Professor of History, Seton Hall University; and Dorothy Swanson, Head Librarian, Tamiment Institute Library of New York University

AMERICAN WORKING CLASS HISTORY is a central source of bibliographic information for the fields of labor history, industrial relations, urban affairs, economics, and allied subject areas. It contains over 7,000 entries representing a vast range of materials in a variety of print and nonprint media: popular and technical books; scholarly monographs; novels and plays; magazine articles; union documents; management reports; state/federal legislation; dissertations; research-in-progress; government reports; periodicals; bibliographies; films; and more.

This bibliographic reference spans the history of American labor from colonial times to the present.

And 75 subject headings permit access: chronologically, geographically, by union, by industry, or by special interest (women, minorities, etc.). An author index is also included to facilitate reference.

THE INDUSTRIALIZATION OF SOVIET RUSSIA

VOLUME IV: THE SOVIET ECONOMY IN TURMOIL, 1929-1930

R.W. Davies

In the "spinal year" of the first five-year plan, a vast investment program began the transformation of the Soviet Union from a peasant country into a great industrial power. The third volume of this unrivaled series reexamines the breakdown of the mixed economy.

Praise for the series:

"Eminently readable...A major contribution to the search for a fuller understanding of the roots of domestic Stalinism and the problems of Soviet agriculture."

THE HISTORY OF FOREIGN INVESTMENT IN THE UNITED STATES TO 1914

Mira Wilkins

This new book by Mira Wilkins provides the first complete history of foreign investment in the United States from the colonial era to 1914. It shows why the United States was so attractive to foreign investors and traces the changing role of foreign capital in the nation's development, covering both portfolio and direct investment.

AGRARIAN RADICALISM IN CHINA, 1968-1981

David Zweig

"Zweig...does a masterful job of lifting the veil on the political struggles over agricultural policy during and immediately after the Cultural Revolution. His carefully documented portrait of this period is critical to an understanding of the rapid abandonment of collectivization that occurred when this era of radicalism ended. His book is the definitive work on the subject."

The Generous Corporation

A Political Analysis of Economic Power

Neil J. Mitchell

Why do American businesses finance pension plans, life insurance, and medical programs for their employees? Why do they build hospitals, invest in low-cost housing, and contribute to charities? In this book Neil J. Mitchell argues that corporations are political institutions and realize that they must justify their power. In a detailed study of Fortune 500 companies, he shows that as firms become more visible and powerful, their social activities increase and that the more unpopular industries—tobacco, oil, chemicals—are the most socially involved.

“A meaningful contribution to the literature of the corporation.”

—Peter Bachrach $18.50

CONTROL THROUGH COMMUNICATION

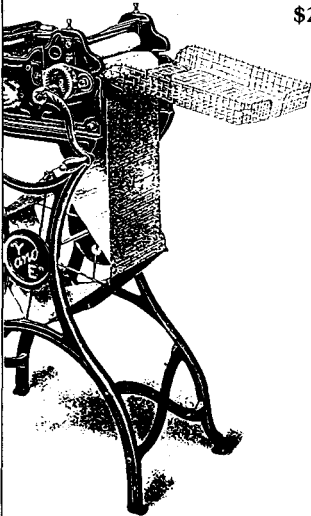

The Rise of System in American Management

JoAnne Yates

From 1850 to 1920 rapid growth forced America's businesses to replace informal, largely oral management methods with more systematic ones based on written communication. JoAnne Yates shows how quill pens and pigeonholes gave way to the typewriters, duplicators, and filing systems that helped the modern corporation evolve to its present form.

Intercity Bus Lines of the Southwest

A Photographic History

Jack Rhodes

From company records, newspaper accounts, and letters, and drawing on extensive interviews with bus-line personnel, Jack Rhodes constructs a chronicle of wildcatters; struggles with railroads; and efforts to improve highways and rural roads, insurance and safety standards, and service to the public through the Depression and two world wars. Jim Lehrer, MacNeill/Lehrer Newshour, says "[Rhodes] tells the stories of visionaries with spirit and grit." 176 pp. 80 b&w photos. $22.50

A History of the American Rice Industry, 1685-1985

Henry C. Dethloff

Using many original manuscript documents, Henry C. Dethloff traces the development of American rice from a lucrative colonial cash crop to a modern, mechanized industry closely tied to the political vagaries of the world and its markets. He tells why American rice has been primarily an export product and analyzes how changing technology and political environments at home and abroad have made it a volatile commodity. 232 pp. 4 b&w photos. 9 tables. $29.50

Announcing a monumental series

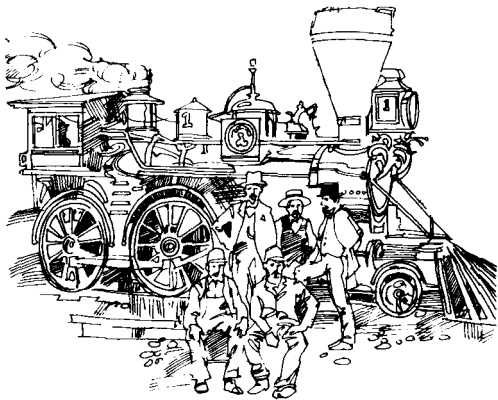

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA

BUSINESS HISTORY

In this groundbreaking new joint publishing venture by Facts on File and Bruccoli Clark Layman, hundreds of professional historians have drawn from a variety of sources — printed, oral, corporate — to narrate a vast and neglected chapter in American civilization: the story of America's business and industry.

From the joint East-West push to link the nation with a transcontinental railroad, to the drive to put a man on the Moon, there is no other series of volumes available that provides the depth and range of information on historical background, technology, legislation, biography, bibliography, and other supporting material. No library in America will be considered complete without this one-of-a-kind encyclopedia series.

Each of the 50 independent volumes is organized by industry or business field with an emphasis on biography. The biographies are augmented by entries devoted to histories of firms, technological processes, influential legislation, and related background topics. The Encyclopedia of American Business History and Biography is the first series of its kind with such features as:

- Broad coverage of business topics.
- Complete coverage of subject, volume by volume.
- A 10,000-word historical essay introducing each volume.
- Generous illustrations.
- Edited and written by noted authorities in the field of business history.
- Each volume fully indexed and cross-referenced with a cumulative index for the series.
- Biographical sources provided for each entry.

Newcomen Awards in Business History

For the best article published in the Business History Review during the previous year the Society will award a prize of $300 and a scroll. For the best article published in the Business History Review during the previous year by a graduate student or a recent Ph. D. who has not published a book in business history, the Society will award a special prize of $150 and a scroll. Criteria for selection include originality, value, breadth and interest of contribution, quality of research materials and methods, and quality of presentation.

Winners will be selected by a panel of judges consisting of the editors and the members of the editorial board of the Business History Review, none of whom shall be eligible to receive a prize. The awards are administered by the editorial office of the Review. No special prize will be awarded in years when, in the opinion of the judges, no eligible article suitable for the prize was published, and no person may be awarded both prizes in any one year.
