EDITORIAL POLICY

The British Journal of Political Science is an independent journal, whose policy is set by its editorial board. It is committed to no methodological orthodoxy over and above the normal canons of scholarship: clear and consistent use of words, logical and mathematical validity, and the use of appropriate evidence to substantiate empirical statements. Contributions are invited in all fields of political science. Work addressed to problems of general significance to students of politics will be published whatever the period(s) or place(s) drawn upon for evidence.

The Decline of Class Voting in Britain

Changes in the Basis of Electoral
Choice, 1964–1983

Mark N. Franklin

This is the definitive study of changes that have occurred in British party and electoral politics since 1964.

'Franklin's well-crafted and subtle book focuses on two questions: Has Class voting in Britain declined since the 1960s? If so, why and with what consequences? Anybody wishing to understand the complexities of the issues at stake will finish the book well rewarded.' American Political Science Review

'A model of how social research should be conducted' The Economist

'Franklin makes a serious effort to achieve readability while using complex statistical methods and merits the attention of advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students.' Parliamentary Affairs

For those who really want to know what is happening in the world today

READ THE WORLD TODAY

THE WORLD TODAY, currently in its 44th year, is the monthly journal of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, Chatham House, London. It is a unique magazine of international politics. It covers the broad issues alongside the small ones. It covers the internal politics of countries you don't hear much about, from the inside out. It opens up questions for the scholar and fills in gaps for the general reader. And it takes a balanced point of view.

THE WORLD TODAY contains articles, commentaries and book reviews on topics of current interest. Recent articles have been on reform in China, ethics and the nuclear future, Fiji in crisis, Kampuchea and peace prospects in Indochina, farm policy and SDI.

'THE WORLD TODAY is thoroughly researched and clearly written. It provides valuable background information and its choice of subjects is catholic and intelligent.'

Rupert Pennant-Rea, editor of The Economist

'THE WORLD TODAY is topical, to the point, a good halfway house between daily and weekly press and academic journals. I read it for useful background and insights.'

Andrew Knight, chief executive of the Daily Telegraph

'THE WORLD TODAY taps the best available expertise on international subjects. I recommend it to anyone who wants a greater depth and specialist expertise on a range of topics of current interest.'

John Tusa, Managing Director, BBC External Services

A major new project

Politics: A Work in Constructive Social Theory

ROBERTO MANGABEIRA UNGER

Politics is a major work in social theory which offers a radical alternative to Marxism. It aims to carry forward the radical project of establishing institutions that empower us more because they divide us less.

Politics currently comprises three books:

Social Theory: Its Situation and its Task

A Critical Introduction to Politics: A Work in Constructive Social Theory

This introduces the project and shows how criticism and self-criticism of classical and contemporary social theory generates material for an alternative practice of social understanding.

263 pp. 0 521 32974 4 Hard covers £25.00 net
0 521 33862 X Paperback £8.95 net

False Necessity

Anti-necessitarian Social Theory in the Service of Radical Democracy

Part 1 of Politics: A Work in Constructive Social Theory

The explanatory part of this centrepiece of Politics develops a view of social change and invention that accounts for the distinctive content of contemporary institutions and shows how we can remake them. The programmatic part describes the form of governmental and economic organisation best suited to advance liberal and socialist commitments.

666 pp. 0 521 32975 2 Hard covers £40.00 net
0 521 33863 8 Paperback £13.95 net

Plasticity into Power

Comparative-historical Studies on the Institutional Conditions of Economic and Military Success

Variations on Themes of Politics: A Work in Constructive Social Theory

This develops, through wide-ranging historical examples, a major theme of False Necessity, the relation between the flexibility of social arrangements and the development of our collective capacity to produce or destroy.
