JOIN THE WORLD ASSOCIATION FOR DISASTER AND EMERGENCY MEDICINE

*Your esteemed colleagues throughout the world are working together to forge a new direction for this,
the most exciting and humanitarian branch of medicine.
(Founded in 1976 as The Club of Mainz)*

The Club of Mainz was founded on 02 October 1976 with the goal of improving the worldwide delivery of prehospital and emergency care during everyday and mass disaster emergencies. The founding members were renowned researchers, practitioners, and teachers of acute care medicine who joined together to focus their energies on the scientific, educational, and clinical aspects of immediate care.

Following the constant development of its scope and extension worldwide, and to better reflect its nature, the organization's name was changed to The World Association for Disaster and Emergency Medicine (WADEM).

While WADEM has grown over the years, the founding principles have remained the same. Our members continue to work actively to solve scientific, technical, and political problems surrounding the management of emergency incidents. Through their dedication, and with your help, if you will join us, we can better provide pioneering solutions and meaningful change in our disaster-ridden world.

Bringing Simulation to Life

SimMan®

There is a growing awareness that health care is behind other high risk operations in its attention to ensuring basic safety and that there is a need to grasp the scale of the problem ^(1,2).

Use of patient simulation is considered an important part of the solution as many scenarios can be presented including uncommon but critical situations where a rapid response is needed. Errors can be allowed to occur and reach their conclusion without any risk to a patient. Team member interactions and leadership can also be explored and developed.

Two manikin-based simulators from Laerdal, SimMan® and AirMan®, represent a new generation of affordable and portable solutions to meet these needs.
