

New Books from Greenwood for the Economic Historian

PATERNALISM AND PROTEST:
Southern Cotton Mill Workers and Organized Labor, 1875-1905

by Melton A. McLaurin
University of South Alabama

$11.00

This study offers evidence to refute the entrenched view that Southern mill operatives rejected the overtures of organized labor and shows how management's shrewd use of social, economic, and political pressures ended serious organizational efforts in the South until World War I.

(Contributions in Economics and Economic History, No. 3)

BUSINESS AND POLITICS IN AMERICA FROM THE AGE OF
JACKSON TO THE CIVIL WAR:
The Career Biography of
W. W. Corcoran

by Henry Cohen, Loyola University, Chicago

$13.50

The complex combination of factors that shaped the financial and political policies of the U. S. during the 1840s and 1850s are shown to be inextricably entwined with the activities of the entrepreneur, W. W. Corcoran, whose intricate web of business-government relationships thrust him into a dominant position of national power and influence.

(Contributions in Economics and Economic History, No. 4)

THE DECLINE AND ABOLITION OF NEGRO
SLAVERY IN VENEZUELA,
1820-1854

by John V. Lombardi
Indiana University

$11.00

A case study of the operation and demise of slavery in a country not dominated by the institution, with special attention given to the place of the slave in the national economy and his role in Venezuelan society.

(Contributions in Afro-American and African Studies, No. 7)

TRANSPORTATION TO THE SEABOARD: The
"Communication Revolution"
and American Foreign Policy, 1860-1900

by Howard B. Schonberger
Hampton Institute

$10.50

Departing from the usual considerations of domestic politics or the growth of the economy, this book puts into historical perspective America's post-Civil War struggle for world power, with full documentation of the dynamic interrelation of transportation, foreign trade, and the emergence of U. S. influence throughout the world.

(Contributions in American History, No. 8)

HORACE WHITE,
NINETEENTH CENTURY LIBERAL

by Joseph Logsdon
Lehigh University

$13.50

Through the career of Horace White, a prominent Republican and editor-in-chief of the Chicago Tribune, this book reassesses both the rise and fall of radical republicanism and the causes for disillusionment among nineteenth-century laissez-faire intellectuals.

(Contributions in American History, No. 10)

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS IN
THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO: A History of Their Relations

by Harvey A. Levenstein
*Teachers College
Columbia University*

$10.00

The first thorough treatment of the relationship that developed between Mexican and United States labor organizations from the rise of the Mexican trade union movement in 1907 to the present.

(Contributions in American History, No. 13)

GREENWOOD PUBLISHING COMPANY

51 Riverside Avenue, Westport, Connecticut 06880

THE IMPACT OF LABOUR 1920-1924

The Beginning of Modern British Politics

MAURICE COWLING

A study of British politics and politicians in the early 1920's when the Conservative Party made three long-term decisions: to remove Lloyd George from office, to take up the role of "defender of the social order," and to make Labour the chief party of opposition.

Mr Cowling concentrates on "the high politics of the politicians who mattered," and examines all three major political parties in detail. $17.50

THE RISE OF FREE TRADE IMPERIALISM

BERNARD SEMMEL

Professor Semmel uncovers certain intellectual origins of the imperialism of the classic period, the sources from which later theories of imperialism were constructed, and describes the ideology that was behind the dismantling of the old colonial system and the creation of the Victorian Pax Britannica. He regards the 1750-1850 period as one in which the foundations of a new imperialism were formulated. $11.50

RURAL ECONOMY AND SOCIETY IN THE DUCHY OF CORNWALL 1300-1500

JOHN HATCHER

This account is based on a full and hitherto neglected series of records for the manorial estates of the Duchy of Cornwall. They describe many aspects of the regional economy, in particular tin mining, fisheries, port development, and towns and local industry. Dr Hatcher draws extensively on these records to illustrate changes in the agrarian economy and rural society.

$16.00

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

32 East 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10022

Cambridge Latin American Studies

AN ECONOMIC HISTORY OF COLOMBIA 1845-1930

WILLIAM PAUL MCGREEVEY

Between 1850 and 1930 several countries in Latin America became increasingly dependent on foreign trade. Professor McGreevey examines internal change and external impacts on the economy of Colombia during the period, paying particular attention to the influence of trade on the economic welfare of merchants, artisans and coffee cultivators. He shows why Colombia remains one of the less developed countries.

$10.95

MINERS AND MERCHANTS IN BOURBON MEXICO 1763-1810

D. A. BRADING

A detailed analysis of the political and economic development of Mexico during the period of the silver mining boom, the chief success of José de Gálvez's policy of reform.

Professor Brading examines the structure of commerce and silver production and the role of Spanish immigration, discusses the families and fortunes created in the export economy, and studies Mexico's principal mining town, Guajuato.

$16.50

POLITICS AND TRADE IN SOUTHERN MEXICO 1750-1821

BRIAN R. HAMNETT

The relationship between the Spanish government and the trade and politics of southern Mexico (in particular the province of Oaxaca) during the colonial period is examined in this work.

Professor Hamnett traces the efforts of the Spanish Crown and the episcopal authorities to secure observation of the laws of the Indies, and discusses the effects of the eighteenth-century Bourbon reforms and of the Mexican Independence movement of 1810-1821.

$12.50

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

32 East 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10022

MONEY AND MONETARY POLICY IN COMMUNIST CHINA

KATHARINE HUANG HSIAO. This work is the first comprehensive study of monetary economics in Communist China. Based on source materials published in the Chinese mainland, the book examines the role and structure of money and banking, the nature of monetary policy, and how well the monetary mechanism has helped to control the inflation generated by a rapid rate of economic development.

Studies of the East Asian Institute, Columbia University

$12.50

ENTERPRISE DENIED:

Origins of the Decline of the American Railroads, 1897-1917

ALBRO MARTIN. A sympathetic yet uncompromising revision of traditional ideas about the triumph of Progressive reform as applied to the railroads. This volume chronicles a tragedy for the American people whose hopes for the superb transportation system which an advanced technology and an amazingly vital railroad management stood fully ready to realize in 1906 were permanently blighted by the total failure of government regulation.

Winner of the first annual Columbia University Prize in Economic History in Honor of Allan Nevins.

$10.95

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY PRESS

Address for orders: 135 So. Broadway, Irvington, N.Y. 10533
In Canada: McGill-Queen's University Press, 3458 Redpath St.,

HARPER TORCHBOOKS

Steeped in Two Cultures

A Selection of Essays
by FRITZ
REDLICH

"In the academic world Fritz Redlich belongs among those rare scholars whose work has influenced intellectual life on more than one continent. He has not only made significant contributions to the historiography of economics and business life in the Old World, of which he himself is a product: he has also given us the finest study of the history of banking in the United States that we possess. The essays in this book . . . will be especially rewarding to those who, like Fritz Redlich, are essentially interested in intellectual history, in the kernel of ideas underlying the structure of events."—STUART BRUCHEY

TB/1637 $3.45

Cloth TLE/61 $9.00

At your bookseller

Harper & Row

1817 Paperback Dept. 128, 49 E. 33d St., New York, N.Y. 10016

Economic Change in Thailand, 1850-1970

James C. Ingram. This new edition of a work first published in 1955 contains two new chapters on the extensive developments of the past two decades. It remains the only comprehensive account in any language of the economic history of Thailand during the century following its emergence from isolation. $10.00

The Prussian Bureaucracy in Crisis, 1840-1860

ORIGINS OF AN ADMINISTRATIVE ETHOS. John R. Gillis. Prussian civil service has long been considered the prototype of all modern governmental bureaucracies. This book concerns the impact of the Revolution of 1848-49 on the evolution of civil service in Germany and upon the bureaucracy as a social group. $8.75

Petroleum and the Nigerian Economy

Scott R. Pearson. The author discusses the international petroleum industry in Nigeria, analyzes the effects of private foreign investment on less developed countries, and considers the political implications of petroleum in Nigeria and the future of the Nigerian economy. $8.75

Stanford University Press

The New Economics and the Old Economists

J. Ronnie Davis

Voicing a new point of view in the "Keynes versus the Classics" debate, Davis shows that leading U.S. economists did not prescribe for the Depression of the thirties what has come to be understood as the "classical" depression policy—the reduction of money wages. They instead took the typically Keynesian position that aggregate demand had to be increased, preferably through public expenditures financed by bond issues.

Davis provides a historically documented account of the policy prescriptions advanced by leading U.S. economists during the late 1920s and early 1930s, prior to the publication of Keynes's General Theory. Out of the historical evidence emerges a new image not only of the old economists but also of the place of the general theory in the evolution of the fiscal policy paradigm now identified with the new economics.

September, 150 pages, #1165, $5.95

Iowa State University Press
128 Press, Ames, Iowa 50010

BACK ISSUES WANTED

The Economic History Association will pay $3.00 a copy for the following back issues:

March 1970

September 1970

March 1968

June 1968

September 1968

Send to Herman E. Krooss,
100 Trinity Place, New York, New York 10006

from HARPER & ROW

American Economic Growth
An Economist's History of the United States

By LANCE E. DAVIS, California Institute of Technology;
RICHARD A. EASTERLIN, University of Pennsylvania;
WILLIAM N. PARKER, Yale University;
DOROTHY S. BRADY, University of Pennsylvania;
ALBERT FISHLOW, University of California, Berkeley;
ROBERT E. GALLMAN, University of North Carolina;
STANLEY LEBERGOTT, Wesleyan University;
ROBERT E. LIPSEY, National Bureau of Economic Research;
DOUGLASS C. NORTH, University of Washington;
NATHAN ROSENBERG, University of Wisconsin;
EUGENE SMOLENSKY, University of Wisconsin; and
PETER TEMIN, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

An integrated and comprehensive study of aspects of American economic history by twelve recognized authorities in the field. Insights and arguments drawn from the authors' own quantitative research and that of others are combined with much of the standard literature on institutional and narrative history. Each author treats one or two of the important aspects of American economic development since the Revolution, delineating significant features and, when possible, bringing interpretations up to the present day. January, 1972. Tentative: 896 pp.; $12.95.

The Reinterpretation of American Economic History

Edited by ROBERT W. FOGEL, University of Chicago and University of Rochester, and
STANLEY L. ENGERMAN,
University of Rochester

In this unique supplementary reader, the basic analytical tools introduced in principles and intermediate theory courses are set forth and applied to concrete aspects of the development of the American economy (e.g., the elementary Keynesian model of national income determination to the New Deal fiscal policies). Foreword by Daniel J. Boorstin. Editors' introduction to each part. 1971. 494 pp.; $12.95.

European Economic History

Tenth Century to the Present

By ELIAS H. TUMA,
University of California, Davis

A well-documented analysis covering all of Europe, including Russia, Eastern Europe, and the Scandinavian countries. Comparison of economic change in various countries, including developments in the western hemisphere, receives particular attention. Arranged topically rather than by countries, the book is also a provocative evaluation of the scope, method, and relevance of economic history that integrates new and traditional approaches and incorporates much recent statistical data. 1971. 384 pp.; $12.95.

1817

For more information on these and our other texts write Dept. 275(C).

Harper & Row, Publishers, Inc.
49 East 33d Street, New York 10016

THE
ECONOMIC HISTORY
ASSOCIATION

The Economic History Association was organized in 1940. Its purpose is to encourage research and teaching in the history of economic activity and of economic thought. It seeks to cooperate with societies devoted to the study of agricultural, industrial, and business history. It aims to bring together economists, historians, statisticians, geographers, and others who find that the story of economic change throws light on their field of interest or is enriched by their contribution. Membership is open to all who are interested in the history of economic life in all its phases in the United States and other countries.

THE JOURNAL OF ECONOMIC HISTORY is published for The Economic History Association by the Graduate School of Business Administration of New York University. Correspondence concerning contributions to the JOURNAL should be addressed to the editorial office: Robert E. Gallman, Editor, Department of Economics, Carroll Hall, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina 27514. Applications for membership should be addressed to Herman E. Krooss, Treasurer, in care of New York University, 100 Trinity Place, New York, New York 10006.

Property of

TREASURY DEPARTMENT LIBRARY