The God of the Philosophers

Anthony Kenny

This book is a revised and abbreviated version of the Wilde Lectures in Natural Religion given in Oxford in 1970–72. It is a philosophical study of some of the principal attributes traditionally ascribed to God in western theism. It deals in detail with the problem of the relations between divine foreknowledge and human freedom. The author concludes that there can be no such being as the God of traditional natural theology. £5.50

The Theological Papers of John Henry Newman

On Biblical Inspiration and On Infallibility

Edited by J. Derek Holmes

This second volume of hitherto unpublished papers from the Newman Archive at the Birmingham Oratory is a collection of the drafts and outlines of two works projected by Newman on the inspiration of scripture and papal infallibility. Although tentative and incomplete, they contain valuable insights and show Newman's mind at work on two crucial theological subjects. £7.25

Prophets and Millennialists

The Uses of Biblical Prophecy in England
from the 1790s to the 1840s

W. H. Oliver

The scope of this book is defined by its sub-title. The author's thesis is that millennialism was a normal and sober mode of thought among theological writers at this time with a strong influence on social thought. This is sustained with a study of the writings of Joseph Priestley, Thomas Newton, Henry Drummond, J. H. Newman, John Keble, Robert Owen, Richard Carlisle, and others. £10.50

The Letters of John of Salisbury

Volume II: The Later Years (1163–1180)

Translated and edited by W. J. Millor S.J., and C. N. L. Brooke

This unique collection of letters portrays the life and times of one who, in the words of a contemporary, 'was a man of much learning, great eloquence and profound wisdom, and, what is more than all these things, firmly established in the fear and love of God.' John of Salisbury was the devoted secretary of Archbishop Theobald, the faithful friend and counsellor of Thomas à Becket, and one of the greatest of medieval scholars. £35

Oxford Medieval Texts

Tales and Teachings of the BUDDHA

The Jātaka Stories in Relation to the Pali Canon

John Garrett Jones

The first systematic, comprehensive survey of the immensely popular Theravada Jātaka stories in relation to the teaching embodied in the Pali Canon. A scholarly but readable account to discover both the extent of the 'Buddhist' content of the Tales and also the relationship of this content to canonical teaching.

Valuable data for students of the psychology and sociology of religion as well as for readers with a general interest in Eastern religions or folklore.

New Books

Truth is Two-Eyed

John A. T. Robinson

Exploring the unfamiliar world of the Hindu doctrines of God, the place of evil in the universe, the significance of history and the role of the Christ, Dr Robinson shows how Christian doctrines can be both challenged and illuminated by interaction with new perspectives.

(November) £4.95

The Future of Creation

Jurgen Moltmann

The essays collected in this volume are grouped round two main themes: the future of our world and its nature as God's creation.

(November) £6.95

Explorations in Theology 6

Don Cupitt

A provocative collection of papers from one of the more radical English theologians, which includes such diverse subjects as heart transplants, exorcism, Darwinism and the significance of Jesus.

(November) £3.95

Protestant and Roman Catholic Ethics

James M. Gustafson

Examines the area of divergence between Protestant and Roman Catholic ethics, traces recent developments in the two systems, and indicates movement towards a central area of reconciliation.

(November) £3.95

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions and books for review should be sent to the Editor, Professor H. D. Lewis, King's College, Strand, London, WC2R 2LS.
2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 10,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should normally be in English.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. The typescript should be prepared to accord as closely as possible with the typographical conventions of the journal.
5. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
6. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
8. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorises otherwise.
9. All contributors of articles receive 50 free offprints. Reviewers will receive five or more offprints of their reviews.
10. If rejected manuscripts are to be returned, stamps or international coupons should be sent to cover postage, but it would normally be simpler just to retain a copy.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
