Manuscripts

The China Quarterly welcomes the submission of manuscripts from scholars, including research students, on all aspects of contemporary China and from all points of view, including those which deal with Taiwan and the Overseas Chinese. Articles on China prior to 1949 are also welcome, particularly, but not exclusively, when these relate directly to contemporary China or to the history of the Chinese Communist Party. Articles should be submitted, in triplicate, to the editorial office. They should be typed in double spacing, footnotes being placed at the end of the article; preferably conform to the styling of The China Quarterly; and normally not exceed 8–10,000 words in length. A style sheet is available upon request. Submission of a manuscript is taken to imply that it has not previously been published and that it is not currently being considered elsewhere.

The China Quarterly is published by the Contemporary China Institute of the School of Oriental and African Studies, London University. The views expressed in articles are those of individual authors and do not necessarily represent the views of the Contemporary China Institute.

Published for the first time—

Confidential U.S. State Department Central Files

CHINA:
INTERNAL AND FOREIGN AFFAIRS,
1950–1954

This is a monumental event which adds new dimensions to the study of China. The availability of these Central Files could open a new era of intensive multi-archival research on China.

—Dr. Immanuel C.Y. Hsu

Professor of History

University of California, Santa Barbara

The Communist victory in China (1949) brought to power revolutionaries committed to fundamental change in every aspect of China's political, social, and economic life. Now available for the first time, the U.S. State Department Central Files for China from 1950 through 1954 are the definitive source of diplomatic reporting on China's postwar reconstruction, the consolidation of power by the Communist Party, industrial and agricultural modernization, the impact of the Korean War, relations with the Soviets, and China's international position. Published in cooperation with the National Archives and Records Administration, and available only from UPA, the State Department Central Files on China from 1950 through 1954 illuminate this transitional era in extensive detail. No other collection matches the historical range, the in-depth analysis, and the exhaustive treatment of these files.

These records are indispensable for professors and students who are interested in China. It will be a boon to researchers to have access to the State Department's voluminous files in one convenient microfilm collection.
