

Schumpeter

A B I O G R A P H Y

Richard Swedberg

"Richard Swedberg's biography of Joseph Schumpeter (1883-1950) thoughtfully uncovers different layers of the eminent economist's personality. There was Schumpeter the haughty Austrian, fond of women and champagne, who went into debt to rent a castle and keep a riding stable. (The year was 1919; Austria was gripped by postwar inflation; Schumpeter was finance minister. The Government caught him in an intrigue and fired him.) There was Schumpeter the Viennese neurotic, who prayed to the ghosts of his dead wife and mother, who may have killed himself with overwork and who scribbled down savage, funny aphorisms. But the most important Schumpeter was the learned, perceptive, eloquent thinker who shaped our modern understanding of economics. Mr. Swedberg has produced a lucid, readable study"—The New York Times Book Review

"With his capes, spats and silk shirts, he could have stepped out of an old Hollywood movie as Douglas Fairbanks's aristocratic Austrian sidekick. But Schumpeter was not just a dandy. He was also the most learned economist of this century."—The Wall Street Journal

Nationalism and Empire

The Habsburg Monarchy and the Soviet Union

Edited by Richard L. Rudolph and David F. Good

"The reader will come away with a broader and historically enriched sense of what happened . . ." — Foreign Affairs

This book studies the problems of domination and nationalism in the two great, multi-ethnic land empires – the Soviet Union and the Habsburg Empire. Using an interdisciplinary, comparative approach, this volume examines the current Soviet crisis in the light of both the Habsburg experience and the Soviet crisis in the early twentieth century.

Austrian Politics and Society Today

In Defence of Austria

John Fitzmaurice; with a foreword by Bruno Kreisky

Critics have both negatively criticized Austria and praised them as being a middle ground between capitalism and marxism. This book seeks to steer a middle road between these extremes and to show that the Austrian model of social democracy has worked.

Austria-Hungary and the Origins of the First World War

Samuel R. Williamson, Jr.

The Making of the Twentieth Century

Based on extensive new archival research, this book traces the gradual militarization of Austro-Hungarian foreign policy during the Balkan Wars. Williamson also describes Russia's assertive foreign policy after 1912 and stresses the unique linkages of domestic and foreign policy in almost every issue faced by Habsburg statesmen.

The City and the Crown Vienna and the Imperial Court, 1600–1740 by John P. Spielman

"Prof. Spielman combines the two basic approaches to the rise of the modern Habsburg Monarchy in an understated but masterful way. He documents the emergence of the bureaucracy not only by pointing out the increase in numbers but also by discussing in detail the need for Vienna to provide housing for these officials. Then he shows how the court encouraged the city's property owners to increase the size of their houses and, not incidentally, to do so in the Baroque style that would bring glory to the city as a whole. . . . For anyone who knows Vienna, this book is a must."—Karl A. Roeder, Jr.

“Our Famous Guest” Mark Twain in Vienna

Carl Dolmetsch

“Carl Dolmetsch shows in loving detail how Mark Twain’s twenty months in Vienna pushed his disillusionment to extremes. This account of a turning point in Twain’s career could well become a turning point in American appreciation of Vienna 1900.”—

Austria Since 1945

Edited by William E. Wright

This volume contains the papers presented at the first annual symposium hosted by the Center in May 1977. They deal with political, economic, and cultural developments in the Second Republic of Austria. The main theme is the stark contrast between Austria's ill-fated evolution after 1919 and her political stability and rapid growth after World War II. Includes articles by William Johnston, Fritz Fellner, Helga Leitner, and Egon Schwarz.

Working Papers in Austrian Studies

The Center for Austrian Studies serves scholars who study the politics, society, economy, and culture of modern Austria and of Habsburg Central Europe. It encourages comparative studies involving Austria or the Habsburg lands and other European states. The working paper series seeks to stimulate discussion in the field and to provide a vehicle for circulating work in progress. It is open to all papers prior to final publication, but gives priority to papers by affiliates of the Center or by scholars who have given seminars or attended conferences at the Center.

The editors of the series are David Good and Randall Kindley. If you would like to have a paper considered for inclusion in the series, please contact the editors at the Center for Austrian Studies.
